Federal Red Tape May Slow Process

Hope To Begin Acquiring Land For Nature Preserve

by BOB ANDERSEN

If federal "red tape" doesn't prove too binding, it is possible a project to establish a 221-acre nature area in Schaumburg could get under way this year.

It is possible land acquisition negotiations "can be started by the end of the year" depending on federal cooperation, said Ellsworth Meineke yesterday, chairman of the Spring Valley Nature Restoration Committee.

Meineke unveiled a report outlining the nature restoration project at Tuesday's meeting of the village board. Included on the seven-member committee who prepared the report are Mayor Robert O. Atcher and Paul Derda, director of the Schaumburg Park District.

The nature tract extends about a mile along the west branch of Salt Creek and sits on the north and south sides of Schaumburg Road. Most of the land, about 170 acres, is south of Schaumburg Road, Meineke said. All the land is in the Schaumburg Park District.

TO ASSIST IN purchasing the 221 acres, currently privately owned, the committee is hoping for federal matching funds, preferably from the Bureau of Outdoor Recreation (BOR). Meineke said he will shortly be preparing an application for the matching funds.

Though anticipating an "awful lot of red tape," Meineke said, if federal reaction is speedy and favorable, the negotiations could begin in five or six months.

An especially appetizing aspect of the BOR funds is that, if the village can encourage owners to donate some of the 221 acres, BOR will match the cash value of the donation, Meineke said. He added there is an "indication" some of the land may be donated.

As presently planned the park district would hold title to the land and do all the developing, it was stated in the plan presented by Meineke. The chairman added that details of local financing to match the hoped-for federal funds must still be worked out.

The nature preserve will "have a quiet, secluded place for the study of plants, animals and birds in their natural habitats," the report stated.

"It is a bird sanctuary now which is visited by Audubon groups," the report also stated. Additionally there are various kinds of wildlife there. "Over fifteen species of trees and many wild flowers grow in the valley."

"Other uses will be hiking, nature photography, geology and enjoyment of the beauty of nature, songs of birds, sounds of animals and the scent of trees and flowers," the report continued.

"When restored, it will be possible to walk through wooded areas and prairies as they were when the first settlers arrived about 140 years ago," the report said.

A SPECIAL FEATURE of the nature center is a large gravel pit formed by glacial movements millions of years ago. The pit is large enough for geologic study, a fair size recreation lake and an outdoor bowl for shows, pageants, concerts, etc.

As contemplated, the nature area will be a cooperative project with the village of Schaumburg assisting in obtaining the land and helping the Schaumburg Park District in working with adjacent land developers to get proper access to the nature trails and landscaping.

There is a possibility, Meineke continued, that an additional parcel of land in Elk Grove Village, maybe 100 to 150 acres, contiguous to the proposed nature area might also be included.

There are problems still to be resolved in securing the additional acres which make it impossible to include it in the first phase of development, he added.

Flooded Residents Want Action

The subject of flooded basements consumed approximately two hours of Tuesday's Schaumburg Village Board meeting.

The principal "consumers" were residents along Cabot Lane in the Campanelli subdivision, residents in the area of Hickory Lane in Timbercrest subdivision and a resident complaining of flooding along Standish Lane.

The residents, about 10 in all, complained mainly about flooded basements and sewage-littered lawns a result of the recent heavy rains.

They concurred that flooding isn't a one-time thing but has been a recurring event in the past years. They demanded affirmative action from the trustees.

TOM SCHUETTE, 1323 W. Cabot Ln., complained of "at least 10 floodings in the last 12 months."

He said his neighbors along Cabot Lane have experienced similar problems. He referred to "sewage coming through his toilet and drainage problems."

A resident living along Hickory Lane in the Timbercrest subdivision complained of "18 inches (of water) in my basement."

The resident, who requested his name not be used, also reported he thinks his "home has settled" because of the recurring flooding. After this siege of downpours, he complained of "water lapping at the window, sewage flooding and water seeping in his walls." The residents said his situation is not untypical of experiences of other residents in the subdivision.

VERN Laubenstein, supervisor of the Schaumburg Township Board of Auditors, rose to complain of a situation during another deluge along Standish Lane two months ago. At that time, the house of The Rev. James Gaynor of Christ the King Lutheran Church was inundated by water, Laubenstein said.

Gaynor's house at 112 Standish Ln., Schaumburg, was "imploded" by water, reported the township supervisor. The water, reaching a four foot depth, broke the pane in a glass door and entered, utterly soaking the basement of the house. "The backyards of people living on the west side of Standish Lane" have experienced similar difficulties, Laubenstein said.

Most of the residents noted they have appeared before the village board before with similar complaints. This time they demanded action.

"We intend to find the answer," said Schaumburg Mayor Robert O. Atcher.

"If our engineering department says it is beyond them, we will bring in an outside organization," Atcher said.

"If we're responsible, we'll take care of it," he added.

IF IT IS proven the developers are responsible, they will be made to "make right" what is wrong, he said.

"If it is the homeowner, he will have to take care of it," the mayor continued. However, he added, the village will cooperate as much as possible with homeowners who are deemed liable.

Responding to residents' demands the trustees kept them advised of progress, Atcher appointed Trustee Jim Guthrie to act as liaison between the village and residents on such matters.

Condo Truth In Selling Amendment Is Approved

A truth in selling amendment to the Condominium Property Act passed the state senate yesterday.

Earlier approved by the Illinois House, it was introduced in the Senate by Sen. John Graham, R-Barrington, and was reported out of committee early this month.

The bill basically requires sellers of condominiums to provide potential buyers with a written disclosure of full details on the declaration of sale, articles of incorporation of the homeowner's association, bylaws of that association, deed to underlying ground and management contract.

A PROJECTED operating budget for the unit, a floor plan of the unit and a commitment for a specific location for the unit are also required by the bill.

Richard Regan, chairman of the Hoffman Estates plan commission wrote the original guidelines along which the bill was written.

Regan wanted the bill to protect young couples or persons previously living only in single-family homes from the misunderstandings and pitfalls of which they might not be aware.

The bill requires all information concerning expenses, responsibilities and privileges connected with condominium ownership be clarified in writing before the sale.

Quorum Lack Kills Park Board Meet

At the first meeting of the Hoffman Estates Park District Board since the defeat of the pool referendum by a slight margin, business could not be conducted due to lack of a quorum.

Three members, president Tom Barber, John Meyer and Fred Weaver, reportedly were out of town.

Director Al Binder said about 25 persons had called to express concern over the referendum defeat. The issue can be brought back to the voters after 90 days, but would cost at least $1,500 to finance.

He said the board had not discussed what action, if any, will be taken concerning the pool, but that time was "running out" for the proposed joint building with the school.

"Everyday it gets a bit more expensive," Binder said. He suggested that interested citizens come to the board's next meeting in July, although its date has not been set.

"We're waiting for the support to come to us," he said.

Firemen Train For 'Real Thing'

by STEVE BROWN

With sirens wailing and emergency lights flashing against the early spring sunset, about 10 pieces of fire fighting equipment roared up beside a new four-story apartment building in Hoffman Estates.

Off the trucks, the men move. With a minimum of wasted action or hesitation, hoses, ladders and other equipment are quickly positioned around the fire scene.

Ladders crawl up the side of the building, 40 or 50 feet into the air. Meanwhile others prepare to rescue stranded residents.

A few minutes later, several men pause to ask a question or discuss technique. Which size hose do we use or do we tie the ladder here?

NO, THE MEN are not wasting valuable seconds that could cost lives or increase property damage.

They had the opportunity to discuss procedures because this time the fire was merely a red flag hanging limply on a windless night from one of the unoccu-piated units in the Interlude Apartments on Bode Road. The men of the Hoffman Estates Fire Protection District were conducting one of their frequent training drills.

The benefits of these drills have many advantages according to Deputy Fire Chief Ed Kalasa. First, the men can refresh their skills on operating the equipment, but it also gives them a basic orientation on the layout of a particular building. He added it is also a good time to test new firefighting techniques.

"This is all important, because in the event of a fire here the men will be able to recall the drill and location of various spots in the building," Kalasa stated.

"SOMETIMES THE men feel this is dull and monotonous, but we try to make it as realistic as possible," he added.

Kalasa also explained that by frequently repeating drills the men will be less likely to make a mistake even though the situation may be charged

This Morning In Brief

The Nation

More than 1,000 residents and vacationers fled Isleton, Calif., when a levee crumbled and sent up to 15 feet of water rushing across a low lying delta island. No fatalities were immediately reported.

The cost of living rose by 0.3 per cent in May despite the first drop in supermarket prices in seven months, and the administration warned the decline might already be erased by a new surge in food costs.

A uniformed gunman shot and killed seven persons and wounded at least three others in a shooting spree in Cherry Hill, N.J.

The men apprehended in Democratic national headquarters may have been removing electronic devices already used to eavesdrop, rather than installing new ones, it was reported in Washington, D.C.

Sen. George McGovern in New York, assured of more than 1,300 delegate votes and a possible first-ballot victory at the Democratic Convention, called on Democrats to unite to defeat President Nixon.

An undetermined number of federal troops will be assigned to the Miami area for use as required to avert violence at the Democratic and Republican conventions this summer.

On a crucial test vote, the House approved the President's controversial bill to share federal revenues with the states and cities.

The State

Everett Leary Holt, 25, of Indianapolis, Ind., who was arrested after a Christmas Eve hijack attempt of an airliner which put down at O'Hare Airport, was committed to a psychiatric hospital.

Lt. Col. Anthony Herbert (Ret.) who prompted a nationwide controversy when he brought formal charges of perpetration and concealment of war crimes against his commanding officers in Vietnam in March, 1971, has endorsed George McGovern for president.

The World

Soviet President Nikolai Podgorny's visit to Hanoi last week has generated hopes for a negotiated settlement of the Vietnam war, highly qualified diplomatic sources said.

Israeli troops, artillery and planes raided southern Lebanon and captured five high ranking Syrian military officers that Israel said were mapping the territory for future joint operations against Israel.

The War

South Vietnamese marines pushed slowly through fierce tank and infantry fire in Quang Tri Province in a drive to recapture the only province they have lost to the Communists.

Await White House Confirmation

Nixon To Visit Monday?

Nobody is sure yet whether President Richard Nixon will attend the National Student Council Convention in Arlington Heights, to be held next week Monday through Thursday.

The White House will not confirm or deny Nixon's attendance until noon on Sunday. If he is not able to make the convention, presidential adviser and aide Robert Finch will address the group.

Nixon is scheduled to address the approximately 750 student council members and their adult advisers at 11 a.m. Monday at Forest View High School. The delegates are coming from high schools in nearly every state.

School officials and students reported members of the U.S. Secret Service have made several unannounced visits to the school to check security. The check is a routine measure taken to protect the President's safety.

"SINCE THE Wallace incident, Washington doesn't like to announce too far in advance where the President is going to be," said conference chairman Burton Showers, director of student activities at Forest View High School.

"This is the first time any top level national leaders are expected at the conference," he added. The conference is their 35th annual meeting.

The adult advisers will stay at the Arlington Towers Hotel, and the student council members will room in local homes. These students are representatives from some of the 30,000 student councils across the nation.

This year's conference theme is "Youth in Action." The talk given by President Nixon or Finch will deal with youth's role in federal government. Next Tuesday the delegates will go to McCormick Place, where they will be addressed by Mayor Richard Daley.

On Wednesday, seven representatives from Amoco Chemical, Chemical Industrial Council, Commonwealth Edison, United Air Lines, Union 76 Oil Co., United States Steel, and Weyerhaeuser Company will discuss what they are doing for ecological improvement, and how students can be of help. Among the other topics that will be covered next week are women's rights, the student press, the 18-year-old vote, students' rights and the law, and the American Revolution, 1976.

'Pussycat' Metcalfe Becomes A Tiger

by BARBARA REHM
"It's never too late to be black," gray-haired Ralph Metcalfe said. "It's never too late."

Metcalfe, the black Democratic congressman from Chicago and former Olympic athlete, is 62 years old. For years he worked within the Chicago Democratic party organization.

Until two months ago he did not appear a likely candidate to lead angry blacks. But he is doing it now.

Metcalfe a sprinter and gold medalist in the 1932 and 1936 Olympic Games, is a quiet and sophisticated man. Through the years he worked his way up as a dedicated organization stalwart.

He served as 3rd Ward alderman and president pro tem of the Chicago City Council before he was elected to Congress in 1970. He was Mayor Richard J. Daley's closest black confidant, the machine's most decorated envoy to the largely black South Side.

But these days he is shouting: "Mayor Daley is not God. I only worship God. I will not sell out my people."

It all started when one of Metcalfe's close friends, Dr. Daniel Claborn, died of an apparent stroke after being held by police for six hours on a drunk driving charge. Another friend, Dr. Ralph Odum, allegedly was roughed up by police. The charges still are under investigation.

METCALFE WENT TO Police Supt. James Conlisk April 24, demanding a stop to police harassment and brutality to black citizens. Almost immediately a coalition of blacks rallied behind him, ranging from the NAACP to the Black Panthers.

Since then vehement charges and counter-charges have cracked between City Hall and Metcalfe's Federal Building office here.

Metcalfe demanded that Daley come into the black neighborhoods to hear the complaints. Daley ignored the demand. Conlisk held often intensely heated police-community meetings in districts around the city. Metcalfe blasted them as an insult and urged blacks to boycott them.

This month, in a packed South Side church, Metcalfe stood behind an empty chair "reserved" for Mayor Daley and raised a clenched-fist black power salute to the cheering crowd.

After 20 years in politics, the freshman congressman's sudden rise to independent black power was not without question. He was known for playing it safe, for voting the dictates of the machine.

"Don't ask me why I am turning my back on an organization that gave me so much," Metcalfe said last week. "Nobody gave me anything. I earned everything I am. I am an integral part of the Democratic organization. I have served that party well."

"As alderman and president pro tem, I did not always vote my conscience. I was not free to. Now I have a wide base of support as congressman. With that base I can make wider demands."

SOME CRITICS question whether Metcalfe has — symbolically speaking — changed his color.

"Ralph Metcalfe has a record of selling out black people," Gus Savage, a veteran of South Side politics said. "And you can't negate that past."

But there are those who do. The Rev. Jesse Jackson, the powerful black leader of Operation PUSH, said, "I support Metcalfe. I respect what he has done."

"Over the years Metcalfe has said 'yes' too often when he meant 'no.' He has had to smile too often when nothing was funny. Metcalfe is now leading Daley out of power. It is just another piece of evidence of the crumbling of the Democratic machine."

In Washington, where Metcalfe has been a quiet mover and shaker in the congressional black caucus, Rep. Ronald Dellums, D-Calif., perhaps the most militant of all black congressmen, cheered him on.

"I think it is good for the black community in Chicago and good for Ralph Metcalfe," Dellums said of the split with Daley. "It sets him apart and sets him up as a man with integrity and courage of his personal convictions."

Dellums said when he first heard of the Metcalfe-Daley confrontation he handed Metcalfe a note on the House floor telling him he "was extraordinarily proud as a black man and proud to be a colleague of his in Congress."

BUT ALDERMAN Claude Holman, a black who holds Metcalfe's old seat as president pro tem of the council, questions his new found blackness. Holman sent the congressman a telegram:

"You have supplanted for 20 years at Daley's political table and you have been sheltered for 20 years in Daley's political household. And now, all of a sudden, presto, you discover police brutality," Holman said.

Metcalfe replied that in those days he was "interested in getting things done. I have worked hard and faithfully within the system."

"The organization has put up barriers before but never to this extent. Can you see how angry, how embarrassed I felt as president pro tem of the council, as the second most powerful man in the city watching my people abused."

"This thing has been pent up for some time. It has grown and broken. A man can take so much and then no more. Perhaps I just didn't have the courage to speak back then," Metcalfe said quietly.

"I do not know where this will take me. I just don't know. But I have no regrets."

Hunt For Reported Drowning Victim Still Unsuccessful

The search for a missing Glenview boy, feared drowned in Beck Lake north of Des Plaines, continued unsuccessfully for the third day yesterday.

The youth, William Schultz, 16, of Glenview, reportedly drowned Monday afternoon while swimming to shore from an island in the middle of the forest preserve lake, located at E. River and Central roads.

Since Monday, 15 divers from 10 suburban fire and police departments have been searching the lake during daylight hours. Tuesday, a U.S. Coast Guard helicopter assisted in the search, circling the lake in an unsuccessful effort to spot the youth's body from above.

Yesterday, the Cook County Sheriff's police tactical squad with help from 10 volunteers from the Glenview Naval Air Station, began a search of the forest preserve woods near the lake.

Sgt. Clyde Abney, who headed up the tactical squad's search unit, told the Herald the men were also searching the woods because no one actually saw the Schultz youth drown in the lake.

ACCORDING TO police, Schultz swam out to the island, about 100 yards from shore, with another youth Monday afternoon. The companion, whose name was not released, told police Schultz said he was too tired to make the return swim to shore.

The other youth then returned to shore alone and left the area while Schultz was still on the island, he told police. The missing boy's shoes were found on shore Tuesday.

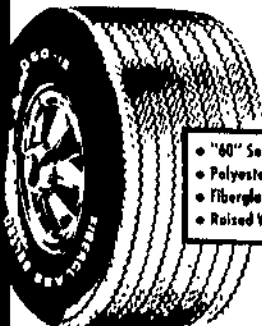

The searchers plan to continue their efforts today. Police said Beck Lake will remain closed to the public until the search is completed.

She Needs More Hours In Her Days

A door herself, Mary Mozal of Schaumburg has little patience with the woman who whines "there's nothing to do in the suburbs."

The involved and vital housewife and mother of two sons barely stretches her day to encompass her husband, home and family and her many interests. Her home at 1103 Lowell Ln. houses and shows her interest in children, small animals, antiques, needlework and gothic novels and two St. Bernards, "Tinkerbell" and "Dew Drop."

Besides her family the others are only spare-time interests, she said.

Mrs. Mozal, since she moved to Schaumburg with her family six years ago, has "been involved in PTA work," as she describes it. The involvement goes beyond the average monthly meeting attendance and service on a committee.

HER PTA record includes two years as president of the Schaumburg Area Council of PTAs, recently concluded. At Dooley School in Schaumburg she was PTA president for two years and secretary for two years and currently serves as publicity and scholarship chairman.

Mrs. Mozal also is the current study courses chairman for the area council and a member of School Dist. 54's policy committee. "My PTA work has earned me so many service badges they cover my whole chest," she said.

"I've been wanting to get out of PTA for six years so I could lose weight, but I'd never be able to wear all my PTA ribbons at once if there were any less of me," joked Mrs. Mozal.

Mrs. Mozal is a frequent speaker at PTA and school functions and hers is a familiar figure in the elementary and high schools in the area. However, most of Mrs. Mozal's work is done in her home.

Her typewriter has a reserved spot on the dining room trestle table and in the midst of PTA work might be used to fire off a letter to legislators in support of fair treatment for prisoners of war, or to write a short essay.

HOW DOES Mrs. Mozal fit all her interests into her busy life? She doesn't, she said. "I always have a leftover list of things that I'd like to get at or do and the next time I meet one of those nothing-to-do women I just may hand it to her," said Mrs. Mozal.

Since her retirement as council president, Mrs. Mozal plans to work on another pet project. "Someday I'd like to see a small animals' zoo started in Schaumburg," she said.

On woman's liberation, she said, "My boys Sean, 12, and Terry, 10, and husband, Don, don't make me any less a liberated woman than someone without a family," said Mrs. Mozal.

"I see women's liberation as being your own woman, one that has found herself and is involved and interested."

For Mrs. Mozal, Schaumburg and her work in PTA's has provided that opportunity. "This school district has more than 6,000 members in PTA and its projects are exciting and challenging," said Mrs. Mozal.

"There is always something going on here, but even if I lived in the backwoods where there is no PTA I'd find something to do — I'd probably start a PTA unit."

2 Win Honorable Mention In Contest

Two Thomas Dooley School youngsters won an honorable mention recently in an environmental poster contest sponsored by Northern Illinois Gas Co.

Winners included Drew Albert, 937 Bradford Ln., and Debra Lynn Wigner, 915 Duxbury Ln. both of Schaumburg.

Five thousand youngsters participated in the contest which was judged by a panel of experts in the advertising, film-making and newspaper professions.

Construction Shutdown In Offing?

by LEA TONKIN

As contractors and construction workers continue their counterattacks in the current round of contract negotiations, the possibility of a massive Chicago area construction shutdown moves closer to reality.

A limited number of slowdowns and work stoppages by carpenters and cement masons were reported as of late Wednesday in the Northwest suburbs.

However, carpenters announced Wednesday that additional picketing sites may be announced today in the Chicago area. And the Mid-America Regional Bargaining Association (MARBA), announced it may enforce an area wide lockout in retaliation against selective strikes and picketing by the cement masons and carpenters.

Approximately 2,000 of the Carpenters Chicago District Council's 30,000 members were on strike Wednesday, reported George Vest, president. Among the suburban sites selected for strikes was the parking facility at O'Hare International Airport.

Cement Masons Local 502 (Cook County) reported Wednesday that selective picketing continued as negotiations with contractors are in a deadlock. A meeting is slated for this morning to determine additional picketing sites, said a union spokesman.

APPROXIMATELY 800 contractors at a unity rally held Tuesday night in Chicago voted to continue their contract offers to the 2,200 member Cement Masons Local 502 (Cook County) and the Chicago District Council of Carpenters.

At that meeting, the contractor group, a conglomerate of 14 area employer organizations, warned that the selective strikes could bring a lockout of all the members in these trades throughout the Chicago metropolitan area.

A meeting will be held this afternoon by MARBA executives to decide what action to take in response to the ongoing strikes and picketing. Should a lockout occur, nearly 100,000 construction workers would be idled. Approximately $2 1/2 billion in highways, residential, commercial and industrial construction, and other building projects would be halted.

In the meantime, some confusion was reported at Northwest suburban construction sites.

"TO SAY THE least, the situation is almost chaotic," said project foreman Jerry Harker at a Levitt and Sons, Inc., residential construction site in Schaumburg. "We have three subdivisions here, at two of which we have a full force of carpenters working. The other one started with a picket line up this morning."

The picket line disappeared later in the day, but so did some of the men, reported Harker. "We're going with whatever men we've got," Harker said. He noted that the other trades honored the carpenter picket lines at the Sheffield Park project.

At the Huntington Apartments in Mount Prospect, carpenters were on the job yesterday, but said they'll picket if the word comes down from the Chicago District Council.

Construction continued in the residential projects by Centex Winston in Elk Grove Village.

Carpenters stayed on the job site, but cement masons were on strike at the Palatine Junior High construction site as of late Wednesday.

Rolling Meadows sidewalk projects continued on schedule yesterday. However, city superintendent of public works James McFeggan reported a curb replacement program could be halted by cement mason strikes.

Conflicts In Dalehouse Trial?

Pinkerton Security Service employees took the witness stand in the possession suit over the Dalehouse Restaurant yesterday, testifying to what are apparent conflicts in sworn statements by plaintiff's witnesses.

Edwin Grunsted, a Pinkerton patrolman, told Cook County Chancery Court Judge James J. Mejda he made visits to the restaurant at approximate one-hour intervals Nov. 13 and 14, 1971. While he found the premises open Nov. 13, he said he saw only three men in the building when he went inside at the first patrol, and no more than two or three cars parked outside at other visits. The following day, he said no more than two cars and three persons were at the restaurant during his afternoon visits and he found the restaurant closed and locked at about 4:30 p.m.

Earlier in the trial, plaintiff Roger Gilbert and his wife testified they worked in the restaurant both days, and at various times the bar was full and many customers were on the premises.

Mrs. Gilbert said the bar was full the evening of Nov. 14.

Grunsted also said the bartender on the premises early Nov. 13 was Hugh Patterson.

JACK LAUZON of Roselle, a Pinkerton canine patrolman, testified he stopped at the Dalehouse at about 12:30 a.m. Nov. 14 and found it closed and locked.

Not permitted to testify was Philip Kasnak, an Illinois Department of Revenue agent called as a defense witness along with the Pinkerton men. Defense Atty. Ted Shapiro told Judge Mejda in court that if Kasnak had been allowed to testify he would have told of a report he filed after visiting the restaurant Nov. 17, when he talked with Patterson. Shapiro said the testimony would have shown Patterson told Kasnak the restaurant was closed as of sometime in October.

The witnesses were part of the defense by Multicon Properties Inc., which has possession of the building, in the suit filed by Twinbrook Investments Inc., which contends Multicon repossessed it illegally. Defense is expected to close with a final witness, Roy Whitehead, Multicon's regional manager. Whitehead is to testify at 2:15 p.m. today.

Softball League Play Will Begin

Division play in the Hoffman Estates Park District 12-inch slow pitch softball league began last week.

St. Huberts (1) defeated Lums 21-5, Barrington Square downed St. Huberts (2) 16-8 and Bartholomew squeezed by Christ the King 10-8 in Division A. Smith Realty edged Church of the Cross 12-11.

In division B games last week, First Baptist clobbered Calvary Baptist 36-8, Our Saviours defeated St. Johns 7-4, St. Huberts (3) walloped Christ the King (2) 20-4 and Prince of Peace beat Lord of Life 21-15.

St. Huberts (1) and Barrington Square lead both divisions with three wins and no losses.

THE GREAT COVER-UP . . . Members of the Schaumburg Fire Department give the public a demonstration of salvage techniques used to protect furnishings and valuables from fire or water damage. The recent demonstration was part of a week-long program at the Randhurst Shopping Center.

Firemen Practice The 'Real Thing'

During the recent drill, the firefighters put most of the district apparatus into use. Ladders of various sizes were raised, self-contained breathing equipment, which allows the men to work in dense smoke, was tested. Both the 100-foot ladder truck and snorkel unit lift teams of firefighters to the roof of the building.

Within minutes, the fire scene was surrounded the "fire" with hoses and they were ready to combat the blaze.

KALASA SAID that with the coming of warm weather, residents will see more drills of that type.

"We try to conduct more outside training in the spring, summer and fall because there is less chance of damaging the equipment," he said.

Most of the drills used by Hoffman Estates are part of the regular training conducted in most suburban fire departments, Kalasa said.

He stated that occasionally the full-dress drills sometimes startle residents because there is a real fire. This was the case at the recent Interlude drill, but a few quick words of explanation calmed the residents considerably.

Besides major drills, Kalasa said the men receive extensive training in first aid, driving, and techniques.

Much of the winter is devoted to those type activities he said.

"WE ALSO HAVE the men prepare pre-plans, which allow them to decide how they might fight a fire if they were in charge of the first unit on the scene. After making the plans, a walk through the actual buildings is conducted to see what changes should be made in the plans.

He said the men also are involved in the fire prevention bureau and inspect various buildings for safety or fire code violation.

"We feel the average citizen looks at the fire service as an insurance policy, and we like to think that the training inspections and other non-firefighting efforts do as much to protect lives and property as our actions at the fire scene," Kalasa said.

State Agency Won't Take Local Airport Stand-Yet

by PAT GERLACH

The Illinois Environmental Protection Agency does not discourage plans for investigating the feasibility of developing a municipally owned general aviation airport in Schaumburg.

But its officials will take no stand on the issue until comprehensive studies have been completed locally.

"I have never indicated any support or opposition to the proposed airport and could not have done so since I have no knowledge of its details. Nor have I seen any forecasts of air pollution which might occur," said John J. Roberts, manager of the IEPA division of air pollution, in a recent interview.

Roberts remarks were directed to a story appearing in The Herald, June 5, in which Kenneth B. Wolmer, vice president and general manager of Schaumburg Airport, quoted the IEPA official as recommending the village "go ahead especially with a general aviation airport because of the minimal pollution created by such a facility."

WOLMER'S COMMENTS, made during a June 1 meeting of the village airport committee, detailed a telephone conversation with Roberts after a letter written by Jane Murphy, of Schaumburg appeared in The Herald earlier that week.

Interpreting portions of Mrs. Murphy's letter as inferring that the IEPA official opposed proposed growth, Wolmer said he telephoned Roberts to discuss the matter. According to the airport administrator, it was during that talk that Roberts "disagreed with what had been said" in Mrs. Murphy's letter and also recommended proceeding with airport plans.

"My staff enters the picture only when advice is sought but must maintain its distance before studies are completed," Roberts stressed.

Environmental impact statements, a required part of the feasibility study, must consider the current environmental state, Roberts said. He refused, however, to comment on pollution created by general aviation airports noting that specific size, as well as other pollution in the area, play important roles in that determination.

Roberts agrees with Mrs. Murphy's contention that the format used in preparation of environmental impact statements is presently unsatisfactory regarding airport siting and expansion.

BUT ROBERTS also supports Wolmer in that lack of formalized methods is not sufficient reason to delay studies provided the work is conducted "without causing either a violation of standards for environmental protection or unacceptable deterioration of environmental quality."

However, Wolmer continues to maintain Roberts made statements encouraging the development of a general aviation airport on the basis of low pollution generated by the activity.

"It stands to reason that he (Roberts) has to agree with charts recently published by the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare in which aviation was listed sixth lowest of eight pollution producing activities engaged in by the human race," he said.

He referred to statistics compiled by the Air Quality Emission Group of HEW which listed pounds of emission per individual on an annual basis in various categories.

ON THE CHART motor transportation is at the top with 897 pounds of emission per individual; heat, light and air-conditioning follow with 443; miscellaneous (forest fires, agricultural burning, etc.) come in next with 362; industrial products fall in at 285; garbage and other solid waste disposal is 109.

HEW statistics indicate aviation produces 60 pounds of emission per individual per year or a total of 3.3 per cent of all categories included in the chart.

Further reduced, military craft is estimated at 35 pounds of emission per individual (1.7 per cent of totals); air carrier shows 24 pounds of emission per individual (1.2 per cent of the total); while the general aviation fleet is responsible for nine pounds of emission per individual per year (.4 per cent of the total).

Suit Awaiting U.S. Ruling

A class action suit challenging alleged underassessments at Cook County racetracks is pending a ruling on a similar but broader suit filed in U. S. Federal Court.

Ten Chicago area school districts affected by alleged racetrack underassessments have joined the Joint Service Program, a subgroup of the Illinois Association of School Boards (IASB), to file a class action suit against Cook County Assessor P. J. Collector.

Don Booth, director of IASB, said the Joint Service Program was ready to file the suit but was awaiting the outcome of a similar suit filed in Federal Court on behalf of Donald Page Moore, an unsuccessful candidate for the democratic nomination for Cook County State's Attorney.

The Moore suit also alleges misassessments of properties but does not stop at the racetracks. The Moore suit asks the court to appoint an assessor to correct misassessments throughout Cook County.

Thomas Meites, one of Moore's attorneys, said a hearing in the case is scheduled for the first week in September.

"WHEN THE hearing takes place we will file our own suit or intervene on behalf of the districts," said Booth. "If the suit (Moore's) is successful and an immediate reassessment of property is called for, we will have avoided the cost of a separate suit and be able to return fees to the districts involved."

The class action suit was prompted when the Citizens Action Program (CAP) released figures they had compiled on alleged underassessments at the racetracks last fall.

Vacation Bible School Slated

The First Baptist Church of Hoffman Estates will hold its annual Vacation Bible School June 26-30 from 9 a.m. to noon.

Classes will be held in the educational building of the church at 300 Illinois Blvd. Any child in the community from four to 12 years old is invited to attend. To register call 682-4462 or 529-1920.

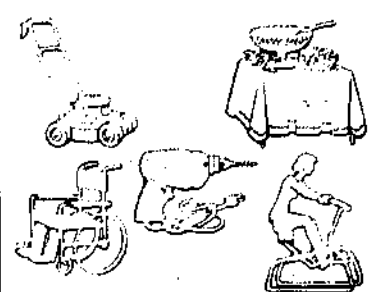

Pastor W. D. Millican will serve as principal. Department superintendents include: Mrs. Jane Kellebrew, nursery; Mrs. Dorothy Carter, four year olds; Mrs. Nancy Celosky, five year olds; Mrs. Sherry Farnsworth, first graders; Mrs. Carol Knop, second graders; Mrs. Darlene Millican, third and fourth graders and Mrs. Eleanor Tabor, fifth and sixth graders.

The youths will have teen time at night from 7 to 9 p.m. Monday through Friday, June 26-30. Superintendent is Mrs. Polly Deming.

On Dean's List

G. Wendell Richmond of Hoffman Estates has been named to the President's Honor Roll and the Dean's List for the fall semester at Simpson College in Indianola, Ia.

One of Dan Walker's criticisms of Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie has been that he employs 84 public relations agents, at an estimated cost of $1 million per year.

This P.R. crew, according to Walker, turns out one press release for every working hour of the state government, and he questions if this is necessary.

Of the reams of press releases from the state which cross this desk — 99 per cent of them destined for the waste basket — the following one demanded attention.

It is reproduced in its entirety, and you may make your own judgment on whether Walker's question has merit.

"SPRINGFIELD, Ill., June 19 — Dr. Franklin D. Yoder, director of the Illinois Department of Public Health, today issued a tongue-in-cheek warning to state legislators that while it is all right to climb the State House walls, they should not nibble on the paint while doing so.

"Nibbling paint chips from the State House walls could be hazardous to your health," he warned.

Yoder's statement was prompted by a report from Veidun Randolph, chief of the department's bureau of environmental health, that the paint on some of the State House walls contains a high percentage of lead.

"While waiting in meeting room 3-M of the State House recently, Randolph noticed that paint was flaking from the walls. He utilized his waiting period by taking a paint sample which he sent to the state health department's Springfield laboratory for analysis.

"The laboratory reported that the paint contains a lead content of 22 per cent by weight, or more than four times the lead content of most interior paints."

ARTHUR M. STEVENS JR. of Mount Prospect has been named Elk Grove Township coordinator for the Illinois Committee to Reelect the President.

Stevens is vice president of marketing for the Justite Manufacturing Co. in Chicago. He has served as precinct captain, deputy committeeman, executive committee member and campaign activities chairman for the Elk Grove Regular Republican Organization.

WOMEN'S RIGHTS promise to become a substantial campaign issue in elections for the state legislature following the failure of the Illinois House to approve the proposed constitutional amendment guaranteeing those rights.

The Independent Voters of Illinois have announced formation of a Women's Right Commission, which is expected to work for the defeat of legislators who oppose the amendment.

A cochairman of the new commission charged legislators who voted no on the amendment with "gross and flagrant dereliction of duty," and with "offending and insulting all intelligent people in Illinois."

REPUBLICAN supporters of Mrs. Virginia Macdonald, candidate for the Illinois House of Representatives in the 3rd Legislative District, will attend a fundraising cocktail party Sunday at the Arlington Heights Elks Club, 2323 N. Wilke Road.

The party is scheduled from 3 to 6 p.m. Donations of $5 per person are requested.

MORE PRECINCT captains appointed by Carl Hansen, Elk Grove Township Republican committeeman:

Walter R. Bartley, 717 Dresser Dr., Mount Prospect, for Precinct 21. An assistant Illinois attorney general, he is also deputy committeeman for the Algonquin Road area.

Mrs. Charles Kimball, 600 Go-Wanda, Mount Prospect, for Precinct 60. A former member of the Dist. 57 Board of Education, she is now a member of the board of the Volunteer Service Bureau of Northwest Cook County.

Democrats Fear Daley's Support—And Lack Of It

by RAYMOND LAHR

WASHINGTON (UPI) — When Democratic pros have political nightmares, they dream of a lynch mob spirit in blocs of delegates eager to deny seats to Mayor Richard J. Daley and his Illinois lieutenants at the Democratic national convention.

Daley may be the last major symbol of political bossism in the nation. His conduct at the 1968 convention may have contributed to the Democratic defeat in the presidential election.

But many Democrats wince when they think of an angered Daley organization and its precinct captains sitting on their hands on election day in the pivotal state of Illinois.

As head of an uncommitted bloc of delegates whose credentials are being challenged, Daley is involved in a case representing just one of the many causes of rancor at the convention.

THE SEATS OF 40 per cent of the delegates chosen so far have been challenged under guidelines written by one of the party's reform commissions. Some probably will be quickly dismissed by the credentials committee and its decisions sustained by the convention. Knowledgeable Democrats find it difficult even to speculate about settling some of the other disputes, particularly proportional representation for young voters, women and minorities.

This requirement was hedged by the reform commission to rule out fixed quotas. Memos from the commission have emphasized good faith efforts on the part of state party organizations to encourage participation by these voters. It is easier to enforce this provision where official slate making is involved than in cases where uncommitted delegates are elected in primaries without slate making by official party or candidates organizations.

Overshadowing and mired with the convention side show battles will be the nomination of a presidential candidate. Even if Sen. George S. McGovern now seems to be riding a steam roller, efforts will continue to deny him the prize.

Many more conservative Democrats regard him as too liberal.

BEFORE THE nomination and coinciding with the credentials committee work will be writing of the party platform. This will require reconciliation of views and possibly later convention floor contests over planks on defense budget, Southeast Asia welfare reform, tax reform, and other issues.

Another row may develop over a proposed party reorganization plan written jointly by the two party reform commissions. This calls for a party policy conference of national convention size in even numbered years between presidential elections to draft policy and elect the national party chairman.

Such proposals in past years have been coolly received, especially by members of Congress who feel they are responsible for the party record between elections.

The plan would make all Democrats in Congress delegates to the conference. But nothing would compel them to attend if they disliked the project or to follow its advice.

Under the Democrats' new time table, the platform committee draft must be completed and circulated 10 days before the convention opens July 10. The credentials and rules committee reports must be available 48 hours before it opens.

What Is An Unusual Name? One That WAS Ordinary

by JEAN CAFARELLA
To all those expectant parents who have thought of giving their child a unique name: everybody else is thinking the same thing.
In fact, if you want your child to be unique, name it Susan, Linda, Joseph, or any name that was considered "ordinary" in your youth.
The top two names for boys and girls in a recent New York study are Jennifer and Jason, names very few children were pegged with 20 years ago, and the Midwest apparently isn't far behind. Although Jason is not yet in the Top 10, it is growing in popularity, and Jennifers already abound.

A survey of birth announcements printed in the Herald in the past three months shows an overwhelming number of Northwest suburban girls are being named Amy, Julie, Laura and Jennifer, with every variation of spelling imaginable. (For instance, Annime instead of Amy), Tricia, Michelle, Kimberly, Kristin, Christina, Therese, and Karen are fairly popular, and almost any other name is rare.
Nobody seems to love Deborah, Elizabeth, Donna, Barbara, or Ann anymore, and every one of those names was in a 1964 list of the 10 most popular names for girls.

The boys' names have remained much more stable. In the Northwest suburbs, David, Michael, James, and Steve are still big favorites, with such standbys as Robert and Richard not far behind. These names were just as popular in 1964, 1948, and even 1898.

However, the more daring parents began naming their sons Christopher in 1964, and now they are exploring even farther — Jeffreys, Scotts, Matthews, Todds, Brians, Erics, and even Justins (how many people named their kid Justin in 1964?) are rapidly increasing in number. Some parents seem to be getting more apostolic, so Thomas, Paul and John have been on the increase.

IN GENERAL, names seem to follow the same sort of gimmick that fashion is presently into: you wear a costume of a particular kind. In fashion we have the gauchito look, the Gibson Girl look, the Roaring Twenties look, or the college look in which the person may be entirely innovative. Names are the same: a child usually is given an old-fashioned name, a biblical name, a made-up name, a French name, or an old name with a new misspelling.

"There's a trend toward old-fashioned names, not so many Tammies and other 'modern' names," said Robin Leach of Alexian Brothers Medical Center, Elk Grove Village. She said Alexian Brothers has had Richards, Jameses, and Johns by the droves, and many girls are named Amy or Christine with middle names of Marie or Ann. Miss Leach noted that many parents will change the Y in a name to an I in order to modernize it. "And Kimberly is not in vogue anymore — definitely out!" she added.

Harold Kurth at Lutheran General Hospital in Park Ridge says he is getting a lot of biblical names such as Daniel, Sarah, John, Mary, Adam, Peter and Joshua. "The most popular boy's name is John, with about one-third of those spelling it Jon. We get some Jonathans, too."
He disagrees with Miss Leach's findings that Kimberly is "out," citing it as the most popular girl's name at Lutheran General. Following Kimberly is Michelle, Laura and Laurie, Julie, Kristin, Jennifer and Stacey spelled half a dozen different ways.

Holy Family Hospital in Des Plaines reported a lot of Melissas and Todds.
According to Mrs. Jessie Pearson, who took a survey of birth certificates at the Cook County Health Department, Melissa is the Number One name for girls. Then comes Maria and Jean (spelled all sorts of ways), followed by Sharon. After those, she said she found Cynthia, Jessicas, Jennifers, Lynns and names from the mother's family such as Charlotte.

IN HER COOK County survey, which she said was too small to be conclusive, she said that Robert, William, and David were all tied for first place among boys.

Following those she counted what seemed to her an "amazing number" of Brians, plus a lot of Charleses and Jameses. She said that many parents will use the father's middle name as the child's first name, or else switch the father's first and middle name, so that a father named John Thomas might name his son Thomas John. "I didn't see any Jasons," Mrs. Pearson said.

The New York Times reported earlier this year that French names were gaining national appeal, and Michelle is especially popular in this part of the country. Nicole, Danielle, Monique, Suzette, Renee, and Gabrielle have not caught on here quite as well as they have in New York, but they're on the rise.

A lot of people are trying to make up their own names in order to beat the popular influences. The hospitals in this area, as well as some of the pediatricians, found several samples of what they figured was pure imagination on the part of the parents. Girls catch it the most, being named such things as Palma, Bessinda, Alynna, Tiffany, Tisha, Katarzyna, Brianna, Shannon, Kari, Cali, Jorie and Courtney.

This practice is considered to be less cute when naming boys, but there are some named Forrest, Shane, Lorenz, Duncan, Samson, Jacob, Ryan, and Derek.
"What these parents often forget is that a name for a cute little baby will look pretty ridiculous on a six-foot-six guy," Kurth said.

Shell Oil Credit Card Hearing Today

A Price Commission hearing is slated in Washington today on the move by Shell Oil Co. to charge its dealers an added 1 to 2.2 per cent for credit card purchases of gasoline.

E. G. Albano, executive officer of the Gasoline Retailers Association, of Metropolitan Chicago, said yesterday that the hearing, originally set for Tuesday, was continued until today. Albano says the hearing is the result of a letter sent to commission Chairman C. Jackson Grayson Jr. by the 2,700 members in the association.

Albano says the letter describes the plight of area gas station dealers who are being asked to absorb an added cost. He said the dealers are already suffering from a low profit margin. The letter asked the Price Commission chief to strike down the Shell Oil Co. credit card surcharge plans. If Shell gains commission approval, however, the dealers are seeking to pass this cost along to consumers.

"ALREADY, 40 PER CENT of the dealers go out of business in the Chicago area every year," Albano said. He says all major brand dealers are concerned because they believe other majors will follow Shell's lead.

Albano says the letter to the Price Commission was written on behalf of the 300,000 gas station dealers in the United States. The only way to jack up profits without hurting dealers is to halt the price wars, Albano says.

Pressure is also being applied by customers, many of whom are sending in their car credit cards to Shell Oil, Albano added. Jobbers, or wholesalers are protesting according to Albano. He claims that 25 per cent of the stations in the United States are owned by jobbers.

ALTHOUGH EXACT figures on the volume of credit card sales are not readily available from some major oil companies, estimates by the Illinois Gasoline Dealers Association range up to 75 per cent of sales in the Chicago Metropolitan area.

According to the National Petroleum News Fact Book, issue for May, the average motorist driving a car or motorcycle buys 714 gallons of gasoline a year. If he pays the normal 40.4 cents a gallon price and charges 75 per cent of this amount on a Shell credit card, the annual cost would be an added $21.65 for the use of credit. This is based on a per cent surcharge on a bill for the 75 per cent or 536 gallons set at $216.54.

The average per vehicle gallonage for all vehicles on an annual basis in 830 gallons according to the fact book. Sales of gasoline totaled 4,612,364,000 gallons in 1971, a 4.3 per cent increase over 1970 figures. Gasoline sales in Illinois amounted to $6,419,636,000 gallons last year, a 4.7 increase over the previous year.

Four Complete Naval Training

Two local men have completed recruit training with the U. S. Navy at the Naval Training Center in Great Lakes and two others have completed other training phases.

Graduates of recruit training are Seaman Apprentice Marvin S. Allen, 114 Arizona Blvd., Hoffman Estates, and Seaman Michael J. Carroll, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Carroll, 126 Newton, Hoffman Estates. Carroll is a 1969 graduate of Conant High School. He now is attending Fire Control Technician School, Great Lakes.

Midshipman Robert T. Junwirth, son of Mr. and Mrs. Warren R. Junwirth of 219 Bluebonnet Ln., Hoffman Estates, has finished his freshman year of Naval Reserve Officer Training at the University of Notre Dame. He is a 1971 graduate of Conant High School.

Airman Apprentice Ross G. Goben, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert G. Goben, 421 Cable Ct., Schaumburg, has finished the recruit phase of the Four to Ten Month active duty program at Millington, Tenn., and will attend an aviation school.

Make Deans' Lists

Edward Hussey of 238 Westview St., Hoffman Estates achieved placement on the dean's list for the autumn quarter at the University of Cincinnati.

Scott Hendricks of 206 Bode Rd., Hoffman Estates also was named to the dean's list at North Park College, Chicago. He is a member of the sophomore class.

Children Enjoy Learning What Their Names Meant

Show Must Go On Despite Weather

by TOM VON MALDER
Seldom has the old adage "the show must go on" had such a severe test as it has this week with the Circus Internationale.

When L. N. Fleckles brought his circus to a field near Golf and Elmhurst roads in Mount Prospect for a 10-day run, little did he guess the show was in for the worst week of weather the area has had in months.

The show went on Monday afternoon despite very hot, humid weather, but it had to be cancelled that night when the big top was blown down and knee-high water was deposited by rain an hour before show time.

The tent canvas was ruined and will take months to repair, so the remainder of the performances are being held in the open air. The first such was Tuesday night when it rained again. And last night, temperatures were expected to go into the 40's.

"The band couldn't play (Tuesday night) because of the rain, so we had to use just the organ," Fleckles said. "But the people were there. They brought blankets and umbrellas and enjoyed the show."

THE ONLY BONUS losing the tent canvas has brought about is the addition by Fleckles of two additional acts, both aerial performances that did not have enough room under the big top.

The circus performers took Monday night's calamity in stride. No one was injured, so it was just a question of cleaning up.

"The performers and everybody pitched in to help out," Fleckles said. "Some of the women were up to their knees in water as they worked to move kneeling poles."

Circus performers are in the business because they like it; they live circus. For most of them they have been in the business "All my life."

Fay Alexander has a comedy act, Al's Limousine, in the current show. He also does a high wire act, but at least through Monday was not performing on the wire here because of the tent.

Alexander, dressed in rags and with a bright red plastic nose cap, said he has traveled all over the world with his act. "Everybody likes the act, even the parents because I use an antique, a Model T Ford."

OVER THE YEARS, Alexander said he has seen the circus change, mostly for the better. "There are not as many tent circuses like this one. Mostly we play in ball parks or field houses. But business is better."

In some ways it is a hard life, with traveling all the time and working all year round except for about six weeks at Christmas time.

"We don't get paid like your television acts either," Alexander said. He uses agents to secure work but has no exclusive agent. Recently, he got an offer to work four weeks in Hong Kong after the first of the year. In a case like this, the employer pays the fare for Alexander and his Ford.

Another act is "Victor Julian and His Little Stars" who happen to be dogs. Julian too has been a performer all his life. He has a home in New Jersey but is seldom there.

He specially breeds his dogs for the act and practices when they whenever he can. "It is always something new. When the Russians put their first dog in orbit, I had one of mine perform on a sphere."

These two, like most of the performers, live in mobile campers and trailer homes that are set up behind the tent area. Their life is different from most people's but they wouldn't have it any other way.

THIS WAS HOW it looked Monday under the big top of the Circus Internationale in Mount Prospect. The clown antics are the same now, but there is no more tent canvas as it was blown off Monday night, part of an estimated $80,000 damage. The performances run daily through Sunday.

Issue For Revolution Bicentennial

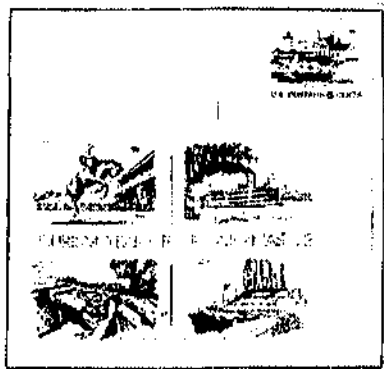

Four 8 cent postage stamps commemorating the bicentennial of the American Revolution will be issued July 4 at Williamsburg, Va.

The stamps depict four colonial craftsmen — a glassmaker, a silversmith, a wigmaker and a hatter — which will be printed on the same sheet.

The bicentennial series will feature annual stamps issued through 1976, the 200th birthday of the United States.

Colonial Williamsburg is a restoration of the town that was the capital of Virginia when George Washington was a young man. It is a prime tourist attraction today.

The stamps will be printed deep brown on buff colored paper with a print order of 135 million. They will be arranged on the sheet so that blocks of four will consist of the four different stamps. On the upper left pane, for example, the glassmaker and the silversmith stamps will alternate on the first row. On the second row, the wigmaker and the hatter will alternate.

The legend "U.S.A. Bicentennial Honors Colonial American Craftsmen" will appear on the selvage. Also appearing is the logo of the Bicentennial Commission, in lieu of the "Mail Early in the Day" message.

FIRST DAY cancellation requests should be directed to "Bicentennial Stamp, Postmaster, Williamsburg, Va., 23185 with the proper remittance. Collectors desiring a block of four stamps portraying all four designs should address their cover envelopes as far to the left as possible.

The fifth pictorial post card in the series "Tourism Year of the Americas - '72" also reproduces four scenic tourist attractions of the reverse side and another scene as the indicia.

The series includes two more 6 cent cards, a 9 cent airmail card for domestic use and a 15 cent card for international airmail usage beyond Canada and Mexico.

THEY CAN be obtained for 42 cents from "Tourism Postal Cards, Postmaster, Boston, Mass., 02109." The cards will be returned under separate cover. Specific cards can be ordered and for these self-addressed peelable labels are requested.

The first day of issue will be June 29 and the cancellation will read "U.S. Postal Service" omitting a specific location in order to emphasize that all areas of the country have tourist attractions.

Collecting Coins

by Mort Reed

Now that all official presentations have been made to various chiefs of state and noted political leaders, The Royal Mint of Great Britain is accepting orders from American and Canadian collectors for sets of Millennium Proof Coins. One specimen each of eight denominations has been issued by the United Kingdom over the past 1,200 years.

Great Britain converted to the decimal system in 1971. Consequently, each piece in the millennium proof set is dated 1970.

Strangely enough, the Royal Mint has never made proof-quality coins or sets available for public consumption. When the old system was being phased out to make room for the new coinage, it was decided to strike a reasonable number of proof sets for distribution to political notables.

FOLLOWING U.S. practice of filling proof orders directly through mint facilities. The Royal Mint established a North American Bureau in Washington.

The eight-piece set consists of the famous penny (or copper as it is more commonly referred to) first struck in the eighth century. The half-penny, pronounced (Hay-pen-y); the three-pence, pronounced (thr-u-pence) with 12 sides; the six-pence introduced by Edward VI in 1551; both the Scottish and English shilling, each with a different coat-of-arms; the florin (two-shillings); and the handsome half crown introduced by Henry VIII.

THIS COINAGE of the United Kingdom comes sealed in a welded-plastic display case. Each piece has been struck on a selected polished blank in the original composition by the master dies. All finished coins have been micro-examined for flaws or possible die imperfections.

Whether or not this particular gesture commits the Royal Mint to a continuing program of proof sets remains to be seen. In the past British authorities have successfully avoided any special issues that may tend to interfere with normal production.

Proof coinage today is one of the rare commodities in which a term investment almost guarantees a sizable return on limited investment.

Readers interested in ordering Millennium Proof Sets of Great Britain, may do so by addressing their orders (accompanied by U.S. Money Order for no more than three sets per order plus 75 cents each for postage) to North American Bureau, The Royal Mint of Great Britain,

P.O. Box 700 Benjamin Franklin Station, Washington, D.C. 20046. All orders will be processed on a first come, first served basis with delivery in no more than 60 days.

All remittances should be made payable in U.S. currency.

Don't Try To Memorize A Social Security Number

Don't try to memorize your Social Security number. Don't — especially — try to repeat your Social Security number from memory when an employer asks you for the number for his records when you start a new job.

That advice comes from Cornelius R. Schafer, district manager of the Chicago Northwest Social Security Office.

"Your Social Security number has nine digits," Schafer noted. "If you try to memorize it, you can easily give a wrong number when you try to repeat it. If you furnish a wrong Social Security number to an employer, it may cause difficulty in crediting your earnings to your Social Security record. That may eventually affect your Social Security benefits."

An employee's earnings are credited to his Social Security number when they are reported by his employer. The employee's earnings determine the amount of monthly Social Security benefits he may collect when he retires or becomes severely disabled; also the amount of benefits his family may get if he dies prematurely.

"If all of your earnings are not credited to your Social Security number, your benefits may amount to less than they should," Schafer said.

Schafer's advice: Always carry your Social Security card in your purse or wallet. When starting a new job, always show your Social Security card to your employer and make sure he copies the number and the name from your card.

"Remember," Schafer said. "Don't try to memorize your Social Security number. It could cost you money."

250,000 Hurt Annually In Broken Glass Mishaps

A youngster bats a homer in a backyard ball game; the shattered window that results is a perennial theme for cartoonists. But it's no laughing matter when the same youngster runs for a high one — headlong into a glass patio door.

More than 250,000 Americans are injured annually in their homes by broken glass in doors of all kinds. Half of them are youngsters under 15.

That statistic alone should be enough to make you take stock NOW of possible hazards from glass in your home.

There are many — sliding glass doors, storm doors, patio doors, structural doors with glass panels, glass enclosures for bathtubs and showers. Running, falling, or even walking absentmindedly through a door glazed with ordinary glass can result in serious injury or death.

Potential tragedy is preventable. Make sure your home contains only safety glass or other unbreakable material in hazardous locations. And make sure too, even with safety glass, large expanses of clear glass are marked — with etching or decals, or some other attention-attracting device. Many an unwary person has tried to walk through a beautifully transparent sliding door and even a bump on the head is no fun.

PHILIP MASH, vice president of Zibbe-Amerada Glass Co., Elk Grove Village, a company which pioneered the manufacture of laminated environmental and security glass, says homeowners generally do not realize the shocking dangers that exist from ordinary single-strength door glass.

Such glass will shatter upon impact, sending shards flying to cut, and possibly blind, and leaving jagged edges threatening anyone who comes in contact.

For years, Mash said, major glass manufacturers have recognized the need for a change in the safety standards of door glass. In an effort to curtail the mounting number of home accidents from this cause, he said, a model bill was drafted by the Consumer Safety Glazing Committee (CSGC) a cooperative effort of interested government, safety, labor and glass industry leaders.

The model law was designed to be introduced in state legislatures and requires the use of safety glazing — laminated glass, tempered glass, wired glass, rigid plastic — in hazardous locations.

The CSGC has defined hazardous locations as any area where the glazing material is exposed to frequent physical contact by humans, specifically: sliding glass doors, storm doors, framed or unframed glass entrance doors and adjacent fixed glazed panels that might be mistaken for doors, bath enclosures and shower doors.

CURRENTLY, Mash said, only 22 states have legislation requiring safety glazing material. The law will be submitted in the remainder of the states this year, he said.

The glass accident problems, Mash said, stimulated the National Safety Council to investigate. Their efforts initiated a study conducted cooperatively by the U.S. Public Health Service and local state and health agencies. It found:

Glass injury victims were reported going from indoors to outdoors in more than 75 per cent of the cases. Had safety glazing materials been used, all the injuries could have been limited or prevented.

A Food and Drug Administration Bureau of Product Safety study of reported information from hospital emergency room records in 136 hospitals located in 35 states said: "Because of deceptive lighting and age or behavior patterns of individuals, an increasing number of people, especially children, are reported as walking or running through glass panels, resulting in serious and sometimes fatal injuries."

A study of 100,000 glass door injuries, Mash said, found:

—40,000 children suffered injuries to arm and wrist.

—141 deaths per year were attributed to glass door injury.

—More than 7,000 persons were hospitalized from injuries.

—75 per cent of all injuries occurred to those under 18 years of age.

—More than 3,000 children were hospitalized for injuries of arm and wrist; lacerations of hands — second most frequent; lacerations of face — third most frequent.

INFORMATION collected, he said, indicates more injuries occur during warm weather months and approximately 50 per cent of the injuries occur in late afternoon or early evening hours.

Medical costs for glass door injury victims come to more than $13 million annually.

"Tomorrow will be too late to correct the hazard that could ruin a child's life today."

Social Security and You

Q—I RECEIVE monthly social security retirement payments. My 57-year-old wife is completely disabled. Can she draw monthly cash payments on my record?

A—She'll be eligible for benefits as your wife when she's 62, whether or not she's disabled then. Has she worked under social security herself? If so, she may be eligible for disability payments now, based on her own earnings. She should call a social security office for more information. In Cook County, phone 239-7600 for answers to your social security questions.

Q—I'M A COLLEGE student getting monthly social security checks. Since I've already told social security I would be in college until 1973, why do I have to fill out and send a student reporting card?

A—Students sometimes have to change their plans. The End of the School Year Report verifies a student's current enrollment status and his continuing intent to attend school full-time.

Q—I RECEIVE both a retirement benefit from social security and a pension from the V.A. Does my veteran's pension count as earnings?

A—No. Only wages and self-employment income count as earnings. Other income — such as another pension, dividends, or interest — does not affect your social security payments. However, your social security benefits may affect a non-service connected Veteran's pension. For information about this, you should contact the Veterans Administration.

Q—MY WIFE worked in a department store for nearly 4 years before she died recently. Our only child has been in a home for the mentally retarded since she was 15. She is now 27. Could our daughter get social security checks on my wife's work record?

A—It's quite possible that your daughter can get checks. Call any social security office and ask about the benefits for a disabled adult child. Again, the phone number for social security information in the Chicago Metropolitan area is 239-7600.

Above, Beyond The Call Of Duty

by DOROTHY OLIVER

How does one go about earning the title "Employee Of The Year" from Holy Family Hospital, Des Plaines?

"Earlier this year, lasting several weeks, Sharon Budzichowski was working seven days a week due to the therapy required for two severely burned patients. Her attitude during this entire period was — what more can I do?"

"Sharon has a confidence in herself that allows her to exceed in the performance of her job."

"Noticing those anxieties in patients scheduled for surgery who she has come to know well, Sharon has taken it upon herself to request permission to accompany them to surgery and be in the recovery room afterwards."

"... shows an even temperament even with the most difficult patient ... an abundance of energy ... a brighter-side philosophy ... initiative ..."

THE DESCRIPTIONS are attributed to Sharon, Arlington Heights, one of two physical therapist assistants at Holy Family. Miss Budzichowski, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Budzichowski, was elected employee of the year by hospital employees earlier this year after her name and qualifications were submitted by co-workers.

"I was very surprised and very honored when I won," Sharon said as she sat in the physical therapy office answering phone calls and checking her Mickey Mouse watch between questions. "I really don't know why I won — but everyone has been so great to me here."

Others seem to know why Sharon, in her 3½ years with Holy Family, has become such an asset to the hospital. In a resume of why she was selected to compete with three others for the honor, Sharon was cited again and again for her loyalty, initiative, and performance of duties above and beyond the call.

SHARON feels whatever she has achieved today she owes to Rosemarie Gloeckner, a registered physical therapist and head of the physical therapy department at Holy Family. "I had no background in this type of work but it's something I wanted to do for a long time. Rosemarie Gloeckner taught me everything I know. I was lucky to get this job and she's helped me in so many ways. If it weren't for her to begin with I wouldn't have had a chance at employee of the year. I feel what I am I totally owe to her."

Under Rosemarie's guidance Sharon has grown in her job. In the course of the day Sharon teaches patients to walk with crutches, and carries out whatever assignment she is given by her superiors. She assists and conducts departmental in-service training programs for all new nursing personnel, students nurses, volunteers and employees unfamiliar with the functions of physical therapy.

SHARON ADMITS to being tired at the end of her day but in the morning, "I want to come and do what I can to help people."

Parts of her job are hard to carry out. "Some things are very difficult like knowing you have to induce pain to make someone better. I just try to close my mind to what's happening to them and encourage them to think of the benefits it will bring," she said.

Her future includes continuing her profession at Holy Family and carrying on her philosophy of working with the physically ill.

"I just try and bring comfort and help to the patients," she said. "I try and give them the feeling that what they're facing is not the end of everything."

Casualty Loss Is Tax Deductible

Damage to a car, home, or other non-business property may qualify as a deduction on Federal income tax returns, Roger C. Beck, district director of Internal Revenue for Northern Illinois, said.

Tax deductions may usually be taken when the damage to non-business property occurs from a natural disaster such as a fire, flood, storm or hurricane. Losses from theft may also be deducted. However, losses resulting from such causes as rust, erosion, termites, etc. are not deductible.

Beck said a distinction between a deductible and a non-deductible casualty rests on whether the event causing the disaster was sudden or unexpected. Damage to a home from a fire or flood is deductible because the event was sudden or unexpected whereas damage from termites or settling due to erosion is not deductible since it occurs over a long period of time.

ON REAL PROPERTY held for personal use the amount of the loss is either the adjusted basis of the property or the decrease in its fair market value — whichever is lower. On personal property, the cost or the decrease in fair market value, whichever is lower, is the amount of the loss. If the loss is covered by insurance, this compensation should be subtracted from the amount which may be deducted.

Only the amount of the net loss of property used for personal purposes, in excess of $100 per casualty or theft, is deductible. Married taxpayers filing joint returns need to exclude only $100 for each casualty loss. If they file separate returns, each is subject to the $100 exclusions.

Damage to a car may also qualify as a casualty loss if the accident was not due to the taxpayer's negligence or willful act. Beck said that no deduction may be taken for amounts paid for damage to another car with which the taxpayer collided.

On theft losses, the deduction may be taken in the year it is discovered. No deduction is permitted for lost or mislaid property.

Publication 547, "Tax Information on Disasters, Casualty Losses, and Thefts," furnishes more detailed information on this subject. Write to the District Director, Internal Revenue Service, P.O. Box 1193, Chicago, Illinois, 60690, for a free copy.

Extend 'Race Track' Courses

The Harper College programs of "Teaching English as a Second Language" and "Adult Basic Education" have been allowed to continue through June 30 due to $4,225.00 in supplementary federal grants, according to Mrs. Noreen Lopez, coordinator of the programs.

Funding for both programs is administered through the Illinois Superintendent of Public Instruction.

"We would have had to close classes as usual in May," Mrs. Lopez said, "because our 1971-72 grant of $28,000.00 was to run from August 1971 to May 1972. But the students requested a continuation of classes. The supplementary grants made it possible to extend through June 30. We were able to offer classes at Arlington Heights racetrack for the back-stretch people."

Classes in "Teaching English as a Second Language" have been presented free of charge to 250 students during the 1971-72 season at Harper campus and also at industrial firms in the area. The supplementary money also facilitated the addition of a fourth to the three levels of English instruction for foreign speaking adults.

Scholarship Deadline Is Slated Aug. 1

Illinois high school graduates and college undergraduates have until Aug. 1 to apply for state scholarships according to Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie.

The action was taken by the Illinois State Scholarship Commission at Ogilvie's request. Applications should be sent to the commission at Box 607, Deerfield, Ill. 60015.

Ogilvie said, "This year — for the first time in the 14-year history of the state scholarship program — ample funds will be provided for all students who can demonstrate need."

"We have been assured of passage of the essential appropriation for the commission, which sets aside more than $4 million to assist some 70,000 full-time students who attend any Illinois college or university, public or private."

"I would stress that the only requirement is need, and, of course, acceptance at an Illinois college. This is not a program to help just the bright young people of the state, but every single one who needs financial help to further his education and his chances for improved earnings throughout his working years."

Latest Recall--The Crystal Ball

by DICK WEST

Following is slightly ahead of the news. But it could happen any day now. — Ed.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The C-All Crystal Ball Co. announced today it was recalling 1,492 of its 1972 oracular orbs for repairs of serious defects.

The company acted after a series of mishaps had befallen political analysts who were using the globes for presidential campaign predictions.

Sam Cassandra, C-All president, said the recall involved his two most popular models, the Sibyl Six and the Delphi 800.

He said investigation disclosed that tiny cracks, invisible to the naked eye, had appeared in the political foresight section of crystal balls owned by syndicated columnists, television commentators and other pundits.

"THESE CRACKS cause prescience leakages which can result in a serious loss of clairvoyance power," Cassandra explained.

In addition, he said, there has been excessive vaporizing in the divination system, creating cloudiness around the omens and causing the portents to malfunction.

This made provision difficult and led to a spate of faulty prognostications.

Crystal Ball engineers said the defects in the 1972 C-Alls began showing up early in January, causing seers to veer too far in the direction of Senator Muskie.

After the New Hampshire primary, some pundits took their crystal balls back to the dealer to have the indicators overhauled.

Then, after the Florida primary, the pundits suddenly swerved toward Senator Humphrey, brushing aside Governor Wallace and completely bypassing Senator McGovern.

In California, where they came to a screeching halt and careened into reverse, it finally became obvious that the augury apparatus was misfiring.

CASSANDRA SAID all crystal balls being recalled should be back in service well before the Democratic National Convention next month.

"We are confident that once these structural defects have been corrected, political soothsayers will again perform with a high degree of prophetic reliability," he told a news conference.

Dick West

"Any political analyst equipped with either our Sibyl Six or Delphi 800 should be able to clearly foresee the outcome of the November election."

Immediately after the recall was announced, however, there was a heavy run on Ouija boards. Many pundits apparently are convinced that the 1972 crystal ball is a lemon.

Do-It-Yourself

Your furnace stands a better chance of falling apart in the summer when it is off than it does in the winter when it is working.

The soot and dirt in the cold, unused furnace absorb moisture. The combination results in an acid that will corrode metal surfaces.

On a gas-fired furnace, keep the pilot light on. It gives off very little heat, certainly not enough to affect the temperature on your house. Keeping it on, however, will keep down the amount of moisture.

Obviously the best way to avoid corrosion is to keep your furnace clean. A vacuum cleaner makes the job easy. Run a cleaning attachment into the furnace as far as you can. Once you have cleaned the interior surfaces, spray them with light oil. Use an insect spray if you don't have an aerosol can of machine oil.

Metal pipes, made of thinner material than the furnace itself, are especially susceptible to corrosion. If you can take these pipes apart it is a good idea to do so and give them a thorough cleaning with a stiff brush.

CHECK THE filter on a forced air system. Replace it if it is very dirty.

This is the time to lubricate the blower motor and fan. Check manufacturer's instructions for oiling points. Don't forget that some motors are self-lubricating. Check the belt to see that it isn't too loose.

If you have a furnace with a water boiler, resist the temptation to drain and refill it with fresh water. The water that has been heated all winter is the best thing for the boiler. This old water has no air in it and will not have a corrosive effect. Refilling with fresh water admits air and the trouble starts. Add only enough water to fill it.

Fall is the time for complete draining and refilling. Remember that fresh water adds sediment that goes to the bottom of the boiler.

With oil systems, keep the fuel tank full. Condensation forms on the surfaces of an empty or partially empty tank. The moisture runs down into the oil.

Protect the oil burner over the summer. Turn off the current and the gas ignition if it has one. Clean nozzle and other metal parts and coat with oil. Any mechanism outside the furnace should be protected from dirt by wrapping.

While the furnace humidifier is off, drain it and clean.

Every Tanglewood townhome comes complete with its own countryside.

Do you sometimes have the feeling that you're living right in the middle of an intersection, surrounded by cars, concrete and smog? If you do, then you should move to Tanglewood Village.

At Tanglewood, you'll be living in Greenbrook Country. You may find yourself just sitting and looking at the green trees all around you. You can hear the quiet. The air is a pleasure to breathe.

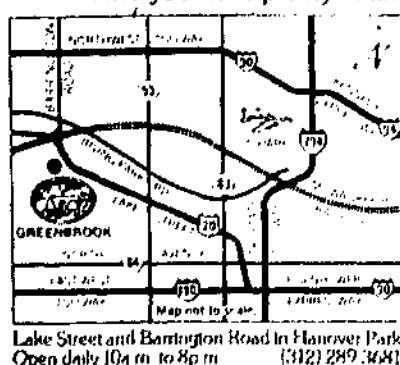

And if you feel like activity, there's plenty here for you. There are beautiful swimming pools. Shuffleboard. A luxurious fireside lounge. Dances. Parties. All kinds of enjoyable things to do.

And you have plenty of time to do these things, because you don't have to mow your lawn, clip your hedge, or paint the outside of your home. That's all taken care of by professionals. As for the townhomes at Tanglewood, we could only describe them as "luxurious." They're one and two stories, with 2, 3 or 4 bedrooms. Each has a private enclosed patio, and a garden-view kitchen.

A townhome at Tanglewood Village comes complete with just about anything you could want. Including its own countryside.

'Hizzoner' Still Reigns

There has been considerable speculation since the March primary election that the political muscle of Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley is atrophying. It is premature.

In a raw display of political power, the mayor demonstrated last week that he is still very much in control of the Democratic Party in Illinois.

Seeking his fifth election as chairman of the Illinois delegation to the Democratic National Convention, Daley discovered early in the week that opponents in the party had lined up enough votes, ostensibly, to oust him in favor of Sen. Adlai E. Stevenson III.

Optimists who declared before the fact that Stevenson was in and Daley was out reckoned without the political weapons at the mayor's disposal, and his willingness to use them.

There are among the 170 delegates to the convention a considerable number who owe their jobs and their political futures to Daley and his organization. Those jobs and those futures can be secured only by fealty to the mayor, and as he demonstrated last week, he has no hesitancy in calling on his subjects when their title is due.

The fact that the Stevenson rebellion came as near to success as it did indicates that there has been some shippage in Daley's grip on the party.

But his influence reaches beyond the obedience of his cronies, and however it may have slipped, that influence remains one of the most powerful individual political clubs in the nation.

Despite protestations of innocence by Daley lackeys, it is evident that at least one major legislative proposal was throttled in reprisal against Rep. Eugenia S. Chapman of Arlington Heights. Following her declaration of support for Stevenson, Mrs. Chapman saw Daley Democrats who previously had supported her in her sponsorship of the constitutional amendment for women's rights change their position and scuttle the measure.

There are still enough state legislators who owe their allegiance to the boss of Chicago to sink any piece of legislation, regardless of its worth to the people. That is at once one of the major strengths of Mayor Daley and one of the major defects in Illinois government and politics.

Mrs. Chapman, along with her suburban Democratic colleagues, in the House, Aaron Jaffe of Skokie, John Matejevich of North Chicago, Dan Pierce of Highland Park and Harold Katz of Glencoe, are to be congratulated for their effort to free the Democrats from Daley's feudal control, notwithstanding the fact that they gave him their votes when Stevenson withdrew from the contest to spare his friends from retribution. But their time, we fear, has not yet come.

Veto Lottery Bill

By the end of this week, the state legislature may have taken a giant but unfortunate step towards establishing a state lottery in Illinois.

Bills to set up a lottery are scheduled to go before the full Senate this week for a final vote. If passed, they will end up on Gov. Richard Ogilvie's desk for approval or veto.

We argued, editorially on May 8 and 18, that a state lottery by itself makes little sense. Our arguments: —If you allow a lottery as one form of gambling, there is little logic to not permitting gambling casinos, with roulette wheels, crap tables, blackjack and "21."

—A lottery will provide some needed revenue (but no one is certain how much). More important than "tax relief" is a thorough evaluation and revamping of our piecemeal tax structure for more equitable taxation in all areas.

We hope Gov. Ogilvie is listening closely to both of these arguments. We see no fiscal pot of gold at the end of the brightly-colored lottery. There are other changes which must precede such an ill-considered plan.

Studying Sleep

Here's news of some sort: Marital status doesn't have much to do with how much sleep a person gets, at least according to a study made by a student at Michigan State University.

Gaines W. Wilson asked volunteer single and married students to keep records of their hours of sleep during the month of May, and also to note the degree of happiness or unhappiness they felt upon waking.

Ranked first for getting the most sleep were married women, followed by single men, followed by married men and, lastly, single women.

Wilson had hypothesized that married men and women sleep longer because of being more "settled and secure" whereas single students socialize and keep "rather late" hours.

That this was no slipshod study is shown by the fact that the married women slept an average of 7.72 hours (not 7.71 or 7.73) out of 24, single men 7.33, married men 7.29 and single women 7.22.

As for waking-up moods, these ranged between 3 and 5 on a happiness-unhappiness scale of 1 through 5, whatever that means.

Daytime naps were not a significant factor in the overall picture, and it is not recorded whether most napping takes place inside or outside of classrooms.

Walker's Rougher Route

by BOB LAHEY
Political Editor

Dan Walker's campaign for governor has been, to all appearances, sailing smoothly along in recent weeks.

But last weekend, two incidents occurred which indicate that the waters may be getting a little rough.

First, Charles Nicodemus, competent political editor of the Chicago Daily News, reported that Walker campaign aides had participated in a telephone campaign to swing support for Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley in a challenge to his leadership of the Illinois delegation to the national convention.

And Saturday night, Walker's unsolicited candidate for lieutenant governor, Neil Hartigan, appeared on Irv Kupcinet's show, billed as "representing Mayor Daley," in a scarcely believable declaration that the mayor had exercised no pressure on delegates in lining up votes for the chairmanship.

Walker's chief asset in his bid for the governor's mansion has been his opposition to "boss policies." And while he has muted criticism of Daley since becoming the official candidate of the Democratic party, much of his support still lies with those who see him as a possible instrument of deliverance from Daley's oppression.

What Dan Walker cannot afford is the appearance of a behind-the-scenes deal with Daley.

Participation by Victor DeGrazia, Walker's campaign manager, in an effort to bolster Daley's power — which is what Nicodemus portrayed — could be the sort of boner which costs frontrunners elections.

There is some doubt about just what DeGrazia did in the days before Adlai Stevenson decided he must withdraw his challenge to Daley as the delegation chairman.

Rep. Daniel Pierce of Highland Park was one of those quoted in the Daily News as saying that DeGrazia called to ask for his vote against Stevenson. Pierce, however, declared that DeGrazia called, but did not ask him to vote one way or another.

Another person identified in the story was Larry Johnson, Peoria County Democratic chairman, who reportedly told several persons that DeGrazia had solicited his vote against Stevenson. Johnson, it should be noted, was a strong supporter of Paul Simon in the primary contest against Walker.

As Pierce noted, "It would be surprising" to many Walker backers if he indeed was doing anything to strengthen Mayor Daley's grip on the party.

Perilous Postal Lot

There is a sign at the exit of the Palestine Post Office — "Fasten Seat Belt" — No truer sign was ever printed. We urge, however, that a similar one be installed at the entrance, and without delay.

Only a highly skilled driver can enter the grounds without jeopardizing his car or perhaps his life. We suggest to those in charge of driver training that all students be required to master this obstacle before granting them a driver's license.

We understand this area belongs to the village and it will be corrected when Colfax is repaired and widened. In the meantime, it might be advisable for all local auto service departments to increase their inventories on springs. They should do a good business.

EDITORIAL: Another sacred American tradition — the gasoline credit card — is under attack.

To hold his support in the face of an apparently revitalized Gov. Richard Ogilvie, Walker must avoid even the appearance of evil — and evil, to most of his voters, is Richard J. Daley.

Any affiliation between DeGrazia and the Daley camp — if there is such a thing — without Walker's knowledge would be equally detrimental. The sins of the campaign manager are visited upon the candidate.

Meanwhile, it would appear that Hartigan has considered the choice of loyalties between Dan Walker and Richard Daley, and has opted for Daley.

Hartigan, who sought the nomination for lieutenant governor as Simon's running mate, has been barely visible in the Walker campaign. Neither Walker nor Hartigan has made much pretense that they are working closely together, and it is suspected that Hartigan has not been willing to make the kind of renunciation of Daley that Walker must demand before really taking him in as a running mate.

The first public demand Walker made of Hartigan was that he renounce his position as a ward committeeman in Chicago. Hartigan has largely ignored that request.

His appearance on Kup's show as "the mayor's representative" on Saturday night appeared to be an indication that he sees little reward in sacrificing his ties to the mayor.

The irony may be that in continued public loyalty to the mayor may be just what Hartigan needs to attract votes in Chicago — and with it, ballots for Walker. Hartigan outpolled Walker in Cook County by over 100,000 votes — 544,897 to 435,484. And in order to vote for Neil Hartigan in November, the Daley legions must also vote for Dan Walker.

She Responds To Handgun Dispute

Because you have asked people to respond to your editorial which stressed outlawing handguns to all except police and gun clubs, as well as to respond to the letters defending the right to own guns which you've published, I am moved to respond to both the "pros" and the "cons." I am, for various reasons, a non-handgun or rifle owner, and the whole issue to me seems to have risen to a hysterical level on both sides. The hysteria and lack of communication frightens me more than whether people do or do not have firearms. I will speak of this issue more fully at the end. First I would like to ask some questions of both the "pros" and "cons."

To you who would ban handguns except to police officers and gun clubs, I ask:

1) Why only handguns? John F. Kennedy and Martin Luther King were both killed by rifles.

2) Why do you trust policemen and gun clubs more than you trust your neighbor who owns a weapon but is not a member of either group? No matter how well trained policemen and gun club members are, anyone can make a mistake, or much to his own surprise, find himself using the weapon in a violent way.

3) As one respondent, Mr. Valle, wrote, prohibition didn't work. It just provided a dandy illegal profit venture for syndicate members. Making it illegal to buy a handgun or any similar weapon seems to have the same kind of profit potential. Peggy Taylor pointed out that one can even make one's own weapon.

To those who are afraid their guns will be removed (and I don't think they should be) I would comment:

1) Why don't you work actively for national legislation that requires registration for all? Yes, I know criminals don't register, but it might help in police work if only to a small extent. If you use your guns primarily for sport or self-protection, you have nothing to fear by registering. I am sure all of you have legal driver's licenses, and I haven't heard you object to getting those, even though if you spend a few days in a traffic court, you'll discover many people drive without a license. Likewise, you have to register your cars, buy vehicle stickers and state car license plates. Is it the least bit possible that deep within yourselves you suspect that even a well-disciplined marksman such as yourselves could become violent in your usage and the weapon is then easily traced to you? If it is not fear of your own potential emotions, then please explain to me what it is that bothers you about registration. If I were to purchase such a weapon, it would not bother me at all to register it. I would not feel I had lost any constitutional freedom or be angry that because criminals don't register I shouldn't have to either. Lots of people cheat on their income tax, too, and though I find this annoying, I don't feel it gives me the right to cheat on mine.

2) Mr. Valle and other writers have been correct in stating that Bremer, who shot Wallace, should have been properly punished much earlier when he was caught carrying a concealed weapon without a permit. Instead the original charge was changed and he was free. Some of your groups have lobbying funds and I find nothing inherently wrong in lobbying for change. Why not use these funds for better law enforcement?

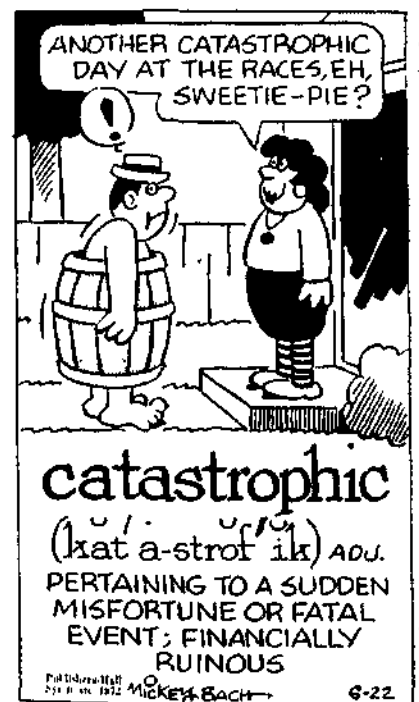

3) Could you drop your assumption that weapons in the proper household are never used in family fights? We have a tragic case in the village of one brother shooting another. Life magazine recently published a long article about a well-disciplined man who shot and killed his dope-addicted son. Then from time to time we see reports of "empty" gun killings. If these guns are then kept under proper lock and key, so no such tragedies can occur, how useful are they as self-protection against a night intruder? However, if having them makes you feel safer, I still think it's your privilege. I am just tired of hearing a blanket statement that nothing ever goes wrong in their use if handled by the proper person. I think both "pros" and "cons" are making a dangerous assumption when they think they can predict who a "proper" gun owner is. It's not a judgment I'd care to make.

Why can't both groups stop flailing at each other and seek some partial solutions together? Violence has always been a part of our history. I see violence rising, but not on the terms most people would consider it violence. Most people would consider violence to be only that which results in death or actual physical damage to a person. I would like to suggest that violence is emerging in a much different form. I see us as a nation, because of the stresses we all face daily, seeming to feel it is a constitutional right to take out these stresses on innocent bystanders through the hostile way we drive our cars, our irritation with each other in grocery stores or any place where one or the other of us may cause a slight delay, the fact that if you stop to warn a youngster that he's riding his bike dangerously and he replies with four letter words, etc. Political killers have and will always exist and must be dealt with. But I am much more worried about our having lost our sense of humor. If we cannot regain it, we will see violence emerge in a way we have never before experienced it. Banning or not banning guns will not solve a problem of this magnitude.

NEW YORK (UPI) — Casualty insurers need to get back to fundamental principles — to do things the way Lloyds of London did in the old days, says Mike Carmichael.

Carmichael is a vice president of CIC Financial Corp., a small Chicago firm that writes workingmen's compensation insurance in Illinois.

Prior to 1966 CIC was like lots of other small casualty insurers. It bumbled along, doing things "by the book," sticking to pre-determined risk formulas and rates and wondering why its revenues and profits didn't grow faster.

"Then our chairman, Ralph Applegate, decided to make a drastic change," Carmichael said. "We decided to use the rate tables the way they did at Lloyds — just as a rough guideline. We decided we would study every risk individually, take it on if we possibly could, no matter how tough it seemed, and negotiate a rate high enough to cover it. That couldn't be done in all states, but Illinois law permits it."

THE POLICY has paid off like a winning lottery ticket.

Profits have risen 25 per cent a year, and there has been a 50 per cent stock dividend. Assets are up 74 per cent and premium income 83 per cent.

"We didn't accomplish that just by charging all the traffic would bear," said Carmichael. "We also showed our policyholders how to solve the problems that made them high-risk cases in the first place. To accomplish this we created our own engineering staff and tackled customer problems that the bigger insurance companies had refused to bother with."

Carmichael gave some examples. There was the Chinese man who had a big basement restaurant. He couldn't keep his insurance because employees and customers kept falling on the stairs.

"He was having eight or nine falls a year in the place, each one costing the insurance carrier money," said Carmichael.

CIC agreed to take on the risk at a substantially increased rate but sent its own engineer to find a way to prevent the falls.

"WE DISCOVERED the place had slick marble steps. The engineer put carbonum step plates on the stairs and the tumbling of workers and customers ceased," Carmichael said.

The Chinese proprietor wasn't too grateful. He eventually gave his insurance to a big company, "apparently just for reasons of prestige."

CIC isn't always able to reduce risks but it can provide insurance sometimes for people who can't get it otherwise.

"A case in point was a firm of tuck pointers, people who repair mortar joints on old buildings," he said. "The rate table put them on the masons' rate but their accident experience was much higher than that of ordinary masonry workers so nobody would insure them. Our engineer decided to put them on the window washers' rate, which is quite a bit higher. They've been able to live with that very well and it's good business for us."

A. O. Smith Corp.

Earnings of A. O. Smith Corp., Arlington Heights, in the first half of 1972 will be ahead of the comparable period last year, L. B. Smith, chairman and chief executive officer, said.

Smith estimated first half earnings would be in the range of $7,650,000 to $7,900,000, or $1.55 to $1.60 a share. In 1971, earnings in the same period were $7,117,000, or $1.49 a share.

Sales in the first six months of 1972 should be in the vicinity of $253 million, up from $240,429,000 recorded in 1971.

In the second quarter, Smith estimated earnings at $3,450,000 to $3,700,000, or 70 cents to 75 cents per share. This compares with earnings of $4,037,000, or 82 cents a share in 1971.

Sales in the second quarter are estimated at about $128 million, compared with $123,605,000 in 1971.

Changes Spark Excise Tax Scene

Various developments continue to keep the federal excise tax pot boiling, notes Commerce Clearing House (CCH).

1971 saw still another extension of the interest equalization tax, which now runs through March 31, 1973.

Despite the fact the 7 per cent federal excise on new car purchases was removed — the first time since pre-Korean War days — and the 10 per cent excise on lightweight trucks was repealed, total excise collections were up some $500 million in just the last quarter of 1971 over the same 1970 period, to a quarterly total of about $4.5 billion — proving that federal excise levies are still very much a part of the nation's tax fabric.

To assist those concerned with these and other developments on the federal excise tax front, CCH is making available the 1972 U.S. Excise Tax Guide which follows the format and style of the publisher's companion publication, the 1972 U.S. Master Tax Guide covering federal income taxes.

The Excise Tax Guide reflects all laws enacted up to the date of publication. Also explained in the 456-page book are new regulations as well as rulings and court decisions.

Special features of the book include excise tax rate tables, lists of excise tax forms by subject matter and by number, a tax code section finding list, and check lists of taxes and nontax items CCH said.

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — The General Mills Co. product called Chips may be referred to as potato chips in advertising, the 8th Circuit Court of Appeals has ruled.

A three-judge panel upheld a lower court ruling against the Association of Potato Chip Manufacturers which had contended that such advertising was misleading because chips are made from dehydrated potatoes instead of raw potatoes.

The panel said an explanation on the package of how the chips are manufactured is sufficient for consumer protection.

The court also ruled that Frito-Lay Inc. could distribute products known as

Premium Is On Accuracy When Pros Tackle Sunset

"A man who wins out there will have to be a nifty good putter," says former touring professional Ed Moehling about Sunset Ridge Country Club, site of this week's Western Open Golf Tournament. "The greens are going to be fast."

Moehling, an Elk Grove resident, failed to make the cut Monday in qualifying at Rolling Green Country Club. But he's played the Northbrook course and knows it well.

The 50-year-old layout has numerous trees and traps which places a premium on accuracy. However, the tricky slopes on every green should offer the biggest test. Those pros who were frustrated by the slick greens at Pebble Beach last week should be in for the same thing beginning on Thursday.

Sunset measures 6716 yards with a par of 71. The front nine is the shorter of the two nines with a par of 35 and a length of 3268 yards. The back nine, having one more par 5, is 3448 yards long.

The course record 64, held by Sunset pro Bob Harris and former assistant pro Bob Kubiak, will be the target score for the hot-shot touring pros.

This hole-by-hole description that follows was prepared after interviews with Don Grotli, the 40-year veteran course superintendent, and Harris, 17-year head pro.

No. 2, par 4, 404 yards — Straightaway

No. 3, par 4, 367 yards — Below the tee is a lake (Lake Domenic) requiring a carry of about 145 yards. Two traps on right at 170 yards and 220 yards, with trap on left about 200 yards from tee. Well trapped, medium-sized green with a hefty "roll" from right to left. Pin placements can make this a tough putting test.

No. 4, par 5, 507 yards — The big hitters should score here. Virtually straightaway off the tee, but trees on both sides of fairway demand accuracy. Good, well-placed drives will enable many to reach green with second shot. Should stay to right because of heavy trees which almost hang over green on left, with traps to right and left of green fore-front.

No. 6, par 3, 186 yards — Accuracy off tee at premium here. While there is little tree trouble, green is almost surrounded by two large traps and Lake Domenic, at left and back of green, presents a hazard.

No. 7, par 4, 384 yards — Sharp dog-leg to left, bend coming about 190 yards out. With traps and trees at left side, player must stay to right, though trees near right fairway edge present hazard. Fairly "tricky" green with trees almost sur-

Paradise Lost, Memories Found

LONG BEFORE Roger Maris forced statisticians to insert 61' above Babe Ruth's homer mark, the greatest Yankee of them all's record had been repeatedly smashed by a handful of young sluggers.

"Sixty-one homers, ha!" These sluggers would sometimes double that output in a single summer.

Players clubbing out a dozen round trippers in one game was quite common, almost child's play. In truth, that's just what it was.

Back in Burlington, Iowa — a dot on any midwest map — youngsters played from early afternoon until you couldn't see the ball anymore.

This was baseball in its purest form — no umpires, no coaches, no parents, no bleachers, no dugouts, no uniforms, no chalk lines, no helmets, no backstops, no base bags and no strikes. The only thing that even resembled a major league walkout occurred when a guy owning the bat or ball didn't get his way and quit. However, such delays only lasted as long as it took to go home and scrounge up an old friction taped ball or a nailed and taped broken bat.

Any vacant lot or field would do as long as there was some way of determining a homer — the end all of these marathon clashes in our neighborhood.

We had never heard of sandlots. The only thing present on our diamonds was grass. However, after about 50 games, usually over a 50-day period, there was more dirt and less of the green stuff.

A good size rock, hunk of wood, piece of cardboard or old rag would make up the bases. Our uniforms consisted of jeans, T-shirts, sneakers and a ball cap.

Everybody was fortunate to have gloves, all of them being the cheap kind out of a stamp catalogue.

Only the older boys could afford new bats and balls. This gave them the edge in any argument. Besides owning the equipment, they also won any discussions with a "Wanna fight about it?" crack. Both kept the little guys in line.

Although these memories have faded over the past 20 years, I thought they could be refreshed by returning to my old hometown haunts. Back to those areas where a skinny boy used to spend his summer days in love with a game.

First stop was the South Hill lot. The gang's pre-teen years were spent here raining hardballs over a three-foot fence onto Glenn Street, aka blows to Sheffield or Waveland avenues from Wrigley Field.

As we grew older, homers didn't count unless they made it over the street. We thought they were some shots but few would have cleared most Little League fences.

Any thoughts of visualizing again those fun times vanished at the lot site. A large home rested on the famous neighborhood diamond. The outfield was now a front yard. Ebbett's Field fans and I had something in common at that moment.

We abandoned our little lot and began playing in a large field when we were 10. At least a city block long, the field had prairie like grass which made it tough finding a ball hit to the outfield. Sometimes those friction-taped spheres weren't recovered until football season. This was my next stop.

The field was our sports complex. Besides baseball and football, we attempted to hunt rabbits, squirrels and birds with slingshots and bows and arrows. Flew kites, camped out in huts and tree houses and enjoyed its several fruit trees. It was paradise.

Only a few trees now remain on well manicured lawns. A half dozen houses have wiped out our field. The only animal I saw was domesticated — a dog chained in the backyard.

Where third base once was, a barbecue grill now sits. First base has been covered by a paved street that accommodates six homes.

The only thing that hadn't changed about the area was reflected in a sign, "Slow . . . children at play." However, the games they now play are much faster than ours ever were.

At the end of the lot, youngsters still make use of a grassy area that had not yet felt the crush of concrete. The grass was worn in spots, but not because of baseball games. Mini-bikes — probably ridden throughout the day — have fashioned trails more intricate than the patterns of a grand prix course.

Two places — school diamonds — where we had played unorganized baseball still remain the same. But they also have added some new signs, "Handball prohibited. . . play softball only."

The city park diamonds also looked pretty much the same. More bleachers had been added to the three diamonds, but little else was different.

Those minor league days wearing team T-shirts and caps, those Little League days getting clobbered by the same guy twice for booming homers in one game and those Babe Ruth games, most of which were spent on the bench.

All those memories returned.

It was nice to see that some things hadn't changed.

Short Drive To Site Of Western

Herald area golf fans don't have far to drive for the 1972 Western Open.

In recent years trips of approximately one hour were common if you wanted to watch the professionals in their annual visit to the Chicago area.

It'll be easy this week. Sunset Ridge Country Club is located approximately 10 miles east of Arlington Heights, and there are many direct routes to public parking lots.

Championship rounds are set for today, Friday, Saturday and Sunday. If a play-off is required Sunday, there will be sudden death, beginning at the 15th hole.

Ticket prices are $6.00 Thursday and Friday and $7.50 Saturday and Sunday. Children under the age of 14 are admitted for half price.

Following are the best routes from the expressway and tollway systems:

FROM: Tri-State Tollway (Northbound), I-294. Exit at Willow Road. East to Waukegan Road. North to public parking lots.

FROM: Tri-State Tollway (Southbound). Take I-94 to Waukegan Road exit. South to public parking lots on Waukegan Road.

FROM: Edens Expressway (Northbound). Exit at Lake Avenue, westbound. West to Waukegan Road. North to public parking lots. (Note: This is strongly recommended over the Willow Road approach because of a two-lane street and congested traffic.)

FROM: Edens Expressway (Southbound). Exit at Clavey Road "Old Skokie Road," south to Dundee Road. West on Dundee to Waukegan Road. South on Waukegan to public parking lots. (Note: This is strongly recommended over the Sunset Ridge Road approach because of congested traffic and because public parking lots are not readily accessible off Sunset Ridge Road.)

Special Notes: Please be aware that public parking won't be available near the club on Sunset Ridge Road. However, sizable, accessible public parking lots are available off Waukegan Road, with gates providing walk-in entry to the golf course.

USAC Card Headlines Schedule At Santa Fe

Santa Fe Speedway presents its second United States Auto Club program this Friday night, June 23, with "Indianapolis 500" chauffeur Mel Kenyon of Lebanon, Ind., heading the star-studded entries. The exclusive Chicagoland USAC card begins at 8:30 p.m. with time trials starting at 7:30 p.m.

Kenyon, former USAC midget champion and regular "Indy 500" driver, makes only infrequent midget stops and Santa Fe Speedway fans will be treated to the kind of precision driving that has made Kenyon one of the top names in auto racing. He is entering a Sesto Chevy.

Other top names entered for the June 23 go include Jigger Sirois of Hammond, Ind., and Morle Bettenhausen, one-half of the famous brother team from Tinley Park, Ill.

A 50-lap feature spotlights the program which also includes four 10-lap heats, a trophy dash and a semi-feature. More than 80 cars are expected.

Other top midget chauffeurs include Dave Strickland of Englewood, Calif.; Gary Ponzini, Morgan Hills, Calif.; Les Scott, Ossian, Ind.; Bill Mecher, Indianapolis, Ind.; Bob Wente, Normandy, Mo.; Billy Renshaw, Indianapolis, Ind.; and Roger West from Joliet.

Santa Fe Speedway will also host USAC midget shows on July 28 and August 25.

Santa Fe Speedway presents high-flying motorcycle shows each Wednesday night and quick-moving stock car programs every Saturday and Sunday night.

Chicagoan Ken Widess leads a field of more than 25 late model drivers this Saturday and Sunday night, June 24 and 25.

Twenty-five lap main events for both late model and sportsman drivers are scheduled for both nights. Starting time is 8:30 p.m. on Saturday night and one-half hour earlier on Sunday. Time trials come one hour before the first event.

Widess, in only his second year of competition, has been a very impressive chauffeur. He presently ranks seventh in the point standings with his 1967 Chevrolet and has chalked up two heat wins and two trophy dash victories.

Dick Nelson, however, relentlessly continues his onslaught on the way to his seventh Santa Fe Speedway title. Leading the point standings by 85 points, Nelson has captured six features, six dashes, five heats and set fast time on six occasions — all this in 12 nights of racing.

Other feature wins have been nailed by Larry Jackson of Lyons (2), Tony Izzo of Bridgeview, Jim O'Connor from Kankakee, Al Johnson from Justice and Rick Clement of Chicago.

Santa Fe Speedway hosts weekly stock car shows on Saturdays and Sundays throughout the racing season. Exciting motorcycle cards are held each Wednesday night.

Santa Fe Speedway is located at 91st and Wolf Road approximately 20 minutes from downtown Chicago via the Stevenson Expressway.

Explorer Olympics July 14-16

The 1972 Explorer Olympics will be held July 14-16 inclusive at various sites throughout the Chicagoland area, it was announced this week by Thomas P. Mulaney, Chairman of the Explorer Olympics Games Committee and President of Wilson Sporting Goods Co.

This event, inaugurated in 1970 for the purpose of fostering competition among members of Explorer Posts of the Exploring Division, Chicago Area Council, Boy Scouts of America, will draw approximately 600 Explorers from all parts of the metropolitan Chicagoland area. A total of 18 competitive events will comprise the Olympic competition with gold, silver, and bronze medals awarded respectively to the top three finishers in each event.

The Explorer Olympics will be culminated with a recognition Banquet to be held on Monday evening, July 17, at the Conrad Hilton Hotel, at which all medal winners will be honored.

Serving on the Committee with Mulaney in organizing and raising funds for the Olympics are William "Bill" Kooisra, former Olympic competitor and now agent for the Massachusetts Mutual Life Insurance Company; and Thierry McCormick, Vice President of Public Relations and Civic Affairs for Meister Brau, Inc.

New Home

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — The Honus Wagner Memorial Statue will be given a new home at the Pirates' Three River Stadium. The nine-foot bronze casting will be removed from Schenley Park, location of old Forbes Field, to the new stadium and will get a complete refurbishing. Wagner played for the Pirates in the early 1900s and was considered of one of the greatest ball players of all times.

Pattee Out-Duels Martin; Palatine Tips Lions, 2-0

by LARRY EVERHART

Before the American Legion Ninth District baseball season began, the big question in the mind of Palatine coach Bob Grybash was whether he would have enough pitching to win consistently.

But after watching George Pattee fire the ball in his first two outings, the fears have largely been put to rest.

Pattee, a fastballing righthander, turned in his second bang-up job in as many games Tuesday when he stifled the Logan Square Lions, 2-0 on a cold day at Fremd High School. It was a battle between the top two finishers during the regular season in the Ninth District last year.

Terry Kukla was the batting hero, smashing a bases-loaded single in the sixth inning to break up a tight duel between Pattee and Ken Martin, who allowed seven hits.

Pattee permitted just three safeties and his first two walks of the season while dazzling the Lions with 12 strikeouts.

Hitting continued to be an area of concern for Logan Square — despite the four seasoned veterans in its lineup. The Lions were blanked for the second straight time in league action, making them 1-2. Palatine evened its Ninth District record at 1-1 and is 3-1 overall.

Pattee now has allowed a total of just seven hits, two walks and one run in 14 innings while striking out 22. And all this was against Arlington Heights and Logan Square, not exactly easy competition.

Steve Bobowski, Logan Square's second baseman, was the only batter standing between Pattee and a no-hitter. Only he could solve the righty's slants with a perfect three-for-three day. But his mates could not bring him around.

Martin was sailing along with a four-hitter until his fateful sixth. After striking out the first batter, he was hit for singles by Gary Pemberton and Bill Arkus. Then came a costly error which should have been the second out when a throw was dropped on a force play.

Kukla followed with his drive to right for both runs before Martin retired the next two batters.

Palatine's only previous chance to score had been in the fourth when Arkus doubled but was thrown out at the plate on Bruce Eberle's single. Keith Steelman also banged a double in the next inning but was stranded.

Logan Square's big threat came in the fifth when the first two batters reached base (hit batter and walk). Jim Bucaro was on third with no outs after a passed ball and wild pitch, but he stayed there. Fortunately for Palatine, Steve Bobowski did not come up in that inning.

Arlington, Hauptly Check Fenton In Summer League

Arlington gave pitcher Greg Hauptly a lead after the first inning and then nearly gave away the Northwest Summer League contest before winning by the same score Tuesday.

Playing under early spring conditions, Arlington committed five errors and Fenton eight in the frigid and windy conditions. However, the Cardinals and Hauptly were tough when they had to be.

After two were out in the initial frame, Ward Schell reached on a two-base error after an overthrow. Then he scored when a ball hit by Hauptly was misplayed.

Hauptly only allowed one hit the rest of the way in the five-inning contest that was halted by darkness. He walked just two and struck out four.

The Cardinal hurler had his problems in the fourth and fifth frames. He had to pitch out of a very tough jam in the fourth when runners reached second and third with nobody out. The first Bison batter singled to ruin his no-hitter and then next one reached on a two-base overthrow.

Hauptly forced the next batter to ground out which set up possibly the game-saving play. Right fielder Tom Luehring made the second putout and then relayed first to Brian Deevy, the Cards' first baseman, and then to Schoell who tagged the runner trying to score from third base for a double play.

A hit batsman, an error and a walk loaded the bases with only one out. Then Hauptly retired the next two for his shut-out.

Bill Wrenn led the Cardinal attack with two hits in three at bats.

Cold, Wind, Rain, Addison Conquer Fremd In Division

Only a few area teams braved the cold, wind and rain and tried to play baseball Tuesday. But Fremd High School's summer league team was one of them, and the Vikings came home from Addison Trail the victims of a 2-1 setback.

Rain pelted down upon an already soggy diamond only 10 minutes before game time. During the regular season, the contest probably would have been rescheduled. In fact, after just 1½ innings of plodding around the marshy playing field, the game was called.

Addison Trail got on the board during their first time at bat. The Blazers loaded the bases on two straight singles and an error by Fremd's shortstop. Then starting pitcher Ken Roggenbuck walked the next hitter, forcing in the game's first run.

The Vikings retaliated in the top of the fourth. Bob Burke accounted for half of Fremd's hit total when he lashed a single to begin the frame. Burke was sacrificed to second, and then he took third on a wild pitch. Mark Otteman then executed a nice squeeze bunt to allow Burke to score.

But Addison tallied the game-winner in the bottom of that inning on an unearned run. After placing a runner on second via a single and a sacrifice, an Addison Trail hitter lifted a long fly to right. The ball was caught for the out, but the relay throw trying to nail the runner advancing to third skipped past third base and into the dugout to permit the winning run to score.

John Slack, who relieved Roggenbuck after three, was saddled with the loss. Fremd's next game is tomorrow at Crown.

STANDINGS — American Division: Juncal Properties 6-1, Parkside Garden Center 5-2, Palatine Standard 5-2, Spotsquad Cleaners 4-3, Don Klein State Farm 3-4, Homelinders Realty 4-7, National Division: Two W's Blacktop 6-1, Barrington Truckers 4-3, Palatine Rotary Club 4-3, Quinlan & Tyson 3-4, Euclid-Hwy. 53 Standard 2-4, Chelset Ford 1-5 (Final Standings for Inter-Division Play).

Barrington Truckers 3-1 20-11-8
Euclid-Hwy. 53 Standard 2-0 11-4-7
Bill Carr scattered seven hits in post the mound victory. Perry Deal delivered an extra-base clutch for the winners. Joyce Johnson's home run and triples by Brad Seelen and Robert Wagner went in vain for Euclid-Hwy. 53 Standard.

Palatine Standard 4-3 6-3-10-3
Spotsquad Cleaners 4-1 5-1-11-8
Springfield knocked Palatine Standard out of a first-place tie on key hits by Craig Bernhardt, Todd Reed, and Todd Conner. Mark Kraly came across with the winning run in the bottom of the sixth. For Palatine Standard, John Kotsas had two triples and Richard McElmum a double. Charles Schneckel was the winning pitcher.

Barrington Trucking 1-1 3-14-11
Palatine Rotary 3-2 24-16-13
Palatine Rotary reversed a two-run deficit with a four-run fifth inning for the triumph. Blake Stone and Mark Anstett went two-for-two for Rotary. Anthony Raupp was the winning pitcher. The two clubs are now tied for second in the National Division.

Parkside Garden Center 0-6 0-6-3
Homelinders Realty 2-0 2-5-3
A six-run third inning was all Parkside needed for the victory. Paul McSweeney limited Homelinders to three hits, one of which was a triple by Mark Miller.

Two W's Blacktop 0-10 3-14-17-11
Chelset Ford 1-1 1-1-7-5
Two W's Blacktop advanced their only loss of the year to take possession of first place with a 6-1 mark. Mike Hamilton went three-for-three as a big fourth inning gave John Sullivan his first win. Sullivan and Tim Lancaster both had a pair of hits. William Lowe and Larry Loggeman tripled and Tom Lewis doubled for Chelset.

Juncal Properties 2-2 6-1-8-6
Don Klein State Farm 0-2 0-1-2-3
Juncal held an early 7-1 lead to pave the way to victory. Jim Widowski tripled and Leonard Stein doubled for the winners and Miller Kearney tripled and Steve Benz doubled for Don Klein. Robert Harig was the winning hurler.

Quinlan & Tyson 3-22 3-0-9-8
Spotsquad Cleaners 0-11 5-1-11-8
Spotsquad came from behind three times to win. Todd Conner blasted a home run. Scott Johnson tripled, and Mark Kraly doubled for Spotsquad. Mark Kussay belted a homer for Quinlan & Tyson.

Euclid-Hwy. 53 Standard 4-31 0-4-5-5
Palatine Standard 0-00 3-1-3-9
Palatine Standard wasted nine hits, including Robert Barnes' two-bagger, in its defeat. Peter Chaplinsky outduelled John Kotsas for the mound victory.

Palatine Rotary Club 2-23 5-12-10
Homelinders Realty 0-22 0-7-8
Four Rotary doubles, by Tony Raupp, Mark Anstett, Brad Kost and Steve Gustafson, enabled Rotary to win. Brian Bertola tripled and John Lemm launched a double for the losers.

Parkside Garden Center 1-1 0-2-4-3
Barrington Trucking 2-21 1-0-1-0
Jay Kugel drove in the winning run in the last of the sixth. Bill Carr was the winning pitcher with relief help from Greg Miller, who struck out seven of the nine batters he faced. Paul McSweeney threw a four-hitter and still lost.

INTERSUBURBAN COLT LEAGUE

Palatine Arly's 1-26 2-50 9-2-10-13-3
Wheeling No. 3 3-00 3-81 0-11-13-7
Wheeling pushed across a runner in the bottom of the eighth for the triumph. Parrait took the mound decision over Sprinkle. Kumpf rapped a double for the losers.

Barrington 0-00 0-0-2-1-4-4
Palatine Arly's 0-20 0-2-3-3-2
Arly's got just three hits but still won. Jim Sprinkle held Barrington to four safeties. Mours took the loss in this low-scoring affair.

Palatine Arly's 0-03 0-10 0-4-6-13
Des Plaines Wildcats 1-05 0-03 0-9-7-1
Stevens was the hero for Des Plaines, picking up the pleasing victory and blasting a triple as well. Alton took the loss for Palatine Arly's, who committed a horrendous total of 13 errors.

H. R. Fuller 7-00 0-0-7-6
Burger King 3-11 0-0-4-12
Burger King shoved across four runs in the crucial sixth for the come-from-behind triumph. Tom DeFlora and Marty Oglesby each knocked in three runs. John Musack had three hits including a homer, and Mike Olson powered a triple, all for the winners. Ted Ahren's grand slammer was the big blow for H. R. Fuller. Pat Martin tripled and John Hinkel doubled for the losers.

Libertyville 0-00 0-00 0-0-1-1
First Bank & Trust 0-00 0-01 0-1-2-2
Bob Burke tripled and was forced in from third on a bases-loaded walk for the game's only run. Buddy Hughes struck out 13.

Lake Zurich 0-00 0-00 1-1-0-5
First Bank and Trust 1-02 1-00 0-1-3-2
Mike Mercurio tossed a no-hitter for First Bank and Trust in his first start. Buddy Hughes and Jim Maycan doubled to aid Mercurio.

No. 8, par 3, 161 yards — No tree trouble around green, which has large trap at front, two at rear. Accurate six or seven iron shot will pay off, though green has slight roll and pin-placement could make scoring difficult.

No. 10, par 5, 524 yards — Straight-away off tee, with slight dog-leg starting 125 yards from green. Long hitters will score here, though if they reach in two, they will find a green hard to read, with slope in middle. Players generally will try for center of green to minimize putt-rol trouble.

No. 11, par 3, 164 yards — Straight shot to a long green which has sharp slope from middle to right side on back portion. Its a "fooler" green which invites three putts. Traps at right front and left-rear.

No. 12, par 4, 422 yards — Sarp dog-leg to right. Two traps on right at 210 yards and one at left about 180 yards from tee. Out-of-bounds left. Trees on left and right of green, with traps on both sides. Well-placed drives will pay off in birdies here.

No. 13, par 4, 360 yards — With out-of-bounds on left and many trees on both edges of fairway, many players will use iron off tee. Fairly long green trapped in left and right front. Shallow green on which players often find it hard to stop ball. Hole places premium on iron play.

No. 15, par 3, 179 yards — Straight shot to green and good players will score here. Green has two small traps at front, one on right and left toward rear, where putting surface has small "plateau" at rear.

No. 16, par 4, 441 yards — One of more difficult holes, though it is straight-away off tee. Heavy trees on both sides demand accuracy. Green larger than most others and, if windy, putting will be tricky here. Trap at left-front of green, one at right and another at rear.

No. 17, par 4, 392 yards — Straight-away off tee, this could be a hole for low scoring. Long hitters will use eight and nine irons on second shots. Trap on right side of green and one at left front. Out-of-bounds behind green.

No. 18, par 4, 431 yards — Good test for finishing hole. Dog-leg to right, with break coming about 100 yards from tee, where there is a big trap on right. Players will try to stay left, but too long a tee shot to left could encounter trees or out-of-bounds area. Fairly easy green to hit, but has slope in front that could cause trouble.

Round Of 39 In Ladies Golf

In recent play in the Swingers Ladies Golf League at Old Orchard Country Club, Evelyn Karkula had low gross of 39 and low net of 40 in the A flight

The B flight saw Mary Pabst take both low gross with 49 and low net with 30. In the C flight Donna Donges was the leader with a 61 gross and 34 net. Roberta Reeves topped the D flight with 62 gross, 33 net.

Event of the day was one-putt greens. Winners were: Elsie Kusch with five in A flight, Addie Müller with six in B flight, Grace Ekstrand with three in C flight and Nadine Wright with two in D flight.

There were two birdies in A flight — by Mickey Newhouse on the first hole of the Sporty Nine and Nancy Antrim on the eighth hole. Rosemary Baer chipped in from 20 yards for par on the first hole and Maybelle Stull also parred the first hole.

In the previous week, the A flight saw Mary Springer claim low gross with 49 and Barbara Boylan low net with 35. Helen Becker had low gross of 56 and low net of 37 in B flight. Esther Phillips of the C flight had 58 gross and 34 net. In D flight Gloria Royal had 65 for low gross and Chris Cinnano low net with 34.

Eloise Harrison

Leads Newcomers

Eloise Harrison had low gross of 53 and low net of 39 in the first flight of the Arlington Heights Newcomers Golf League last week at Arlington Country Club.

Also in the first flight Jeanne Fleming parred the sixth hole and Carol Cupps won the weekly event of most sixes.

In the second flight, Ann Anderson had low gross of 56 and Kate Christenson low net of 35. Mary Dechetter and Dotty Bayer parred the sixth hole. There was a three-way tie for most sevens among Irene Burquist, Dotty Bayer and Gladys Barnes.

Jan Gustafson had low gross of 63 and tied Marge Melcher for low net of 33 in the third flight. Pat Abbott parred the third hole. Joyce McNeil had the most eights.

In the fourth flight Lee Yelovich had both low gross of 70 and low net of 34. There was a five-way tie for most nines among Lee Yelovich, Elaine Reagan, Jane DeWitt, Gladys Varvel and Betty Marion.

Course Flush

With 5 'Aces'

A once in a lifetime thing seems to be fairly commonplace at Buffalo Grove Golf Club — shooting holes-in-one.

Seemingly almost every week a golfer strikes it rich at this daily fee layout, and last week was no exception. Ted Acheson recorded the fifth ace of the season at the course on Monday.

Using a 7 iron this Chicago resident sank his shot on the eighth hole, a par 3, 150 yards long.

Cameron Stars In Chemplex Play

For the second consecutive week Ray Cameron took low gross honors for the evening in the Chemplex Twilight Golf League.

Cameron shot a 44 during the fifth round of play at the Golden Acres Country Club in Schaumburg, while Gene Sterbis took low net with a 36. Still no one came close to Jack Blanchard's opening scores of 19 and 21.

Team No. 5 (Jack Jacobs, Sven Solvik, Milt Kostner, and George Laybourne) found themselves in full swing as they secured another 6 points, launching themselves still further ahead, now with a 10 point lead.

SENIOR DIVISION

Standings — Grubel American Movers 3-1, R & K Construction 2-2, Rich Port Realtors 2-2, First Bank and Trust 2-2, Carpenter's Computer Service 1-3.

R & K Construction 000 022 0-1-5-0
Grubel American Movers 330 000 0-4-4-3
Grubel's six early runs were all they needed to beat R & K. Bill Stevenson tripled for Grubel and John Bruen doubled for R & K. Larry Stuples, the winning pitcher, turned in. Mark Maurilio took the loss.

First Bank and Trust 202 152 7-19-4-3
Carpenter's Computer Serv. 000 000 3-2-4-1
First Bank and Trust took advantage of many walks and four errors to post 19 runs on just six hits. Jim Labinsky pitched four-hit ball and struck out nine for the winners.

Rich Port Realty 000 010-1-3-0
R & K Construction 000 002-2-4-1
R & K pulled two runs in the last of the sixth to pull out this thriller, which ended prematurely due to darkness. Rich Port scored in the fifth and threatened to add more but a double play on a fly out and a tag at the plate saved R & K. Dave Kunzweiler was the winner on a three-batter and Lon Snyder, who permitted only two safeties, took the loss.

Grubel 000 240 2-8-5-2
Carpenter 010 000 0-1-2-4
Grubel moved into first place as Gordon Gregory surrendered only two hits while striking out 13. A homer by Bill Stevenson and a triple by Bob Krasovec supplied Grubel with sufficient firepower.

First Bank and Trust 201 000 1-5-4-0
Grubel 120 002 2-3-5-2
Grubel clinched the game with a four-run fourth inning. Terry Sullivan and Bernie Thomas doubled. Larry Stuples struck out eight and was the winning hurler over Mike Franz.

R & K Construction 000 102 0-1-3-3
First Bank and Trust 200 210 2-8-4-0
First Bank and Trust moved into a threeway tie for second place with the win. Jim Labinsky was the winner of the tight game. Mike Paveletta doubled for R & K.

Palatine National Bank 011 102-5-8-4
Skrudland demonstrated a powerful hitting attack with 16 safeties. Rob Thayer homered with two men on. Mike Bano cranked a double blast with one on, and Jay Salidino picked a solo blast. Bill Landeen and Mike Labinski doubled for Skrudland. Salidino was credited with the pitching victory.

Palatine Savings & Loan 000 000-0-2
Arlington Elks 000 500-8-11
The Elks collected their third shutout of the season. Rick Flynn and John Gamble both tripled, had two hits, and drove in two runs. Craig Long added a double. Don Shubeck issued a two-hit shutout.

Pro Sports 010 000-1-5-8
Pro Sports' eight fielding errors were their downfall. Bill Landeen and Mike Barro combined to strike out eight while scattering five hits. Barro slashed a double.

Palatine Savings and Loan 250 021-10-11
Kennedy Realty 120 100-4-4
Savings and Loan's Dave Fish cranked a three-run homer to highlight their scoring. Mark Henkels clipped a homer for the losers. John Martin was the winning pitcher over Gary Balke.

Rotary 000 000-0-2
Arlington Elks 000 400-4-9
The Elks rolled to their fourth shutout victory in a row. Don Shubeck and John Gamble both doubled and accounted for all four RBIs. Dan Desantis permitted just three Rotary hits.

Gold 200 000-2-3-2
Blue 300 370-13-0-0
The Blue team exploded for seven markers in the fifth to seal the game. Eric Jeffries drove in six runs with a grand slam homer and a double. Terry Donahue went three-for-three including a double, and Jeff Abrahamson and Eric Lish doubled. Abrahamson pitched three innings, striking out seven, and Jim Rouse finished up with nine straight strikeouts.

Orange 104 100-0-1-1
Green 100 000-0-1-1
Larry Miller and Steve Fish led Green's offense. Miller cranked a grand slammer and Fish went two-for-two, including a double.

Red 000 300-3-3
Green 102 001-1-1
Green broke a 2-3 deadlock in the final inning when Jeff Kaczmarek singled in Steve Fish. Both had two hits. Kaczmarek and Andy Gray combined for the pitching victory.

Orange 010 00-1-2-3
Gold 101 017 53-36-20-1
Gold maverick Orange by a 30-20 count. Mack Sandquist, Pat Kane, and Robbye Blanton all homered for Gold, and Scott Chiz, Scott Reed and Mark Link tripled. Jeff Abrahamson was the winning pitcher for the Golds, who now hold first place.

Red 300 000-3-1-3
Blue 100 500-10-1-1
Jim Rouse and Jeff Abrahamson each struck out nine players for the Blues to record all 18 outs by strikeouts. The pitching duo also tripled. Eric Jeffries had two doubles and two RBIs. Steve Laverde doubled with two RBIs and Mitch Shappard doubled. The Reds collected only one hit.

Falcons Blanked, 3-0

Forest View's Summer League baseball team continued to be plagued with hitting woes Tuesday, managing just three hits in taking a 3-0 loss against Barrington in cold weather at the Falcons' diamond.

Scott Pease earned the shutout with eight strikeouts and four walks as Forest View stranded seven runners. Don Stevens went the distance for the Falcons with seven strikeouts and three walks.

Barrington went one up in the second on a two-base error and double by Steve Adams. Another singleton came in the third on a walk, steal, infield hit and groundout RBI. The scoring concluded in the fourth when Bob Cole singled, stole second and scored on Rick Nash's single.

Forest View threatened in the seventh with two walks and a groundout to first advancing the runners. But Tony Donile's hard-hit grounder was right at the second baseman for the final out.

SCORE BY INNINGS
Barrington 011 100 0-3-7-0

Lauterburg & Oehler Holds 9 1/2-Point Lead

Lauterburg & Oehler holds a nine-and-a-half-point lead in first place after the latest play in the Arlington Heights Twilight Golf League at Thunderbird Country Club in Barrington with Service Stampings and Baird & Warner holding second and third place, respectively.

Steve Gecan was top individual in last week's play with low gross score of 37 and a tie for low net with 33, the same total posted by Gerry Tourville.

Seven birds were registered with Len Haines Jr. leading in this department with two — on the 465-yard par-four second hole and 340-yard par-four seventh. Other birds were by Wayne Russell and Chuck Skadt on the seventh, Tourville on the eighth, Mike Grant on the 13th and Paul Manning on the 16th.

The first Mixed Two-ball Tournament also was held Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Bud Van Ness winning with a net 33. Mr. and Mrs. Jim Markiewicz were right behind with 34 and two other couples had 36's — the Don McGowans and Bob Hudec.

The league's next tournament also will be a Two-ball affair Aug. 6.

"Romeo, Romeo, wherefore played thou the queen of spades, Romeo?" asked Juliet. Juliet wasn't much of a bridge player, but she was a good kibitzer and did not ask her question until after Romeo and Mercutio had set Tybalt a trick at his three no-trump contract. Romeo had made his normal opening lead of the heart queen. Tybalt let it hold but won the second heart. Then he led his three of spades and Romeo had gone up with the queen. Tybalt had taken dummy's ace, returned to his hand with a diamond, led a second spade and played dummy's jack.

Mercutio scored the second spade trick for the defense and led his last heart. Eventually Romeo had taken the last two tricks with the ace of clubs and his last heart.

In case any readers feel the same way about that second hand high play as Juliet did, it really couldn't lose.

If South held the king of spades, Romeo's queen was as dead as Romeo himself was at the end of the last act of the Shakespeare Tragedy.

The way the cards actually lay, if Romeo had played a low spade Tybalt would have finessed dummy's eight. This is the best play with the actual spade combination since it will lose only one spade trick any time West's original holding includes the 10 of spades and at least one of the higher honors.

Veterans' News

Q—ARE GI Bill educational assistance allowance benefits veterans receive from VA taxable?

A—No. The Internal Revenue Service does not consider these benefits income for tax purposes.

Q—I'M a 71 year old veteran on VA pension rolls. Is it true, as I have heard, that I will not receive an income questionnaire this November?

A—It's true. You will receive information with your November pension check explaining that pensioners 72 years old and older who have been on the rolls during two consecutive years are exempt from filing the questionnaires.

Q—HOW MUCH truth is there to criticism that VA hospitals are so crowded with dying old men and old alcoholics that bed space is not available for Vietnam veterans?

A—None. Veterans with service connected disabilities have first call on VA medical care, and plenty of hospital beds are available. A recent check revealed about 84,000 veterans were occupying hospital beds, about 19 per cent of them Vietnam Era veterans.

On Teachers Council

David G. Kives, chairman of the division of English and fine arts at Rolling Meadows High School, has been appointed to the National Council of Teachers of English Committee to Review Curriculum Bulletins.

The committee will collect, examine and recommend curriculum guides and related publication bulletins for teachers; plan displays of the new curriculum bulletins at the NCTE annual convention; and prepare periodic reports on trends in guides for NCTE commissions and journals.

On Dean's List

Robin J. Omahana, 127 W. Jeffrey Ln., Des Plaines, has been named to the dean's list for outstanding academic achievement at Grinnell College in Iowa.

The Hollywood Scene

by Vernon Scott

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Steve McQueen held a screening of his latest movie at the home of a friend, explaining he has divested himself of almost all personal possessions and responsibilities.

Divorced last year by his wife of 14 years, Neile, the actor has sold most of his holdings, his furniture and lives in a self-contained motorbus-type roving home.

"I've reduced my life to the basics," said McQueen.

"The hassle with houses, taxes, real estate isn't worth it. I don't even have a production company anymore. I'm an actor. And that's what I'm going to do. Act."

The picture McQueen was showing "Junior Bonner" is the story of a rodeo star, a loner whose only possessions are an automobile, trailer and horse. In the title role McQueen is not altogether different from the man he is off-screen.

THERE REMAINS A strong family tie with Neile and his two children, just as Junior Bonner loves his family but cannot live with them.

"I may have to cut out early," McQueen said. "My daughter, Terri, is racing later tonight out at Indian Dunes."

Terri is 13 years old. She races motorcycles.

Inasmuch as McQueen is a skilled and highly respected veteran motorcycle racer and, in fact, has represented the United States in international racing in Europe, he can't object to his daughter's racing.

He doesn't like it. But at the same time the pride shows through.

"She's really good," he said. "Terri is the second best female rider in the country. It's nothing I'd ever encouraged her to do. But what can I say?"

"Terri knows how to float into the turns and really tear up the straight-aways. She knows more things about motorcycle racing than I ever did at that age."

McQueen scratched his head and laughed.

"My son Chad — he's 11 — is a racer, too. Guess they must have inherited the love of speed and competition from me."

Chad is tops at racing and getting better all the time."

McQueen is not particularly an indulgent man. But he understands the perils of motorcycle racing. He's been there. Watching his children tear around the track at high speed isn't a soothing experience.

"I CAN'T LEAD their lives for them," he said. "So, I'm giving them their heads and what little advice I can."

McQueen has never won an Academy Award, but he has worked at his craft to become one of the screen's better actors, as he proves in his new film.

He's also worked to round off the rough edges of the kid who came to California from a Missouri farm and become a movie star. Having attained all the trappings of affluence, Steve is content to rid himself of it all and live as simply as possible.

There is nothing like a Den Mother.

The work isn't always easy, but it is always rewarding. America's manpower begins with BOYPOWER, and nothing builds BOYPOWER like the Scouts. Will you help?

Agreement Near On Landing Jack Paar For TV Specials

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — James Duffy, president of ABC-TV said Tuesday a deal is close to final for his network to land Jack Paar, the famous ex-talk show host who became a maker of notable personal documentaries.

Both Duffy and Paar, who was contacted in New York where he is recuperating from a foot operation, confirmed the negotiations for the much-sought-after humorist to do specials for ABC-TV.

Asked whether ABC-TV hoped Paar eventually might replace ratings-troubled Dick Cavett as host of its late-night talk show, Duffy said the network was still standing by Cavett.

But he said that because of the ratings problems of Cavett, ABC-TV has many alternative projects in the works, from comedy to drama to variety, possibly planned on a rotating basis. As for Paar, Duffy said: "I would hope he's one of the possibilities of the late-night format."

HOWEVER, regarding specifics of the moment, all he would say was: "You can assume the deal with Jack on the specials."

Cavett has been given until the end of July by ABC-TV to improve his ratings sharply or face cancellation in September. Said Duffy:

"We have no late-night commitments. There has been no decision about the Cavett show. There's been some movement in the ratings, and the shows have improved. Mail is coming in, in droves—articulate mail."

The industry, meanwhile, regards Cavett as a long shot to make it.

Paar made late-night talk shows a major video attraction while at NBC-TV and has done most of his specials for that organization, but all three commercial networks have been after him to return to television on a regular basis.

It can be reliably reported that ABC-TV would not exactly be sad if Paar showed interest in doing a late-night program again. Meanwhile, he says he is getting big money for his new network deal and that ABC-TV may even be interested in involving him in news programming as well.

Asked how he would react to a proposition to return as a late night talk show host, Paar said: "My interest is keeping Cavett on the air . . . He's a friend of mine."

BUT WHAT if Cavett's present series is cancelled? In that case, said Paar, "I think the best thing would be if they kept him on a week a month, and then I would do a week a month . . . I would consider doing a week if Dick did it also. But I don't know if he'd want that."

NBC-TV Tuesday night presented an hour documentary, "Leonardo: To Know

How to See," about the life and work of Leonardo Da Vinci, and it was a beautiful and intelligent program. Also Tuesday night, CBS-TV offered the hour debut of a five-week variety series starring singer-comedian Jerry Reed, and I think it would be tactful not to discuss this show.

Drug Problem Not Limited To Military

(This column is presented by Forest Hospital, in Des Plaines, a fully-accredited 135-bed psychiatric hospital, known for its programs in psychiatric treatment, research, education and community service.)

There has been much publicity and public outrage over the high number of drug addicted Vietnam veterans. Much of the blame for this addiction has been placed on the war and its futility but John Callan, M.D., a psychiatrist who studied military inductees and veterans, believes the drug problem is an American product and it certainly is not limited to soldiers in Vietnam.

"I don't see Vietnam as causing our drug problem," Dr. Callan explained, "I see the drug problem as an American product exported to Vietnam by our army. It flourished in the conditions over there: there is a readily available supply of heroin from neighboring countries and American soldiers or personnel connected with the war effort obtain it and share it."

In a survey of military inductees at Fort Leonard Wood, Mo., Dr. Callan found that a considerable number of men had used drugs before they came into the Army which reflects the fact that the military has inherited a civilian or American problem.

"In our study we also questioned people who terminated their military service at that base," Dr. Callan said, "We had three groups of soldiers: one group had served entirely in the United States, another had been on tour in Vietnam and the third served elsewhere overseas including Europe."

"WE FOUND HIGHER rates of drug use among soldiers stationed in Germany than anywhere else. It was also interesting to find these rates 10 to 15 per cent higher than the rate of drug users first coming into the army."

Dr. Callan also cited the large number of veterans who turn to drugs after they return home from Vietnam. "These young men were generally straight in Vietnam; they were committed to the war effort and did their job well. After they came back here they found that instead of being appreciated by the American people they were called stupid and told that what they did was immoral and wrong."

"They had fired bullets, shot people, rolled hand grenades into batches — not knowing if there was anyone there or not — not knowing if they had killed people."

"This engenders a certain amount of guilt feeling," Dr. Callan continued, "which is normally alleviated by community support like they did in World War II or the Korean War when the community said 'it had to be done and your job was necessary.'"

"NOW THE VETERANS come back with doubts and guilt feelings but their feelings are reinforced by the action of the community to them. They have seen how people coped with such stress in Vietnam by taking the tranquilizing heroin — so it's not unnatural for them to use this experience and try and support themselves in this country with drugs."

Dr. Callan added that young people turn to drugs often from disillusionment "but not only due to the war in Vietnam."

The Doctor Says

by Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Dear Dr. Lamb — My husband passed away recently from advanced cancer of the lower left lung. The doctor removed all of the left lung and had to scrape the cancer from his heart. The doctor operated on a Tuesday and my husband was up and walking on Friday. One week after the operation, the doctor gave him a cobalt treatment, and three days later, he died. What chance did he have of living or how long could he have lived?

Dear Reader — No one can answer that question in any individual case exactly. There have been some astonishing examples of people who have lived much longer than usual even though they have very advanced malignant disease.

A person with cancer of the lung which has already spread as your letter suggests, has only a minimal chance of living very long after the operation.

This does not mean that all cancers of the lung are hopeless. A number of them have been detected early enough to result in a cure for five or more years.

Cancer of the lungs is one of the most common cancers in men and 90 per cent occur in cigarette smokers. Individuals who are heavy smokers are the ones who most often develop cancer of the lungs. There are some types of cancer of the lungs which are relatively rare and can occur in individuals who are non-smokers. But essentially, the non-smoking population rarely has cancer of the lungs.

Dear Dr. Lamb — As an individual who has had his larynx removed, I was particularly interested in one of your columns describing a procedure for fashioning a voice box from the skin of the patient. This subject is of intense interest to many individuals who are struggling along to achieve adeptness in the use of the esophageal speech, or in the use of a buzzer. Where can one have such surgery done and how long a period of hospitalization would be involved?

Dear Reader — I have received many letters about this. The initial reports about the procedure stated that it was done by Doctors J. Simon McGrail and David O. Oldfield, Toronto Medical School and Wellesley Hospital, Toronto, Canada. The operation is said to produce a good quality voice by fashioning a voice box from the patient's own skin.

To find out more information talk to your own doctor about it and let him contact Drs. McGrail and Oldfield by writing to the Toronto Medical School, Toronto, Canada; or he may have some other source of additional information. Although the original procedure was credited to the two Canadian doctors, most new surgical procedures that have real promise are rather quickly adopted by other surgeons.

GENERAL INFORMATION:

Palatine, the fifth town on the solid line of northwest "finger" communities along the C&NW's right-of-way, is a cross between country town and city suburb. The central village has a peaceful appearance given by towering trees and large frame houses. Palatine celebrated its centennial as a "real home town" in 1955, during the decade of its 182% population growth. Recently several industrial parks have been developed along with separate distinct areas for light industry and professional building complexes.

SCHOOLS:

There are 13 elementary and 2 high schools serving the area. The pupil teacher ratio is 22:1 with $627 spent annually per pupil. In addition, there are 2 Catholic and 1 Lutheran elementary school. Harper Junior College is also located within the village.

CHURCHES:

Included in the village are 3 Catholic, 3 Lutheran, an Apostolic Baptist Bible Christian Service, Episcopal, Evangelical and Reformed, Presbyterian, and United Methodist houses of worship.

HOUSING:

The majority of the homes in Palatine were built during the last 12 years, and range in price from $34,000 to $175,000. New homes start at $37,500. There are some 2,200 rentals priced from $200 to $350 per month. Several multi-acre total living developments are under construction, and there are many ultra-modern townhouses and apartment complexes on the perimeter of the village.

TRANSPORTATION:

C&NW railroad provides 53 minute service to the Loop (40 minutes on express trains). United Motor Coach buses make 89 minute trips to the Loop. Schaumburg Transportation Company provides local bus service and Northwest Tollway entrance is 3 miles south of the village.

MEDICAL:

Northwest Community Hospital in adjacent Arlington Heights and Alexian Brothers Medical Center in Elk Grove Village provide health care. There are 3 family medical centers in town plus an additional center in the planning stages. There are currently 16 practicing doctors and 15 dentists in Palatine.

TOWN SHOPPING:

The active two-part downtown area is supplemented by 5 outlying areas. In addition, Palatine residents may make use of Randhurst Center in nearby Mount Prospect and Woodfield Mall is located 2 miles south at Golf Road and Route 53. There are 3 20-unit shopping centers planned for areas on the perimeter of the village.

RECREATION:

The Palatine Park District and the Salt Creek Park District serve this suburb and the surrounding communities. There are several forest preserves, 2 community golf courses, plus 8 nearby public and private country clubs, tennis clubs, and golf courses. Arlington Park Race Track is located 2 miles southeast of the village. A Y.M.C.A. is to be completed in 1973.

HISTORY:

Many of the early settlers of the Palatine area came from New England, probably in search of rich farmland. Using Indian trails, they continued north and west of the settlement at Fort Dearborn (named Chicago). Two of these trails are today Algonquin and Rand Roads. The location of the Village of Palatine was determined by the building of the present Wisconsin Division of the Chicago and North Western Railway, which first operated as the Illinois and Wisconsin and then the Prairie du Chien and Fond du Lac. The government of Palatine officially began in 1866.

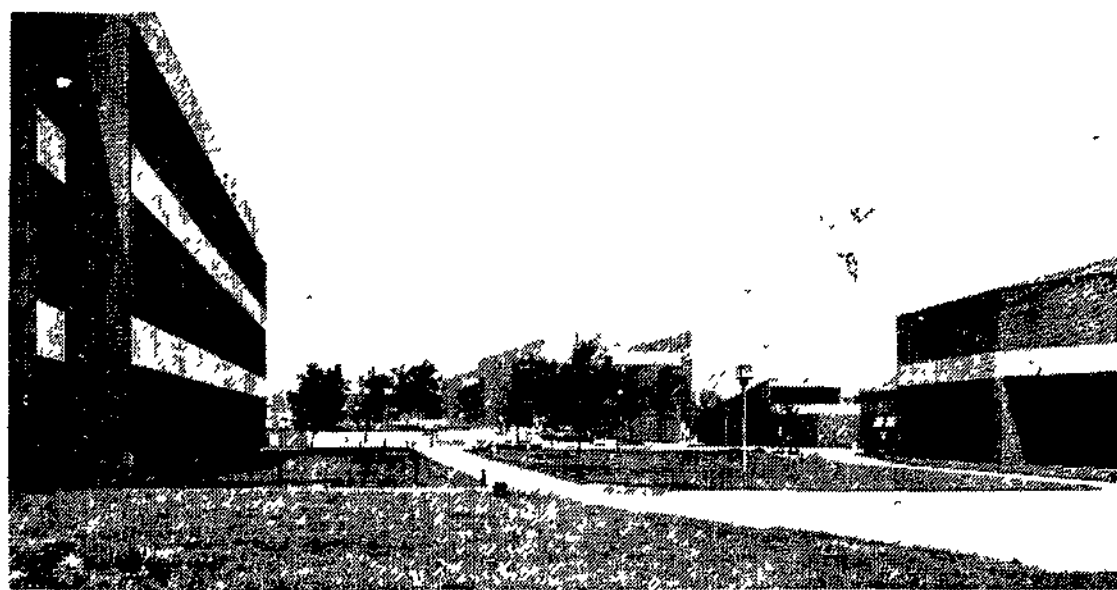

No history would be complete without some mention of the enormous population growth during the last 25 years. In the 12 years since 1960, Palatine's population has increased from 11,504 to 27,500, a jump of more than 239%. During the last 12 years there has also been a marked increase in the industrial growth rate.

CLUBS AND ORGANIZATIONS:

Palatine residents enjoy numerous social and civic clubs, and there is the famous "Joint" teenage supervised social club.

GOVERNMENT:

The Mayor of Palatine heads its village form of government. He is also the Village President, and heads a Board of 6 trustees, all of whom are elected at large. The Village Manager, chief administrator, is responsible for carrying out the policies and legislation passed by the Village Board.

Hard Facts About Soft Water

Did you know that you could be wasting as much as 150 gallons of water every day from a single dripping faucet? Bruner experts tell us this problem is related to hard water. They frequently hear this complaint from people before they install a water softener.

Hard minerals in your water cause valve seats and faucet parts to scale, pit and corrode. It is probably more noticeable on the hot water tap because heat speeds up the chemical action of scaling. As the washer bears down on the scaled surface of the valve seat, the washer begins to wear prematurely and soon loses its seal. Even new washers will begin to leak shortly after installation under these conditions.

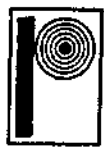

A water softener will remove these minerals before they enter your plumbing system, and will protect pipes and fixtures from scale and corrosion. Take a look at the outside of the faucet. If you find a hard white deposit, you have a hard water problem.

As you can see from this discussion, you're only doing half the job when you replace the washer. You should also replace the valve seat below the washer. It only requires a few simple tools such as an Allen wrench, or a tapered tool designed especially for this purpose. (The tapered tool will fit any size valve seat in your house, and is available from any plumbing shop or hardware store.

Yes! Hard water can cost you money!

Condominiums Gain Importance In Real Estate Marketing

Condominiums, both apartments and townhouses, will play an increasingly important part in real estate marketing as land near America's large cities gets more and more scarce, according to the president of the nation's leading real estate referral organization.

"Because land available for development near metropolitan centers is becoming increasingly scarce, we must use it more intelligently grouping the housing units and allowing open space between them for parks and recreation," said Owen E. Hall of Birmingham. Mich. He is president of Chicago-based International City Relocation Service, whose members help families on the move sell former residences and find new homes in more than 7,000 cities and towns.

"As developments are planned to make more efficient use of scarce land, I think condominiums will become much more prominent in the next few years than rental apartments," Hall said. "The U.S. is a nation of homeowners — if they can own equity in their homes, they will prefer to do so."

In a condominium, an owner holds title to the living space enclosed by his or her side walls — and floor and ceiling in the case of an apartment — and shares in the ownership of common facilities throughout a building or development. Through such ownership, he enjoys tax benefits because real estate taxes and mortgage interest are deductible against his income the same as for a detached single family dwelling.

I am convinced that condominiums are certainly a way of the future, and not just for moderate income groups," Hall said. "We're finding a broad-based demand for luxury units in condominiums, as well."

"I think the phenomenon of the condominium is not based so much on the fact that a buyer can get more for his money as it is on the fact that people like this way of life. They want a turn-key home where they are not confronted with maintenance, snow shoveling or the responsibility of green thumbing as they must in a single family residence."

Hall acknowledged that multi-family developments prompt adverse reactions among many community planning commissions. But these can be tremendously attractive developments," he pointed out.

"There is a place in condominium marketing for the Realtor, both in original sale and in resale — which are fundamentally similar to the sale or resale of single family homes. Individual condominium developments will establish their own degrees of importance on the resale market. Some will have very high reputations, because of excellent initial planning and construction and good upkeep by their homeowners' associations. Others, just as in certain single family areas, will be difficult to sell because of poor reputations."

Although he couldn't predict what percentage of the transferred company employees served by ICRS members would turn to condominiums for their new housing, "I have to conclude that increasing numbers will be referrals for condominiums in the new towns to which transferees are moving."

Truly fine living in a home designed and built for you.

Frommer Named To New Post

Robert Frommer, an attorney and former land development executive in Washington, D.C., has been appointed to a new post of executive vice president of Urban Investment and Development Co., 401 N. Michigan Avenue.

Frommer has been executive vice president of L'Enfant Plaza Corp., developer of a $90-million office-hotel-retail complex near the new HUD headquarters in Washington.

Philip M. Klutznick, chairman of Urban, said Frommer will have responsibility for the over-all operation of the company, including financing, capital expenditures, accounting and board policy interpretations. All Urban subsidiaries and regional offices will report to Frommer.

The new position being filled by Frommer is one of two executive vice presidencies created because of Urban's expanding development program.

The other position, announced recently, has been filled by Robert E. Merriam, a long-time Chicago business and government executive who has been chairman of The Planning Group, a division of Urban.

URBAN'S DEVELOPMENT program in Chicagoland includes New Century Town in Vernon Hills, Ill.; Water Tower Plaza on North Michigan Avenue; major developments at Aurora and Orland Park; and River Oaks West in Calumet

City, in addition to a number of residential developments.

As an executive with L'Enfant Plaza Corp., Frommer was in charge of financial and management matters. Prior to joining L'Enfant, he was assistant real estate manager of Levitt & Sons, Inc. He also has been an executive with a subsidiary of Webb & Knapp Inc., on developments in Philadelphia.

Frommer earned a bachelor's degree in economics from Wharton School of the University of Pennsylvania and a law degree from the Yale Law School. He is a member of the Philadelphia Bar Association.

For the past five years, he has been a visiting lecturer at the Columbia Law School in New York. For the past two years, he has been a member of the faculty of the Washington College of Law at American University.

Turnberry--For Those Who Appreciate A Fine Area

Arthur T. McIntosh & Co., the 85-year-old Chicago development firm, has opened for sale the first two sections of homesites at Turnberry, its newest planned residential community.

The 1,100-acre development, termed by the company its "most versatile and meticulously planned" community so far, is located four miles west of suburban Crystal Lake's North Western Railway station, about an hour from the Chicago Loop. The entrance to the property is at Bard Rd. and newly completed Turnberry Trail.

Other planned communities developed by the McIntosh firm in the Chicago suburbs include Inverness, between Palatine and Barrington; Prestwick, west of south suburban Olympia Fields, and Farmington, located near Long Grove. Among the many suburbs which the company has helped develop are: Evanston, Glenview, Glen Ellyn, Wheaton, Park Ridge, Barrington, Hinsdale, Clarendon Hills, Downers Grove, Batavia and Olympia Fields. Earliest developments were all within the Chicago city limits.

The homesites being offered for sale in Turnberry's first two units average three-fourths of an acre each, and prices range from $16,000 to $34,000. Attractive terms are available.

The homesites are fully improved with winding paved streets, water, sewer and underground electric and telephone — unusual for a countryside development of this type.

"Turnberry is a unique kind of real estate development," said Way Thompson, senior vice president. "There are no comparable fully improved properties in the northwest suburbs.

"The opening of the two sections represents phase one of the development of Turnberry's first 755 acres," stated Thompson. "This acreage will eventually be the site for 400 single-family custom homes, up to 300 townhouses and a small convenience-type shopping area. Even with the multi-family dwellings, however, the population density of Turnberry will be less than one home unit per acre, which is in keeping with the low density concept."

THOMPSON SAID the balance of the Turnberry land, about 345 acres, will be developed in successive stages over the next several years. No timetable has been set for completion of the second phase of the operation.

Also part of the aforementioned 755-acre first phase, and already completed, is a private golf and country club covering 176 acres. This championship golf course was designed by golf architect Edward Lawrence Packard of LaGrange. It stretches 6,950 yards in length from the back tees.

The elegant clubhouse, French-Normandy in architectural design, is completed and available for member use. It has extensive dining and recreational facilities including large main dining room; mixed grill and men's grill; olympic size swimming pool; men's and women's golf and swimming lockers and tournament-quality tennis courts. The architect was Robert Parker Coffin of Barrington.

Interspersed in the rolling, partly wooded terrain of Turnberry are three private lakes, numerous ponds and meandering Kiskadee Creek. According to Thompson, the water area accounts for nearly 100 acres.

Owners of Turnberry properties must submit house plans to a McIntosh architectural board for approval to assure designs conform to the topography of the land and are in the proper setting on each homesite.

IN THE CASE of individual homesites, members of McIntosh's own planning staff laid out the boundaries to make the best possible use of topography, golf course, country views, trees, lakes and various combinations of these.

Turnberry is approximately 60 minutes from the Chicago Loop via the North Western Railway, which maintains regular commuter service to Crystal Lake. Driving time to the Loop by means of the Northwest Tollway (Route 90) and Kennedy Expressway is about the same, and, of course, less time to O'Hare Airport.

Excellent public schools are a part of the Crystal Lake school system, and bus transportation is provided. There are also parochial and private schools in the area.

Thompson said extensive shopping facilities are available in Crystal Lake and there are many fine restaurants in the area.

"Turnberry," Thompson concluded, "is the kind of a place people drive hundreds of miles to reach for a holiday to get away from it all. At Turnberry, the year around, a homeowner can find the peace and tranquility he desires, or the exercise and relaxation of golf, swimming, tennis, fishing, riding, skating in the winter, or just walking or bicycling over picturesque countryside. Here you can always have 'vacation home living' right in Chicagoland."

To reach Turnberry travel north to Algonquin Road (62), and turn left on Route 62 northwest into the town of Algonquin; travel west on Huntley-Algonquin Road to Huntley-Crystal Lake Road (five miles); then right on Huntley-Crystal Lake Road to the property entrance.

There are Turnberry signs at several locations, and the blue Turnberry water sphere is clearly visible from Huntley-Crystal Lake Road.

TIPS TO HOME BUYERS AND HOME SELLERS FROM MAP MULTIPLE LISTING REAL ESTATE SERVICE

HOW TO MAKE YOUR HOME MORE ATTRACTIVE FOR THE SALE

If you are getting ready to sell your home it is important that you make the home "visually" attractive for any potential buyer. The first impression is of the utmost importance and here are a few aspects that should be checked and adjusted if necessary.

Be sure your landscaping is always kept trim and neat with special care given to weed removal. Be sure all mechanical and electrical components of the home are in working condition. That your doorbells are all working and all door hinges are oiled. Fix any leaky faucets, keep all windows clean, be sure any obvious wall cracks are repaired and that there are new bulbs in all inside and outside light fixtures. Needless to say any rooms that are in critical need of decorating should be repainted and brightened. It is amazing how much a small amount of decorating and maintenance will add to the attraction and to the selling price of your home.

Vignola Showroom Plans Released

THE HERALD

Thursday, June 22, 1972

Section 3 — 13

AN ARTIST'S concept of the $5 1/2-million Vignola furniture center in Schaumburg has been released this week by Arthur Rubloff & Co. Upon completion the building will provide nearly three acres under roof for showrooms and warehouse facilities, leased for 20 years to J.

Vignola, Inc. The site, located at 920 East Golf Road and immediately west of the Woodfield Mall shopping center, contains 250 parking spaces. The structure was designed by Ralph Stoetzel Inc. and will be constructed by Carp Construction Company.

Details of a $5,250,000 built-to-suit major furniture distribution and retail facility, being completed for J. Vignola, Inc. in Schaumburg, were announced this week by Arthur Rubloff & Co., Chicago-based real estate firm.

Richard R. LaRena, President of Rubloff's Industrial Development Engineering Associates subsidiary, and Stuart M. Kaplan, Vice President, Commercial Properties Division, Arthur Rubloff & Co., handled the development on behalf of an investment group represented by the Rubloff firm. This investment group had purchased from State Mutual Life Assurance Company of America the 255,200 square foot site at 920 East Golf Road, Schaumburg, immediately west of the huge new Woodfield Mall shopping center.

The investment group in turn developed the new one-story building to serve the specific design requirements of the Vignola furniture center. The building, which will provide nearly three acres under roof for showrooms and warehouse facilities, was leased to J. Vignola, Inc. for 20 years, with provisions for extensions.

John J. Vignola, President of J. Vignola, Inc., also heads the Vignola Furniture Company, one of the largest quality furniture retailers in the Midwest. He stated that the new facility, incorporating the most modern and efficient techniques for the handling and

Irwin Adler

Adler To Head Larwin Multiple Family Division

Irwin M. Adler has been named president of the Larwin Group, Inc.'s multiple-family housing division and vice president of The Larwin Group. The announcement was made by Lawrence Weinberg, president and chairman of the board of Larwin.

Larwin, which is currently developing single-family communities in Chicago, New York, and the Washington, D.C. area, is planning future multiple-family developments as a part of its Eastern expansion.

Prior to joining Larwin, Adler was senior vice president of Levitt and Sons, Inc. single-family and townhouse residential community development division, in charge of the Southern zone of operations. While associated with Levitt, Adler was responsible for the entry and extensive development of the Michigan housing market. He also was responsible for the origination and development of Levitt's townhouse programs throughout the eastern United States.

Adler is a graduate of the University of Syracuse with a bachelor of science degree. Formerly a resident of Miami, Detroit, and Washington, D.C., Adler will make his home in Los Angeles with his wife Helene and their two children.

display of merchandise will reduce both delivery time and costs to the consumer.

Scheduled for opening in early summer, the showroom will make available a full line of brand name furniture displayed in 250 model room settings. The showroom area will present room groupings arranged by classification of period and style, such as Spanish, Italian, French, Modern, Early American and Traditional. Each "showcase" display room will be coordinated for compatibility of various pieces and suggested complimentary accessories available for purchase. The building will contain its own warehouse, with back-up stock on hand for either "carry out" or immediate delivery.

The new store, with over 250 parking spaces, was designed by Ralph Stoetzel, Inc., architects and engineers. Carp Construction Company was contractor.

Investor Has Alternative In Real Estate Trust

The investor who is attracted to the long-term concepts of mutual funds and also likes to own individual stocks does have alternatives.

"One alternative is the real estate investment trust (REIT)," declares Durand A. Holladay, managing trustee of Continental Mortgage Investors and chairman and managing trustee of Diversified Mortgage Investors, Boston.

Continental Mortgage, the nation's largest independently sponsored real estate trust in mortgage lending, has made over $1.5 billion in mortgage loans since 1962. Diversified Mortgage is a multi-specialty real estate trust which has made over $500 million in mortgage loans since starting operations in late 1969. The shares of both CMI and DMI are traded on the New York Stock Exchange.

"Investing in mortgages may not sound very exciting. But, when you translate 'mortgages' into 'real estate,' you are talking about a traditionally accepted solid, long-term investment.

"The fact that REITs must distribute at least 90 per cent of earnings to shareholders also cannot be ignored. Further, a rapidly increasing number of trusts are making it standard operating procedure to pay out 100 per cent of earnings."

"CMI, FOR INSTANCE, has changed its policy of paying out 90 per cent in regular dividends with a year-end special dividend. Beginning with the 1972 fiscal year, CMI will distribute 100 per cent of earnings to shareholders — 25 per cent each quarter. DMI will also follow this policy," Holladay explains.

With the profit distribution requirement, REITs strive for as high a yield as possible on their shares. "In turn, high yields have a special appeal for those investors looking for income from their investments — especially those in low tax brackets — for example, retired people."

"And let us not forget institutional investors, such as pension funds — they do not — and will not overlook an attractive yield," Holladay emphasizes.

He explains that real estate trusts maintain their earnings by using their mortgage investments to borrow new funds — thus, putting more money into the market.

There are differences between real estate trusts. "Some REITs invest directly in real estate. However, CMI concentrates primarily on short-term, first-mortgage construction and development loans," he notes.

ANOTHER FACET of real estate trusts, professional management, makes them a meaningful alternative for investors who appreciate the mutual fund concept.

"Expertise and knowledge of the multiple intricacies of real estate are the forte of the REIT management team — an added plus for the REIT investor."

"A trust, operating on a national scale, also can do for an investor what is physically — and fiscally — impossible for him to do on his own — be in many geographically scattered places all at the same time," Holladay concludes.

Get away from it all.

Away from the house that has more space than you need. And gives more work than you want.

But don't just settle for an apartment in the city. Settle instead at Three-Fountains-On-The-Lake, new condominium homes by Scholz.

It's just 3 minutes from the expressway. Which means it's 15 minutes from O'Hare Airport. And 30 minutes from Chicago's Loop.

And if you'd rather not drive, you can always take a Northwestern commuter train. The station's only 3 miles from home.

Shopping? Couldn't be better. One mile to Woodfield Mall, the largest shopping center in the world. Walking distance to local stores.

When you live at Three-Fountains, you'll still be near your work. Near restaurants and theatres. Near everything that's good about the big city.

But you'll have a country kind of life here. With tennis courts. With a pool and cabana. A pitch 'n putt golf green.

Even a private lake right outside your sliding glass door.

Take your choice of 1-bedroom, 2-bedroom or 2-bedroom-with-study condominium apartments. They include air conditioning, appliances, carpeting. And if you want, even a wood-burning fireplace.

When you arrive at the entrance, follow the curving road across the arched bridge.

It leads to your life in the country. Right next to the city.

Come see.

Come live.

Take Northwest Tollway, exit North at Rt. 53, go short distance to Algonquin Rd. (Rt. 62), then East 1/4 mile to Three-Fountains entrance. Near Woodfield Mall, Rolling Meadows.

Phone 255-2565.

Models open daily 10 AM to 6 PM.

Other times by appointment.

EXPOSED ROOF BEAMS dramatically accent the roof line of the charming split-level Brighton, one of five single-family homes being shown by Hoffman Rosner Corp. at its newest planned community development, Foxcroft in Aurora. The Brighton is a three-bedroom home with attached garage starting at $29,500.

Foxcroft Builder Goes Back To The Basics

Families visiting the many model homes being displayed by builders may wonder what style of house is best for them — ranch, split-level, dual-level, or two story?

According to the Hoffman Rosner Corporation, leading Chicago area community developer, there's no one best style. It all depends on the individual family's preferences and living habits.

"Keep an open mind when you inspect homes, and don't make the mistake of thinking in advance that you must have a specific style," advises Neil R. Hartman, sales manager for the company at the Foxcroft community in Aurora.

"Very often we discover that home-seekers who start out looking for a definite style change their minds after they compare the relative merits of the styles and then relate these merits to their needs," he said.

As a guide to prospective home-buyers, Hartman offers these brief descriptions of the four basic home styles and the relative advantages of each:

RANCH: Everything is on one level, with no stairs to climb (unless there's a basement). This feature of one-level living is ideal for families with small children, particularly since it saves Mother a lot of stair-climbing. The stair-less feature is also appreciated by older persons, especially those who have to be careful of physical exertion.

Because everything is on one level, the ranch requires more ground space than other house types, as well as a bigger foundation and a larger roof. Thus, on a square foot basis, the ranch is generally more expensive to build.

Also, because the ranch may cover the maximum amount of the lot permitted by local zoning laws, future additions to the building may be prohibited.

Dual-level (or mid-level): This is really a two-story home with the main entry midway between the two levels. From the entry foyer, you go up seven steps to the main living level or down seven steps to the family room level.

In most dual-level homes, the upper level follows the compact arrangement of a ranch floor plan, with living room, dining area, kitchen, bedrooms, and bath on one floor.

The lower level consists of the family room and may also have a bedroom, bath, and utility areas. Sometimes the lower level is left unfinished but with stud walls and plumbing roughed in for completion at a later date.

SPLIT-LEVEL: Representing a cross between ranch and dual-level designs, the split-level consists of a single-story wing on one side and a two-story wing on the other. From the entry foyer you can walk directly into the single-story portion which usually consists of the living room, dining area, kitchen, and family room.

You can also go from the entry foyer via a short flight of steps up to the bedroom level, or down a short flight to the lower level which may contain extra bedrooms, a hobby area, or, in some cases, a family room.

According to Hartman, split-levels offer a maximum of coordinated living areas on a single level with a minimum of stair-climbing between levels. They're ideal for large families and for families in which different age groups can benefit from separated activity areas.

Two-story: This is a fourth basic house style, characterized by all activity rooms (living room, dining room, kitchen, family room) on the main floor and all bedrooms on the second floor. While this arrangement provides maximum separation of the two areas and maximum quiet and privacy, the main disadvantage is the full flight of stairs between the two levels.

"Because of the greater popularity of ranch, dual, and split-level models in the GOLDEN GOALS for growth was the theme of the recent 50th anniversary assembly of the Theodore N. Vall chapter of the Telephone Pioneers of America, held in Arlington Heights. Approximately 1,200 persons attended the session at Arlington Park Towers.

Speakers included Charles Marshall, vice president of public relations for Illinois Bell; and W. C. Bauer of Birmingham, Ala., national president of the Telephone Pioneers of America. An Arlington Heights resident, George Elsberg, was general chairman for the state assembly. The Telephone Pioneers is the largest voluntary association of industrial employees in the world, with over 350,000 members in the U.S. and Canada. Its membership is comprised of active and retired personnel with 21 or more years of service.

RECENTLY COMPLETED plant expansion at Viking Graphics Corp., Chicago, has doubled the firm's floor space for the production of lithographic process color separations, film positives and plates. According to Warren D. Hanssen of 1407 Cedar Lane, Mount Prospect, Viking president, the additional space was required to accommodate an increasing output by the company. Viking, located at 2842 W. Fullerton Ave., was founded in 1967 by Hanssen. Process color and black-and-white litho films are provided by the firm. Hanssen is serving as treasurer of the Midwest Litho Trade Association.

NORTHWEST SUBURBAN Manufacturers Association spring party will be held June 30 at the River Forest Country Club. It will be a combination awards banquet, installation banquet and dinner dance. The program will start with a social hour at 7 p.m. Dinner will be served at 8 p.m. followed by the awards program and installation of officers. The cost is $15 a person. Reservations information is available from the association office, 678-4366.

PRINCIPAL SPEAKER at the annual meeting of the Associated Milk Producers, Inc., (AMPI) Mid-States Region, will be Dr. George Mehren of San Antonio, Texas. He is general manager of the AMPI. The meeting is slated for July 25 at Arlington Park Towers, Arlington Heights. The 461 delegates, representing more than 22,000 AMPI dairy farmers from Illinois, Indiana, Michigan and Wisconsin, will also consider policy recommendations to the entire AMPI delegate body, which is planning to meet in September in Kansas City, Mo. The AMPI Mid-States Region, headquartered in Chicago, represents half the membership of the 44,000 dairy farmer cooperative which operates in 22 states from Minnesota to the Gulf of Mexico.

UNIVERSAL OIL Products Co. (UOP) signed an option on property in the vicinity of Fayetteville, Ark. The option was signed after months of evaluating numerous sites for the location of a chemicals and catalysts operating unit. John O. Logan, UOP president and chief executive officer, said some site engineering work has been completed and it is hoped that a decision to proceed with initial construction can be made in the near future.

EXPANSION OF the low density polyethylene capacity of a Chemplex plant in Clinton, Iowa, works has been completed. Termed a "debottlenecking" of the DuPont licensed firm, the expansion adds 80 million pounds to the plant's annual production capacity. This brings its total annual capacity to 310 million pounds of the low density material. A high density polyethylene capacity at the plant is 170 million pounds a year. Chemplex Co. has a facility in Rolling Meadows.

Robert P. Bitter Again In Million Dollar Group

Robert P. Bitter, Arlington Heights, again has earned membership in the Million Dollar Round Table, the life insurance industry's nearly 11,000-member independent international association of million-dollar-a-year sales producers.

Membership in the select association is limited to members of the National Association of Life Underwriters, or its foreign counterpart, who sell at least one million dollars of new life insurance each year according to MDRT standards, or life members who have earned the honor by fulfilling current and/or previous requirements.

Annual meetings of the Million Dollar Round Table are unique in American business. Through an intensive week of lectures, workshops, panel discussions, seminars, and distinguished guest speakers, members are re-educated and stimulated to improve their ability to serve the insuring public.

Bitter has been with the Northwestern Mutual Life Insurance Co. since Aug. 1, 1961 and first became a member of the Round Table in 1960. This is his fifth consecutive year in the Round Table. Bitter also earned his Chartered Life Underwriter's membership this past year which is the highest degree awarded in the life underwriting business. His office

Baird & Warner

When you're selling or buying a home, the job is made easier when you have expert help.

And Baird & Warner can give you all kinds of it.

We have over 200 full-time salespeople in 28 offices, serving 60 Chicago and communities.

Our salespeople reach thousands of buyers and sellers each day, so they know exactly where to find a buyer for the home you are selling, or the home you want to buy.

We also provide a free executive relocation service (called RESET) for companies transferring executives to and from the Chicago area.

And our sales message reaches out loud and clear, backed by an advertising program that includes 7 day metro newspapers, over 100 community papers, Time Magazine, O-Han diagrams, and outdoor bill boards.

In short, you can expect more effective help from us than from any other real estate company in the whole Chicago area. So call Baird & Warner. And get moving.

For those who prefer a new home, call for an appointment to check out these 2 custom built houses of superb quality and craftsmanship.

The VERMONT FARMHOUSE is maintenance-free with cedar siding. It has 4 bedrooms, 2 1/2 baths, living room and family room with fireplaces, great kitchen with eating area, first floor laundry, basement and generous size garage. A great home for the trace. Upper 90's.

The DUTCH COLONIAL is a charmer, designed for the family who prefers the master suite on the first floor. It has a large living room and family room, both with fireplaces, entertainment sized dining room, dream kitchen with large eating area, huge first floor laundry and powder room. Two story foyer adds graciousness to entrance and attractive staircase leads to 3 large bedrooms and bath on second floor. Meticulous care has been given to Colonial detailing. Brick innercourt adds charm to front entrance. Upper 90's.

Both homes are located on choice acre-plus sites and will be landscaped and air conditioned. To inspect these homes is well worth your time.

United Rent All Outlet Opens

Everything from hedge trimmers and cement mixers, to sleeping bags and exercise bicycles is available at the new United Rent All outlet, 1002 W. Dundee Road, Arlington Heights.

The rental business is owned by Ron and Andy Thomsen, brothers and residents of Waukegan. Both have had previous experience in the retail business. They also operated a wholesale egg business.

The United Rent All outlet has its own maintenance service program. The major categories of items which are available for rental include: garden and yard, tools, painters equipment, plumbers tools, cement tools, contractors equipment, automotive supplies, party and banquet goods, camping and sporting goods, exercising equipment, maintenance equipment, sickroom supplies, sanding machines, and household equipment.

Deliveries will be made on certain items. The United Rent All outlet also will try to locate items for rent if they are not in the Arlington Heights inventory.

The new firm's hours are: 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. Monday through Saturday and 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. on Sunday.

Grand opening for the establishment is slated for July. A free drawing will be held with the sailboat offered as first prize.

THE VILLAGE THAT NEVER CHANGES

Can you imagine a village where there are no property fences? Where the smallest homesites are an acre? Where there is no industry? Where no two homes are alike? Where every home must receive architectural approval? These are just a few of the unusual features of Inverness that are protected by prudent deed restrictions to jealously guard against changes in the character, value and way of living in the community. How much does it cost to join this exclusive 450-family village? Our acre-or-larger homesites start at $14,000, with only 20% down and an annual percentage rate of 7%. We also have a portfolio of homes for sale for immediate occupancy due to executive transfers. Prices range from $60,000 to $200,000. Drive out today; or, if you prefer, send for a free brochure.

Our picturesque 4-Silo office is open daily on Baldwin Road, just west of Northwest Highway (Rte. 14) between Palatine and Barrington. Convenient to Northwest Tollway (north from Rte. 53 exit).

*Example $14,000 purchase—$2800 down, $4 monthly payments of $169.04.

Suburban Homemaker Service

For Families In Stress, Here's Help

by BILLIE BACHUBER

Mrs. Robert Sterba likes people and enjoys using her homemaking talents to help those who need her... at a price they can afford.

Dorothy Sterba is a professional homemaker, working with families who need temporary help to keep the family together — from those with infants and small children to the elderly.

Mrs. Sterba is employed, trained and paid by Child and Family Services, a member of the Child Welfare League of America. This non-profit agency has been helping Chicago area families since 1858.

Gradually expanding its family services through the years, Child and Family Services inaugurated the homemaker service in 1930. This aid has since been extended into Chicago suburbs, most recently the northwest suburban area in August 1971. Now Northwest Suburban Homemaker Service is looking for women like Dorothy to train so they may help more area families needing this service.

"IF YOU LIKE homemaking, enjoy helping people... and getting paid for it, you'll like being a professional homemaker," promises Mrs. Sterba.

Well-groomed and attractive, pleasant in personality and skilled in her job, Dorothy is an exemplary model for the kind of woman the agency wants to hire, explained Charles Duffy, district supervisor. Fitting Mrs. Sterba's pattern, the professional homemaker is young, fully mature, most likely has reared children of her own or others and enjoys her role of homemaker.

"Mrs. Sterba typifies attitudes we want in the women we hire," Duffy said.

The most meaningful homemaker service is given by the woman who is comfortable with the families she serves and the families with her. The most effective homemaker is one who lives in the same geographic area, Duffy continued, explaining the need for these "volunteers with pay" in the northwest suburbs. And the professional homemaker performs best if she is sensitive to the needs of different kinds of families whose normal life styles have been interrupted temporarily by accident, illness or absence, he added.

SHE IS TRAINED to listen sympathetically as well as to do light house-keeping, cook, care for children, shop and do most anything else the mother of the family ordinarily would do.

Mother of three grown children and grandmother of three, Dorothy Sterba has worked eight years as a professional homemaker. She does what she likes and performs best, caring for families. With training and experience, she has helped to keep many families together who might otherwise have been separated.

Mrs. Sterba has helped in homes with several small children, in families where there were emotional problems, elderly folks and the near blind. She has no preference. "I like helping anywhere I am needed," she said smilingly.

While she is trained not to become emotionally involved with the families for whom she works, Dorothy remembers many with affection and concern. The most recent is the Craig Ogle family in Evanston Park.

MRS. PAT OGLE was injured critically in an automobile accident that killed her next door neighbor and friend and badly injured the neighbor's husband. Pat suffered internal and facial injuries and both arms and both legs were broken. After three and a half months of hospitalization, she was told she could rejoin her husband and four children... on one condition. Wearing a brace on her right leg and walking on crutches to support two rodged legs, she would have to have help.

While she was in the hospital, Craig took time from his job and with help from family, friends and neighbors, was able to keep the family together. "Sometimes the kids didn't get to school and Craig might have been fired but we managed," said Pat.

With her homecoming, the Craigs needed steady, dependable help they could afford. Northwest Suburban Homemaker Service, which works with Alexian Brothers, Northwest Community and Lutheran General's home care departments and also with Northwest Mental Help, Elk Grove Village Community Service and others, provided that help. They sent the Ogles Mrs. Sterba.

"SHE'S THE GREATEST! We would have been lost without her!" Mrs. Ogle described her feelings of gratitude and relief.

With Dorothy on the job, the Ogle kids returned to school and made up lost work and the family breadwinner went back to work full-time. Another family might not have been so fortunate, Mrs. Sterba said, noting that an Ogle neighbor was fired when he stayed home to care for his family after the wife had surgery.

Such misfortune can be avoided and families kept together in time of stress and special need if they qualify for the homemaker service, Duffy said.

A call to the agency at 383-5940 either from such referral sources as doctor, hospital official or others or from the troubled family will bring evaluation. If the situation warrants a homemaker, one will be assigned, he said. If other sources of help are designated, the family will be so advised, he added.

MORE WOMEN LIKE Dorothy Sterba are needed if the homemaker service is to be expanded in the northwest suburban area, according to Duffy. Homemakers are paid and they receive para-professional training in such areas as child care, home nursing care, care of the emotionally ill and the aged. And, take the word of Dorothy Sterba, the professional homemaker receives much more than a salary. "I am enriched by the families I help," she commented.

More information about this service is available by calling 383-5940.

slipcovers, bedspreads and bath accessories. A recently franchised operation, Gazebo Interiors is geared to homeowners and apartment dwellers seeking custom-made draperies.

Gazebo Interiors

A New Twist In Home Decorating

by FRANK HECKART

Gazebo Interiors, Inc. of Mount Prospect is one of the newest additions in the home fashions market.

A recently franchised operation, the Gazebo store is operated by a brother-sister team. Al Hoyass of Milwaukee and Donna Lessen of Mount Prospect. With the franchise which they purchased last February came a completely furnished, stocked store, an illuminated outdoor sign and interior decorating classes at the Gazebo academy to train them to give decorating advice.

Located at 1710 W. Algonquin Road, Gazebo sells primarily draperies. However, slipcovers, bedspreads, window shades and bath accessories also are available.

THE IDEA BEHIND Gazebo is to provide a welcoming atmosphere for the person planning to purchase custom-made additions for the home, according to the owners. Their training at the Gazebo academy plus continuing weekly classes enable Al and Donna to provide a decorator service to those needing it. This includes a shop-at-home service.

A seating group — a table with chairs around it — is considered the heart of the Gazebo. Hot coffee adds further customer enticement.

More practically, the chairs are a necessity since the store is equipped with about 10,000 fabric samples. There also are bedspread books and decorator magazines for customers to peruse.

The recently added bath shop offers a large selection of shower curtains, towels and colored soap balls.

ALTHOUGH APARTMENT complexes surround the shop on Algonquin, Al and Donna have done most of their drapery fittings so far for homeowners.

"We remain completely objective so we can give each customer individual treatment," said Al.

Since they tailor their advice to individuals, neither Al nor Donna lays claim to a specific decorating technique. But both agree they would be willing to tackle any decorating assignment from offices to boats.

Commenting on today's trends in home fashions, they said there is general interest in ecology. Fabrics with endangered animal species and flowered prints are among those most often requested.

FABRICS RANGE from $2 to $30 a yard. Nearly all the fabrics have to be ordered so waiting periods vary, depending upon where the fabric comes from. Imported fabrics naturally take longer than those made in Chicago or New York.

A "patch of blue" will be added to Gazebo in the future. What is that? A spot in the ceiling with sun-converted light so customers may see how an item looks day or night.

Suburban Living

ESPECIALLY FOR THE FAMILY

'Tuned In' To Insurance

by HELEN HENNESSY

NEW YORK (NEA) — Ernesta Procope, president of one of the nation's largest black insurance brokerage firms, tossed off her opinion on women's lib in one short, quietly spoken sentence.

"We as black people have a job to do with our own liberation first."

The attractive wife of John Procope, vice-president and general manager of New York's black daily, the Amsterdam News, is doing her share to help her people.

The Bowman Insurance Co. which has its only office on Fulton Street in the Bedford-Stuyvesant section of Brooklyn, a poverty disaster area, has grown considerably in the last few years.

STARTED BY Ernesta's first husband in 1947 as a small neighborhood insurance company, it has through the efforts of his widow become a company that covers 8,000 employees of 332 poverty agencies in New York City. It also counts among its clients some Fortune 500 companies (such as PepsiCo, Kraftco, General Foods) as well as individuals and businesses in Bedford-Stuyvesant.

"When the poverty programs started," she said, "they came to me for insurance. But that's business insurance when you have workmen's compensation and things like that. And that's how I got my feet wet in that end of the insurance field."

The lady hadn't planned on being in the insurance business at all. She was a music major in college and had played the piano at Carnegie Hall. But on the insistence of her first husband, her insurance business came about as an adjunct to his real estate office. Now she is expert at getting insurance for people who heretofore had been considered too great a risk.

"IT WAS IMPOSSIBLE to place insurance for people in a poverty area," she said. "In one day alone I had 80 cancellations."

While in Governor Rockefeller's office for the political appointment of a friend, Mrs. Procope explained the plight of her neighbors (she was born in Bedford-Stuyvesant herself) to a N.Y. state official. One thing led to another and after a series of hearings, the N.Y. Property Insurance Underwriters Assn. was created. This is a pool for high risk clients.

The Bedford-Stuyvesant Restoration Corp., a privately funded firm conceived by the late Sen. Robert Kennedy is buying depressed buildings in the area and, with the skills of the neighborhood poor, is rebuilding them for marketable property. Mrs. Procope obtained a $3 million builders' risk policy for the workers as well as workmen's compensation coverage.

FOR THE CITY'S Community Development Agency (an umbrella agency for Head Start, Family Day Care and other programs) she wrote a policy that includes through Blue Cross-Blue Shield medical and dental coverage with no commission from them at all.

"But," she said, "we found that the people weren't using these benefits. They didn't know how to go about it."

The vivacious female dynamo decided to do a film to be shown at the various agencies instructing the people in those rights. And she did. She got Hugh Robertson, the black director who edited "Midnight Cowboy," to do it.

"My husband helps a lot," she said. "Because he is in advertising and marketing, he has creative ideas for my business. But, best of all, he lets me talk."

ERNESTA THINKS the Kennedy program has the best formula for taking people out of poverty. "They plan to completely rehabilitate the area commercially and industrially. The economic development will help black firms get started and open employment to people in the area."

She would like to get more business from the Fortune 500s. "Being black is a door opener now," she added, "but I have to come up with a unique package that they will accept. I'm in the throes of compiling one."

Assemblymen Told Results

AAUW Polls Members On Major Women's Issues

No fault divorce and property rights for unemployed housewives. Liberalized abortion laws. The Equal Rights Amendment for women and day care centers.

These are among the major "women's issues" taking on considerable political clout in this election year, according to results of a random sample poll of area members of the American Association of University Women (AAUW).

Eleven current legislative topics of interest to women were included in the poll, conducted by the Legislative Committee of the Arlington Heights Branch of AAUW. Tabulated results have been forwarded to all state Assemblymen representing the branch's membership area Districts 1, 2, 3, 4 and 32 (This includes Arlington Heights, Buffalo Grove, Des Plaines, Elk Grove Village, Hoffman Estates, Long Grove, Mount Prospect, Palatine, Prospect Heights, Rolling Meadows, Schaumburg and Wheeling plus a few communities outside the Herald circulation area).

RESPONDING ON divorce, 77 per cent agreed that divorce laws should be amended so as to include irreconcilable differences (i.e., no fault divorce) as grounds for divorce.

At the same time, 95 per cent of the women polled feel that unemployed housewives should share jointly in the property rights of their spouses. Under current law, although she shares liability for family debts in many cases, the housewife does not share in assets. The legislative committee notes this is particularly important in a society such as ours which often judges a person according to his economic worth. Tying in with divorce reform, it was further observed that no fault divorce has been easier to implement in community property states.

LIBERALIZED abortion laws are supported by 68 per cent of those responding, with an additional 18 per cent advocating elimination of all abortion laws. While none of those polled had no opinion on abortion, 70 per cent termed it a "moral issue," 23 per cent a medical one and 12 per cent a legal problem. This led to a committee conclusion that abortion is an issue of individual conscience. They added "More liberal abortion laws would eliminate the large number of illegal abortions performed under unsafe conditions and would cease discrimination against the woman who cannot afford to circumvent legally the state's present requirements."

Illinois' ratification of the Equal Rights Amendment is advocated by 68 per cent of the polled membership. AAUW has long given its support to passage of the amendment and actively voiced its support when this issue was considered by the federal government.

MEMBERSHIP WAS split on the need for state-supported day care centers for people of all income levels, with 45 per cent supporting this issue and the same number in disagreement. While the need for day care is universally recognized, opinion is divided as to whether the government should provide it without cost to those who can afford to pay.

A majority feel that support for schools should come from various governmental agencies, relieving the burden upon the individual property owner, but no clear consensus developed as an alternative to property tax. The poll reveals 19 per cent feel funding should come from income tax, none find poll tax an alternative; 41 per cent support funding from the federal government and 19 per cent find none of these alternatives acceptable. Others indicated a combination of state, county and city taxes should be used. Also suggested were complete state funding or taxes based on the number of school-age children.

LEGISLATION REGARDING special services in schools also brought division, with 46 per cent of the local AAUW members agreeing that state legislation in this area should be broadened. The pollsters concluded that the membership feels state government should provide some services which they cannot always provide themselves, but at the same time there must be no infringement upon individual rights.

Concerning state parks, 55 per cent voted for more funds for the establishment of parks while 31 per cent had no opinion.

The need for radical change in the area of juvenile rehabilitation is reflected in a 95 per cent support for local rehabilitation centers for juvenile offenders instead of reform schools. This support indicates, the committee feels, a willingness on the part of the public to accept a program which many legislators have felt would not receive popular support.

A WARINESS to legalize marijuana without additional research regarding the effects of this drug upon users is indicated by only a 27 per cent membership support for legalizing the substance for adults. The poll further indicates 59 per cent against legalization and 82 per cent adding there should be a penalty for those who sell marijuana.

Low and moderate income housing also was a query on the poll, and 73 per cent agreed there is a need in this area. In addition, 50 per cent of those polled feel that this housing, if built, should be established only for existing area residents.

AAUW members were asked to indicate other areas of concern in addition to those included in the poll. While there was no trend evident in the response to this question, the most listed items were:

THE WAR and control of the military; pollution, providing teaching jobs for present graduates rather than the widespread use of para-professionals; prison reform; mental health reform; provisions for senior citizens; welfare for non-white minorities; control of welfare for minorities; provision for open land; auto safety; consumerism and ethics for public officials.

Members of the 1971-72 Legislative Committee of the Arlington Heights Branch of AAUW who formulated and tabulated the poll were: Mrs. T. J. Haack, chairman; Mrs. Jack Hays; Mrs. Ronald Voisard and Mrs. Randy Stotler, all Arlington Heights residents.

They'll Be Brides In August

Elisabeth
Lyon

The engagement of Elisabeth Sue Lyon to Jan Faber, son of the Leo Fabers of Groningen, Netherlands, is announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert J. Lyon, 3205 California Ave., Holling Meadows.

The wedding date is Aug. 19.

The bride-elect is a '71 graduate of Pratt Institute in Brooklyn, N. Y., and her fiancé works for Holland-American Line based in Rotterdam, Netherlands.

Bunny
Willroth

An Aug. 27 wedding is planned by Bunny Willroth of Arlington Heights and Michael Malley of Chicago. Their engagement and approaching marriage are announced by Bunny's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Willroth.

She is attending Arlington Academy of Beauty Culture, and her fiancé is with Cutler Repaving Co., Buffalo Grove. His parents are Mr. and Mrs. George Malley.

Susan Stegemeyer

A wedding date of Aug. 19 has been set by Susan Stegemeyer of Arlington Heights and Craig Shully of Milwaukee, Wis. Both have been attending Wisconsin State University at Oshkosh, where Craig will be a senior in fall.

Susan is the daughter of the Einar Stegemeyers of 1108 Francis Drive, and Craig's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Ken Shully.

The bride-to-be graduated from Arlington High School in 1969.

Melonie
Horak

Melonie Horak's engagement to Arnold William Fleer Jr. is announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Horak of 605 Bunting Lane, Mount Prospect. Her fiancé is the son of the A. W. Fleers of Quincy, Ill.

The couple will be married Aug. 19.

A Prospect High School graduate, Melonie attends Western Illinois University where Arnold works for Motorola in Quincy.

Elk Grove Rites Unite Knox College Graduates

Knox College graduates were married May 27 in Queen of the Rosary Church, Elk Grove, and are living near Ft. Campbell, Ky., where the groom is stationed with the U.S. Army.

The bride, the former Barbara Ann McCauley of Elk Grove Village, and Jerry Brown Baumeister of Bethany, Okla., met on the Knox campus in Galesburg. Jerry graduated last year and went into military service. Barbara, a '68 graduate of Elk Grove High School, earned her degree from Knox this spring and planned her wedding for a few months later.

While awaiting the important date, she made her own bridal gown of Irish linen and hand-embroidered a border of flowers and hearts around the neckline. The dress had a scooped neck, short puffed sleeves and a ruffle at the floor-length hem.

The bride wore no veil but did wear a small nosegay of flowers at the back of her head. She carried a multi-colored bouquet of roses, daisies, carnations, mums, cornflowers and baby's breath.

BARBARA IS the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. G. McCauley, 57 Brantwood Ave. She had just one attendant, her sister, Mrs. Patricia Fuller of Mount Carroll, Ill.

Jerry, son of the W. E. Baumeisters, chose his brother, Terry, as best man. The bride's brother, Mark, and Richard Laham of Mahomet, Ill., were ushers for the afternoon, double ring ceremony.

Afterwards there was a reception at Salt Creek Country Club for 85 wedding guests. The newlyweds then left for a Wisconsin honeymoon and are now settled in Clarksville, Tenn., near Ft. Campbell.

Conflict In Army Leave Makes Close Wedding Timing

A conflict in the groom's Army leave brought about a frantic few days preceding the wedding, for he didn't arrive home until Thursday night for the Saturday nuptials.

Patrick A. Arnold, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry W. Arnold of Mount Prospect, and Cheryl Lynn Konishi, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George S. Konishi of Des Plaines, were wed May 27 at Trinity United Methodist Church, Mount Prospect, in an 11 a.m. ceremony performed by Dr. Robert Matthews.

Cheryl's wedding gown and veil were made by her mother. Of bridal satin with front lace trim, the A-line gown featured a detachable train flowing from the Empire waist. Her fingertip veil was secured by a Juliet cap. She carried a cascade of orchids.

The bridal attendants were dressed identically in flocked organdy gowns and picture hats, and carried yellow daisies. Each gown was a different color: Judith Reizke of Des Plaines, the maid of honor, wore blue; Christine Barry of Des Plaines wore lavender; and Lori Arnold, the groom's sister, wore yellow.

Also carrying yellow daisies was the bride's little 4-year-old cousin, Kristin Nishimura of Carol Stream, who served as flower girl in her long pink lace dress.

The groom's party consisted of Martin Jakubcek of Des Plaines, best man; David Hess of Des Plaines; and Bernard Bos of Little Rock, Iowa. The reception following the wedding was held at the Camelot Restaurant.

Cheryl and Patrick met each other when both were working at a Jewel Food Store in Des Plaines. The bride is a 1970 graduate of Elk Grove High School; the groom a 1970 graduate of Forest View High School. He attended the University of Iowa at Iowa City where he was enrolled in the College of Pharmacy.

Patrick returned to the U. S. Army following his leave and has just arrived in Panama where he will be stationed for 18 months. Cheryl remained behind to complete her junior year in secondary education at Western Illinois University in Macomb. She will join her husband in Panama in September.

Mr. and Mrs. Patrick A. Arnold

A Grand Tour Of Florida

Disney World, St. Petersburg, Tampa, Miami Beach, Palm Beach, Fort Lauderdale and Treasure Island were all included in the 10-day honeymoon of Edward G. Wilhusen and his bride, the former Annette C. Meo. The couple were married May 27 in St. Francis of Rome Church, Cicero. Annette is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Meo, Cicero, and Edward is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Wilhusen, Rolling Meadows.

For the 2 p.m. double ring ceremony, a spring rainbow color scheme was used. Annette's maid of honor, Lucretia Meo, the bride's sister from Cicero, was in crocus green. The bridesmaids, Pauline Meo, another sister, Suzie Ozawa and Mrs. Jessie Campobasso, all of Chicago, and Diane Anderson, Carbondale, were in aqua, lavender, yellow and pink. The groomsmen wore colored shirts that matched the colors in the bridesmaids' gowns.

THE GIRLS' gowns were in voile, flocked with flowers and trimmed in rick-rack around the square necklines, the hems and the sleeves. All carried flower parasols and wore picture hats.

Annette's Empire gown was of organza re-embroidered with Alencon lace, pearls and sequins, fashioned with long sleeves and a sheer yoke. A lace-bordered mantilla was her headpiece.

Jerry Wilhusen, Rolling Meadows, served as his brother's best man, and groomsmen were the bride's brother, Joe, her cousin, Joe Franzese of Chicago, George Swiec, Mount Prospect, and Ron Van Buren, Wauconda.

More than 200 guests greeted the couple at the reception in Brookwood Country Club, Wood Dale.

Annette, a '69 graduate of Fenton High School, studied at Morton Junior College and Northern Illinois University. She is employed by Olin Corp., Oak Brook. Edward, a '67 graduate of Forest View High School, studied at Elgin Community and Harper Colleges, and is with the A&P Food Stores, Lisle.

The couple are making their home in a Woodridge, Ill., apartment.

Get Right Paint

Planning on repainting? Be sure to use the right type of paint for the different rooms. Water paints are ideal for the bedrooms, halls, den, or living room but tend to absorb the humidity of a kitchen or bathroom.

Be sure to check with your paint salesman for the correct paint. By simply telling him which room the paint is for, he will be able to help you select the proper type paint.

A Christogram Trims Her Mantilla

A three-yard mantilla veil with a christogram of applied lace and a scalloped lace edge was worn by Melonie Sue Southard May 27 when she became the bride of James Robert Russell, a teacher at Our Savior's Lutheran Church School in Norwood Park. Atop the mantilla Melonie wore a crown of live flowers. Her Empire gown was of white crepe with a white velvet bolero and long, chiffon sleeves.

Melonie is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bob E. Southard of Arlington Heights, and her bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Bob L. Russell of Steeleville, Ill.

The pair's wedding took place in Christ Lutheran Church, Palatine, at 7 p.m., followed by a reception for 175 guests in the church's Fellowship Hall.

AIANA LAMBOURN, Wonder Lake, sister of the bride, was matron of honor, and Sue Silverblatt, Palatine, Paula Brandenburg, Vincennes, Ind., and Kathi Eickstadt, Marengo, Ill., were bridesmaids.

Aiana and the flower girl, 4-year-old Ann Jeremiah of Chicago, were in pale yellow crepe gowns with Empire waists and chiffon sleeves and Rusty-gold velvet boleros. The bridesmaids wore identical gowns in pale green with olive green velvet boleros. All carried colonial bouquets of French carnations, daisies and baby's breath, and wore wreaths of the same flowers in their hair.

The bride's flowers were a gold orchid with stephanotis, French carnations and lilies of the valley.

The groom's brother, Jack, Steeleville, was best man, and ushers were Alan Erke, Mt. Vernon, N.Y., Jay Cornils, Secority, Colo., and the bride's brother, Rodney, Arlington Heights.

A graduate of Arlington High School, Melonie studied two years at Concordia Teachers College, River Forest, and is now with Protection Mutual Insurance Co., Park Ridge. Her bridegroom was graduated from Concordia just two days before the wedding.

The newlyweds honeymooned for five days at Starved Rock, Ill.

by Dorothy Ritz

Dear Dorothy: Never thought I'd get goose pimples at the sight of a bug, but a cockroach makes me physically ill and I cringe over what a lousy housekeeper I must be. Someone said you had something in your column once about using boric acid for cockroaches. How do you use it and was it successful?—Mrs. Art B.

You're not alone in your queasiness over cockroaches. They're filthy pests and dangerous because they transmit disease. They not only contaminate and spoil food but damage fabrics, ruttains, books, papers and so forth. Don't reproach yourself. These bugs can come in with groceries, potato bags, soda water cartons and so on. Fortunately, we haven't had to try the boric acid treatment. The treatment you mention was sent in by a baroness, no less, and we have heard from scores of readers on the success they've had using the method.

Dissolve a teaspoon boric acid in hot (not boiling) water; pour into a saucer, put in it a slice of white bread and place the saucer, or as many saucers as you want, in various spots that the bugs frequent. Might be wise to put this around after the children are in bed and the pets are out of the way.

Dear Dorothy: I've found that small strips of cellophane tape are not only invisible but will hold most climbing plants and flowers to trellises. Also when a plant has a slightly broken branch tape will help reinforce it. If the branch is heavy, taping on small splints will hold it. It's surprising how quickly a plant heals.—Mark Schoun.

It's Fashion

by United Press International
Pearls seem to be the one kind of jewelry that goes with every new fall and winter collection from New York designers. Most designers have chosen culture pearls to accessorize their new fashions.

Fashion's getting the first big vote for young people this politician season. The fashion in the front is election clothes — shoes, shirts, socks, jeans, belts, hats, pants and patches emblazoned with all varieties of the vote message.

Representing the current wave of election clothes, Wrangler's political pants for girls are nostalgically designed with actual reproductions of past presidential campaign buttons. The pants have four patch pockets and come in — what else? — red, white, blue.

Men's shoe heels will continue the upward trend first surfacing last year. For the fall and winter season ahead, the pacesetter heel height will be 3 1/2 inches. Only the brave will wear them? Or the daring? Three and one-half inches, in case you care to know, is about high-high for a woman's shoe. Spikes!

Who Supports Charities

by PATRICIA McORMACK
NORWALK Conn. (UPI) — Why do you drop a coin in a beggar's tin cup or contribute to any charity?

In his list of motivational studies, there's an answer. You give according to a new survey for one of three main reasons: guilt.

—Out of a sense of moral responsibility.
—To gain personal satisfaction.
—Because you feel guilty.

The survey on charity, done by the New York market research firm of Daniel Yankelovich Inc. for Save the Children Education (SCE), here, also found that men generally are more skeptical than women when it comes to giving. And the men? They're more discriminating in the selection of specific charities to support.

DAVID L. GUYLER, executive director of the federation celebrating its 40th anniversary, said the survey aimed to find ways in which the nation's oldest child sponsorship organization could improve its relations with its supporters.

Last year the gave $17.7 million to the federation and two related organizations.

The study showed there are several types of giver. The smallest group, the committed, is the most active. This group is made up of persons who organize local chapters, visit the charity headquarters, question the annual report in terms of what the dollars were spent for. If you count yourself among the committed, you probably are over 50 married and have an income well above the $15,000 per year mark. You give out of a sense of deep moral responsibility.

THE SECOND GIVER is the skeptic. This group, the Yankelovich study found, is one that largely is the committed. The skeptics mistrust most charities. Among the skeptics women outnumber men. The skeptics feel that charity ought to begin at home. The skeptics give to satisfy an inner desire to lend a hand to those needing help.

The Yankelovich survey found the largest group of givers in the discriminator class. They are very selective but once they pick a charity then tend to become rather mechanical about sending in their donations with little subsequent thought given to them.

What else was discovered? A significant proportion of people are looking for substantial personal involvement in charity.

THE REPORT ALSO noted that inefficiency is more of a problem for charities than dishonesty. People were critical of duplicated or wasted effort. They tended to believe most charities are honest.

Happily for the federation, the survey found that the Save the Children organization is very well regarded among charities and is considered superior to most others by the respondents.

Most regarded the federation as having an approach to helping children which is Named To Committee

Miss Eleanor A. Koss, 1111 W. Hawthorne, Arlington Heights, has been named to the planning committee for the 27th annual convention of the National Secretaries Association. Miss Koss heads the convention services committee for the gathering which will be held July 25-29 at the Palmer House in Chicago.

The convention was last held in Chicago 10 years ago. Last year it was held in San Francisco.

The Potting Shed

by Mary B. Good

Claire C. Hoffner of Arlington Heights recently wrote The Potting Shed a letter asking help for her tragic lawn problem.

I thought this letter significant in that it pointed out how chemicals can sometimes get a person in big trouble. Here's a condensation of that letter.

"I am trying to find some solution to a lawn problem. I moved to Arlington Heights last July and my lawn was very brown, but within a month my neighbors all admitted I used gypsum.

"I'm a novice, a golden age with finally a garden of my own. In my zeal, I spent four hours edging it by hand and then was sold a chemical bar to retard grass from growing over the edges.

"TO MY HORROR and sorrow, soon edges were all dried and dead and brown was creeping into the lawn. I wrote the manufacturer for advice, as the store from which I bought the chemical bar could not help me. I received a 'wait-and-see' answer.

"I fertilized in March and seeded, however, over it like my ill baby. The grass in the center has come up nicely but the edges of the lawn are still straw-like, though I loosened it up with a rake. Last week, I got on my knees and raked it by hand getting much thatch out and put in more seed and peat moss. To date, it is still the saddest lawn edging around here.

"My more experienced neighbors have done nothing at all since I came here, except a bit of sprinkling and their edging is coming up nice and green.

"WHAT MORE CAN I do? I can't afford to call in a gardener, neither have I heard from the manufacturer who said he would call in the spring. I would never buy another of this product.

"It really has taken pleasure out of gardening, as I can't seem to get any help.

"I have read all sort of lawn and garden books and magazines, but nothing like this. I've even discussed Nurseries are now too busy to advise. What am I to do? Help!"

No one has sought to advise Mrs. Hoffner simply because there isn't an easy answer for her — no one all to undo the damage, no chemical to counter-act the other chemical.

OBVIOUSLY, this gardener used a kill-all type chemical that destroyed the lawn along with the straggly edges. Now, everytime it rains, the chemical seeps into the lawn a bit more, and does further damage. With a complete defoliant (that's what the army used in Vietnam) nothing will grow on the soil for two years.

Mrs. Hoffner would have been better advised to lay plastic or metal edging where she wanted to retard the grass growth, or edge with a hand or power tool designed for that purpose. Now, the only solution — and it is work — is to spade up the grass in that area, and remove the soil on which the grass grew, bring in fresh humus and lay new sod or reseed. It's important to remove the soil since it has been poisoned and cannot now support life.

AAUW Collecting Used Books

Arlington Heights Branch of the American Association of University Women once again announces its annual forage for used or unwanted books, sheet music and records. Last year several tons of books were collected from area residents and sold in the fall at the branch's used book sale, proceeds of which went to the AAUW Educational Foundation.

Any type of book is acceptable, according to the chairman, Mrs. P. I. Schura, Palatine. In addition to fiction and non-fiction both hard cover and paper back the sale will include categories for foreign language books, text books, science, math, teacher guides, encyclopedias, religious, social studies, do-it-yourself types, early editions and children's books as well as sheet music and records.

Cambridge Luncheon

Members of Cambridge Countryside Woman's Club will be luncheon next Wednesday at the Golden Eagle Rand Road, Arlington Heights. The newly-elected board will be hostesses for the 12-45 luncheon.

The program presented by Julie Matthews will be a demonstration of ironing, a new way of preserving old quilts. Further information on the luncheon may be obtained from the club president, Mrs. Ross Bowen, at 537-5938.

ENGINEERS...

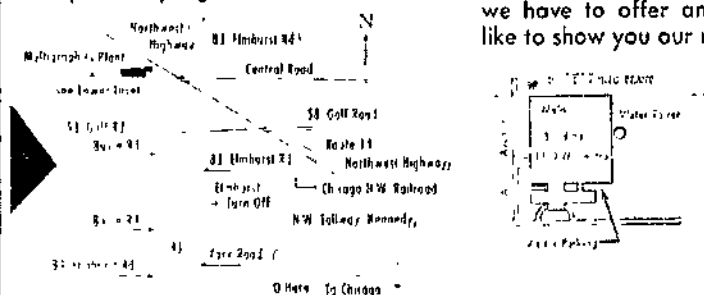

A CAREER INVITATION FROM MULTIGRAPHICS DIVISION OF ADDRESSOGRAPH MULTIGRAPH

Drop in at our plant from 6 p.m. to 9 p.m. Thursday, June 22, for an informal, confidential discussion of your career opportunities with us...

We'd like to talk to you regardless of age, type of experience, or specialty. We are hiring engineers of all disciplines including draftsmen now. This is another phase of our long-range expansion program.

As an international leader in the manufacture of copiers and duplicators, and as a division of the leading corporation in the graphic arts industry, we can offer you an excellent salary, unparalleled corporate benefits, and a clear road to career advancement. We'd like you to see first-hand what we have to offer and, frankly, we'd like to show you our modern facilities!

Your visit with us could have an excellent effect on your career plans, and we urge you to take an evening off and explore our career opportunities.

AND EVERYTHING NICE ABOUT FOOD

Specialties of the House

Capture the romance of vacation dining at home by preparing the house specialties from three of Florida's Holiday Inns. For a dinner party reminiscent of sparkling white beaches and pounding surf, you need a very special entree. Tournedos a la Bearnaise from the Holiday Inn in Clearwater is a chef's specialty that can be yours.

Tournedos are always an expensive item on a menu and they're costly at home, too — not an entree choice for a big dinner party, but lovely for four. One trick is to buy a whole tenderloin when on sale. Tournedos are cut from the skinny ends leaving the center of the filet perfectly shaped for chatouillard. Tenderloin freezes well as long as it's wrapped in moisture-vapor-proof paper and not kept as long as sturdier beef cuts.

Fresh asparagus or broccoli is a good vegetable choice with the tournedos; the Bearnaise Sauce complements both. Make the sauce ahead and reheat over hot — not boiling — water.

A special evening needs a salad that is exciting and different. This Greek Salad from the Holiday Inn at Cypress Gardens near Dundee is perfect. Lots of greens, the salty flavor of feta cheese, smoky Greek olives, anchovies, oregano and the tangy dressing make it a classic Greek salad.

With all this elegance a simple dessert is needed. Brandied Peaches with Champagne from the chef at the Fort Lauderdale Holiday Inn on U.S. 1 is easy to serve and can be made ahead. Keep the individual servings refrigerated until time for dessert. For a dramatic ending to a festive dinner, pour the champagne over the peaches at the table.

All three of these recipes are from the Holiday Inn International Cook Book, a collection of hundreds of chef's recipes from around the world. Many are provincial favorites. It is available in Holiday Inn gift shops or you can write to Cook Book, Holiday City, Memphis, Tennessee 38118.

TOURNEDOS A LA BEARNAISE

- 4 tournedos (cut from thinner end of beef tenderloin, 1½ inches thick, weighing about 6-oz. each)
- 4 strips thick bacon
- 1 tablespoon butter or margarine
- 1 tablespoon oil
- 4 slices bread
- 4 mushrooms
- Bearnaise Sauce

Trim tournedos round, wrap with bacon and tie. (Remove string before serving.) Sauté tournedos in butter and oil over medium heat 5 to 6 minutes on each side for medium rare. (Or broil to desired degree of doneness.) Meanwhile, cut a circle of bread slightly larger than tournedos with kitchen scissors; toast in butter. If desired, cut design in top of mushrooms; then sauté. Arrange tournedos on toast; top with 2 to 3 tablespoons Bearnaise Sauce and mushroom. Serve with additional sauce. Serves 4.

BEARNAISE SAUCE

- 3 tablespoons water
- 3 tablespoons tarragon vinegar
- ½ onion, chopped
- 4 egg yolks, slightly beaten
- ½ teaspoon salt
- Dash of pepper
- 4 tablespoons butter or margarine, creamed

Heat water, vinegar and onion to boiling. Remove from heat; discard onion. Stirring constantly, slowly pour egg yolks into mixture. Add seasonings. Cook over hot water, stirring constantly. When mixture thickens gradually stir in butter. Makes about 1 cup.

GREEK SALAD

- 1 bunch romaine, torn into bite-size pieces
- 2 bunches leaf lettuce, torn into bite-size pieces
- ½ bunch watercress, chopped
- 2 tomatoes, quartered
- 1 cucumber, sliced thin
- 3 scallions, chopped
- 12 black Greek olives
- 2 ounces feta* cheese, cut-up
- 2 to 3 pepperoncini (green salad peppers) optional
- Oregano
- Greek Salad Dressing
- 6 to 8 anchovies

*Or use ½ cup crumbled mozzarella cheese

Combine greens, tomatoes, cucumbers, scallions, olives, cheese and pepperoncini. Sprinkle with oregano. Pour dressing over top; toss lightly. Top with anchovies. Serves 6 to 8.

GREEK SALAD DRESSING

- 1 cup olive oil
- ½ cup vinegar
- 2 teaspoons salt
- ¼ teaspoon garlic powder
- 1 tablespoon sugar
- ¼ teaspoon white pepper

Combine oil and vinegar in blender or mixer. Add seasonings; blend well. Makes about 1½ cups.

BRANDIED PEACHES WITH CHAMPAGNE

- 1 can (30 oz.) freestone peaches, drained or fresh peaches
- ½ cup peach or apricot brandy
- 1 split of champagne

Place peaches in serving bowl; pour brandy over top. Cover tightly and chill several hours. Just before serving pour champagne over peaches and brandy. Serves 4.

Desserts For Summer Days

One of the pleasures of cooking is taking full advantage of seasonal bounties, and summer fruits offer creative kitchen play. Rosy peaches, plump strawberries, heart-shaped apricots — all go into a variety of superb summer sweets.

Peaches, strawberries and grapes team with a splendid Cheese Bombe, one of the most delectable desserts of this or any season. The recipe calls for only about five minutes of cooking time, just enough to dissolve the gelatine. For the rest, the blender does the work and then the mixture chills until done. The gelatine mold includes cottage cheese, grated lemon rind, sour cream and sugar. The bombe is velvety and most flavorful and the tangy cheese gel combines to perfection with the fruit and mint garnish.

Ambrosia Cream is another winner. The recipe combines the classic ambrosia ingredients — oranges, grapes and coconut — and adds pineapple chunks and miniature marshmallows. Unlike ambrosia, the recipe adds a custardy sauce mixed with whipped cream. To mellow and bring out all the flavors, chill the mixture for about 24 hours.

Fruit Medley Glacee is a frozen treat featuring an unusual team of ingredients — apricots, cream cheese, sugar, dates, cherries, almonds and chopped candied ginger. Whipped cream is folded into the mixture and it's a wonderfully imaginative dessert. Best of all, there's no cooking. Simply combine, turn into a pan, and pop into the freezer. For a summer dessert or a cold snack on a hot afternoon, Fruit Medley Glacee is perfection.

When the thermometer soars, take advantage of the fruits of the season to make any or all of these refreshing desserts.

CHEESE BOMBE

- 2 envelopes unflavored gelatine
- 1 cup milk
- 1 cup sugar
- 2 cups sour cream
- 2 teaspoons grated lemon rind
- 2 tablespoons lemon juice
- 3 cups (24 ounces) mild creamed cottage cheese
- Sliced peaches
- Sliced strawberries
- Garnish

Sprinkle gelatine over milk in saucepan, allow to stand until gelatine granules are moistened. Place over low heat; stir constantly until gelatine dissolves, about 5 minutes. Remove from heat, stir in sugar. Add sour cream, grated lemon rind and juice. Stir until smooth. Place cottage cheese in electric blender with a small amount of the gelatine mixture (to keep blender from clogging) and process at high speed until smooth, or beat at high speed of electric mixer until smooth and creamy. Stir cottage cheese into gelatine mixture. Turn into 6-cup mold.

Chill until firm, several hours. Unmold and serve with lightly sweetened peaches, strawberries, and grapes. Garnish with mint sprigs, if desired.
Makes 8 servings.

AMBROSIA CREAM

- 3 egg yolks
- 1/4 cup sugar
- 3 tablespoons lemon juice
- 1 tablespoon butter
- 1/8 teaspoon salt
- 2 cups halved grapes (combination of seedless green grapes and seeded purple grapes)
- 1 can (1 pound, 4 ounces) pineapple chunks, drained
- 2 large oranges, sectioned
- 1/2 cups miniature marshmallows
- 1/3 cup flaked coconut
- 1 cup heavy cream, whipped

Beat egg yolks slightly in top of double boiler. Add sugar, lemon juice, butter and salt; mix well. Cook over boiling water, stirring constantly, until thickened. Remove from water; cool to room temperature.

In large bowl, mix together grapes, pineapple, oranges, marshmallows and coconut. Fold whipped cream into cooled egg yolk mixture. Fold into fruit mixture. Cover and refrigerate for at least 24 hours; the long chilling is necessary to mellow and develop the flavors.
Makes 8 servings.

FRUIT MEDLEY GLACEE

- 1 can (1 pound, 1 ounce) apricot halves
- 1 package (3 ounces) cream cheese, at room temperature
- 1 tablespoon lemon juice
- 1/4 cup sugar

- 1/8 teaspoon salt
- 1/4 cup sliced pitted dates
- 1/4 cup chopped maraschino cherries

1/3 cup toasted slivered almonds
3 tablespoons chopped crystallized ginger
1 cup heavy cream, whipped
Drain apricots, reserving 3 tablespoons syrup. Soften cream cheese; gradually beat in 3 tablespoons apricot syrup, lemon juice, sugar and salt. Cut drained apricot halves into small pieces; add to cheese mixture with dates, cherries, almonds and ginger. Fold in whipped cream. Turn into 8x8x2-inch square pan. Freeze. Remove from freezer 10 minutes before serving, to allow for softening slightly. Cut into squares to serve.
Makes 8 servings.

Planning Can Cut Food Expenses

by JEANNE LEMME

1. Careful planning and shopping can cut food expenses as much as 20 per cent, say family finance experts at a New York bank.

That announcement coincided with one from the Federal Price Commission that played price increases sought by several leading food companies.

Despite such increases, you can save money on home cooked meals in a variety of ways.

When you plan meals, choose food for the number of servings per pound instead of the cost per pound. For instance, pork spareribs command a somewhat lower price per pound than pork roast, but they can be more expensive on a cost per serving basis.

A roast with a moderate amount of bone provides two or three servings per pound compared with only one per pound for spareribs.

Freeze chicken breasts at 60 cents per pound are a better buy than whole fryers at 77 cents a pound, says the U.S. Department of Agriculture-USA, because the cost per serving works out at 15 cents for the breast compared with nearly 25 cents for whole fryers. The USDA suggests 1/2 pound of ready-to-cook weight per serving when you buy chicken for roasting, frying, broiling or stewing and 1/4 to 1/2 bird per serving for broiling.

Another money-saver is a shopping list, provided you stick to it and avoid impulse purchases, such as candy and soft drinks to the market or hotel.

BASE YOUR LIST on store advertisements.

Household Topics

You can tell a pie pan from a cake pan by the slanted sides. The pie pan has slanted sides, so the unbaked pie crust will stay up on the sides of the pan. The cake pan can be taken out more easily, too, than if the pan has straight sides.

Wash-and-wear clothing, synthetic and durable-press curtains, permanent press bed linens, plus paper napkins and paper towels and place mats have reduced the time spent at the washing board.

Pepper, the master spice, was once considered so precious it was substituted for currency.

Whipped butter has air incorporated in it and should not be substituted in equal volume in recipes calling for regular butter.

ments in the papers and watch the papers for the USDA's monthly list of plentiful products. February's list is made up largely of fruits and vegetables, including fresh oranges, grapefruit, apples and pears, split peas, eggs, peanuts and peanut products and canned peaches and fruit cocktail.

Pork products are low in price now, so a ham is a good buy, especially if you use the bone to make split pea soup.

If you do a lot of home baking, it pays to buy extra eggs when prices are low. While their refrigerator shelf life is limited to a week or so for maximum nutrition and flavor, raw eggs freeze well and can be held safely for 6 to 8 months at zero degrees or lower.

Wash and dry each egg, break it into a cup or separate yolks and whites into a cup to check for freshness. Then empty the whole eggs or their parts into a bowl or freezer container that will hold the quantity you're apt to use in a single recipe. Cover whites, label with date and quantity, and freeze. Beat yolks or whole eggs to mix thoroughly without incorporating air. As a preservative, stir 1/4 teaspoon of salt or 3/4 teaspoon of sugar or light corn syrup into each 1/4 cup of yolks or 1/2 cup of whole eggs. Cover, label and freeze.

The USDA also has an easy method for figuring best buys in eggs according to size. If the price difference per size is less than 7 cents per dozen, the smaller size is the more economical. Shell color makes no difference in quality or nutrition.

IT PAYS TO buy many foods in quantity, so you need shop less often. But don't overbuy perishables just because of low prices. Wasted food can cost more than items with a higher price tag.

If you're handy with poultry shears and a sharp knife, take advantage of poultry sales. If you cut up the chickens yourself, you can package parts in meal-size servings and freeze them for later use.

One increase announced by the Price Commission permits one manufacturer to raise packaged pudding prices more than 6 1/2 per cent. Puddings made from scratch take a little more time to prepare but cost less. And you can save still more by making them with either powdered dry milk or canned evaporated milk, both of which cost less than fresh milk and are equally nutritious if the produce label lists Vitamin A and D fortification.

The form of a canned product also can reflect savings. Stewed tomatoes or tomato pieces generally are a better buy than whole peeled ones for making compound dishes such as stews and soups.

Mrs. Wally Dressler

She's Cooked Her Way Across America

by LOIS SEILER

An Arlington Heights homemaker, Charlene Dressler has cooked her way across the United States!

Char and her husband, Wally, are avid campers and have traveled 35,000 miles on vacations in the past nine years, visiting 44 states and Canada. And like all true campers they cook their own meals, eating out occasionally just to try the specialty of the locale.

"We consider our tent trailer our ticket to freedom!" Char enthusiastically exclaimed. "We can go when and where we want, stay as long as we want, and leave when we choose," she said.

The Dresslers call themselves travel campers as they use their trailer for long trips rather than short weekend excursions. Wally and Char bought their first trailer in 1963 and the next year they and their two sons, Roger and Neal, took a 8,000 mile trip to California. Total cost of the trip: under $300, not including food.

"You would have to eat were you at home," Char explained, "and food really costs less when you are camping as you concentrate on the necessities and keep meals fairly simple."

They have found that on the average they can travel for 2½ weeks for under $200 — excluding food. The largest expense is gasoline, while campground fees for that period of time total about $51.

With their first trailer, Char had to cook outdoors. However, in 1969 the Dresslers purchased a new tent trailer complete with a sink, ice box, three-burner stove and dinette. It takes about 15 to 20 minutes to set it up, and the tent sleeps four comfortably. In comparison to caring for a seven-room home, Char considers keeping house in a trailer a real vacation.

"I even like cooking in the trailer better than cooking at home, as my camper kitchen is more compact and convenient," she commented.

A registered nurse, she is conscious of good nutrition. "I cook simply, but stress well-balanced meals," she said. Being fastidious, she can also count on the cleanliness of her own kitchen.

"IN ALL OUR years of camping, we have never been ill due to dietary indiscretion," she proudly remarked.

The Dresslers like to travel off-season when the campgrounds are uncrowded. Having recently celebrated 25 years of employment with Western Electric, Wally is entitled to five weeks vacation, which makes extended trips possible.

Before starting out on a trip, Char looks over her check-list of essentials, purchasing all the staples for the camper kitchen. She always includes a variety of canned foods, beverages, fruit juices, soup, meat, fruit etc.

TICKET TO FREEDOM. That's what Mr. and Mrs. Wally Dressler call their tent trailer. Mrs. Dressler prepares almost all of the meals on family vacations and likes cooking in the camper kitchen better than cooking at home. A few of her recipes for the road are Hobo Stew, Chicken Hash, and Camping Beans With Meat.

"Instant foods are made to order for campers," she exclaimed, such as instant coffee, tea, rice, pancakes, potatoes and sweet potatoes.

"Canned chicken, spam and hash are handy if you are in a location where it is inconvenient to get fresh meat," she said.

When they can shop for groceries near a campground, Char buys fresh meat, eggs, fruit, bread, lunchmeat, cheese and salad fixins'.

For leisurely breakfasts, she prepares either bacon and eggs, hot cereal, pancakes or French toast. If the Dresslers are in a hurry to break up camp, they settle for a bowl of cold cereal.

Launches consist of sandwiches, fruit and cookies, while dinner is a complete meal including fresh or canned meat, potatoes, a vegetable, salad and fruit with cookies or cake.

Char has some easy yet appealing recipes which she found in camping journals or acquired from other campers. Hobo Stew is a favorite of her husband and sons, as well as relatives who have accompanied the family on camping expeditions.

The stew consists of ground beef, instant onion, canned potatoes, vegetable soup, tomato paste and seasonings. It is very tasty as well as nourishing.

A chunky chicken hash is also a specially made with canned chicken, celery soup, milk and green beans blended together and served over hot rice.

Another hearty recipe calls for canned pork and beans mixed with browned ground beef, onion, bacon and celery.

A real quickie is made simply of browned beef mixed with vegetable soup and served over instant mashed potatoes.

"I try to cook differently than I do at home, as it makes mealtime more interesting," Char said.

"All of these dishes may be prepared with a minimum of fuss, dishes and time," she added, "and everything always tastes better outdoors."

Char's camping recipes can also be found in the Arlington Heights Nurses Club's new "Tender Loving Cookbook." Anyone wishing a copy of the book may call 253-1576.

The use of paper plates, aluminum foil and teflon pans make quick work of cleaning up. Char has found an electric skillet handy when in a campground that has electrical hookups.

HAVING A PASSION for learning, the Dresslers are interested in the history and geology of the country. They have collected rocks and soil samples from every area they have visited. And when not on the road, they have unlimited hobbies at home.

Wally recently built an electric organ which he and Char have learned to play. A musical family, Char has played the accordion since she was ten, and Wally plays the saxophone and clarinet with local dance bands. Their son, Roger, a sophomore at Harper College also plays the clarinet, and their son Neal, who works at Western Electric, plays the guitar.

Char paints with oils, knits, crochets and enjoys sewing with knits — making T-shirts for her husband and sons and clothes for herself. She swims regularly, skis during the winter months and bicycles with her husband every evening in addition to working part time as a nurse at Northwest Community Hospital.

A REAL QUICKIE FOR CAMPING

1 pound ground round steak
1 can vegetable soup
Instant mashed potatoes
Brown ground beef. Add soup. Cook five minutes. Serve over instant mashed potatoes. You may increase this recipe by adding one can of soup for each pound of meat.

HOBOW STEW

2 pounds ground beef
1 chopped onion or instant onion
1 can round or sliced potatoes, drained
1 can vegetable soup
1 can tomato paste
1 (tomato paste) can of water
Salt and pepper to taste
Brown meat and add remaining ingredients, seasoning to taste. Simmer for 30 to 45 minutes.

CHUNKY CHICKEN HASH

3 cups hot, cooked rice
1 can celery soup
½ cup milk
2 cans boned chicken (large size)
1 8-ounce can green beans, drained
Prepare rice first according to package directions.
Blend soup and milk together. Add chicken and beans and season with salt and pepper to taste. Heat slowly. Serve over rice. Serves 4.

CAMPING BEANS WITH MEAT

2 slices diced bacon
1 onion, minced
1½ pounds ground beef
2 ribs celery, diced
1 large can pork and beans
Brown bacon and pour off most of the grease. In remaining grease, saute onion. Then brown the ground beef. Add diced bacon, celery and pork and beans. Cook or bake together for 30 minutes. Serves 4 to 5.

The Art Of Better Buymanship

Use Store Services And Labels

(Fifth in a Series)

AT THE SUPERMARKET, your shopping needs, wants, and desires are foremost. All facilities have been designed to serve you — to make shopping faster, more efficient, and to give you the shopping aids you need to make the right food choices for your family.

Since any store's success depends on happy, satisfied customers, there's a variety of supermarket services for your convenience. Some stores have consumer specialists who report on good buys and new products and provide recipe materials for new items, advertised specials, and meats. Extra assistance in the meat department is especially valuable because this is where shoppers spend one-third of every food dollar. Meats are pre-packaged in a variety of ways for economy and convenience. For additional help, you can ring the bell for personal service and advice.

To help the customers compare costs, the food industry is studying the concept of unit-pricing in certain markets. By indicating the price per ounce, pound, quart, or other "market units," it then becomes easier to compare prices of varying package sizes. A number of stores and manufacturers are also experimenting with nutrition labeling to determine what kind of nutrition information will best help the consumer plan well-balanced menus.

In years to come, supermarket shopping will be more and more convenient. Cooked foods and frozen prepared entrees will be offered the consumer in increasing quantity. Due to public awareness and concern, healthy, nourishing foods will replace products with empty calories and little nutrient value.

The supermarket itself will look different, too. Computerized checkstands will keep closer track of sales and inventory, and supermarket management will know instantly what's in stock or what must be reordered. The computer will reorder automatically, keeping in-store inventories to a minimum, insuring freshness of foods, and reducing the possibility of running short of items because of large customer demand.

Automation may go even further. Consumers might one day be able to shop with special order cards. They will insert the card into a slot beside each item wanted and on reaching the checkout counter, purchases will be ready and waiting and the bill totaled.

Or they may shop right at home using television and telephone to relay their orders to a central distribution center. The various available items will be shown on television, and by punching numbers into a phone, the shopper can order.

Changes will come quickly as your shopping needs and wants evolve, and today's market can help you develop the special awareness necessary to become tomorrow's skillful shopper.

The smart shopper tunes herself into the unique shopping helps and buying guides that are all around her in the supermarket — labels. Labels guide her to better buys by providing information essential for comparison shopping. To decide on your "best buys," read labels carefully and compare the labeling of similar products.

The government sets minimum labeling requirements specifying how food products are to be labeled. Labels must show the common or usual name of the product, quantity, ingredients listed in the order of descending amounts, weight, and the name and address of manufacturer, distributor or packer.

As an extra aid to consumers, some food companies design labels to be attractive, useful, and informative as possible. Consumer information such as variety as well as suggestions for use, recipes, and number of servings are often included. For example, a packaged dinner gives basic preparation directions and labeling information, and as an additional service, may give ideas on how to combine the dinner with meats, spices, soups, etc., to create a more elaborate meal.

Some products do not require ingredients to be listed on the label — they have established "standards of identity" under government regulations. This means that the ingredients and amounts of two items such as mayonnaise and salad dressing are set by government standards. Mayonnaise must have a minimum of 65 per cent vegetable oil and salad dressing a minimum of 30 per cent oil. This is not to say individual brands may not exceed these limits.

Background information such as the above is good to keep in mind when shopping. Labeling is a means of communication between the manufacturer and you — a service to aid you in becoming a knowledgeable shopper.

(Next week: Packaging Is More Than Meets the Eye)

Franfare

by Fran Heckart

Mention a Harvey Wallbanger to any drinker under 30 and his eyes light up with recognition. However, when I brought a Harvey Wallbanger cake into the office, the general reaction from my official taste testers was Harvey, who's cake?

For novices, a Harvey Wallbanger is basically a screwdriver with Galliano floating on top. The cake is made from an orange cake mix with oil, eggs, instant pudding, orange juice and, of course, the magic ingredients, vodka and Galliano.

I recently learned of the cake recipe from a Rolling Meadows woman, Mrs. Nona Tuscan. Mrs. Tuscan wrote asking for the recipe. Since I was unable to locate anything closer than a rum cake, Mrs. Tuscan called me again with the recipe she had received from another source.

Surprisingly the cake hasn't even a hint of an alcoholic taste but is moist and has the texture of a combination sponge-pound cake. Frosting is not necessary; however, a glaze made from powdered sugar and orange juice may be used for those skeptical of "plain" cake.

THE RECIPE suggests serving the cake with New York cherry or French vanilla ice cream. I chose French vanilla, which was excellent with a slightly warm cake, but suggest serving both kinds for a party dessert.

For the festive touch, chill an attractive serving bowl in the freezer (so it will be frosty when you put the ice cream in). Put individual scoops of the ice cream, New York cherry and French vanilla on a cookie tray lined with waxed paper and return to the freezer so the ice cream will harden again. A couple of hours is adequate time, however this may be done a day ahead.

At serving time simply fill the chilled bowl with the ice cream scoops and serve with the Harvey Wallbanger cake. The individual hardening process will keep the ice cream from melting together as quickly when served.

HARVEY WALLBANGER CAKE

1 package Duncan Hines Orange Supreme cake mix
1 package instant vanilla pudding
½ cup salad oil
¼ cup orange juice
4 eggs
2 to 3 ounces vodka
2 to 3 ounces Galliano

Combine dry cake mix and instant pudding with other ingredients. Beat with an electric mixer about 4 minutes or until the batter is smooth. Pour batter into a Bundt or tube pan which has been greased and floured and bake in preheated 350-degree oven 45 to 55 minutes. Serve with French vanilla or New York cherry ice cream.

Crispy Fried Rainbow Trout

Easy-Do Summer Menu

Crispy Fried Rainbow Trout is an easy-do recipe that may be prepared at home, on the patio, or over a campfire. The fish are dipped in milk, then rolled in a cornmeal, flour and paprika mixture. Fry a few minutes on each side until the fish are golden brown and the flesh flakes, and the tender, succulent fish are ready to enjoy. Keep this simple, tasty recipe handy for ready reference whenever trout are on the menu — it's so good that you'll want to prepare it again and again.

CRISPY FRIED RAINBOW TROUT

6 pan-dressed rainbow trout or other small fish, fresh or frozen ½ cup evaporated milk
1½ teaspoons salt
Dash pepper
¼ cup flour
¼ cup yellow cornmeal
1 teaspoon paprika
Lemon slices
Thaw frozen fish. Clean, wash, and dry fish. Combine milk, salt, and pepper. Combine flour, cornmeal, and paprika.

Dip fish in milk mixture and roll in flour mixture. Fry in hot fat at moderate heat for 4 or 5 minutes or until brown. Turn carefully and fry 4 to 5 minutes longer or until brown and fish flakes easily when tested with a fork. Drain on absorbent paper. Serve with lemon slices. Makes 6 servings.

Note: A nice accompaniment for the trout would be fresh whole tomatoes, scooped out and heated in the oven or on the grill until warm; then filled with hot, buttered green beans.

Household Hints

Keep a bottle of drinking water in the refrigerator, instead of letting the tap run until water gets cold. It's a water conservation tip.

Cover saucepans when they're on the burner. Food will cook faster and you'll save gas — or electricity.

The average oven takes 10 minutes to pre-heat, says the American Gas Association.

Outdoor Chefs: Fire Up With Caution

Make sure your outdoor chef knows the safest procedures before he starts work at the barbecue. The chef usually is the one who gets burned most seriously when either trying to start the fire with highly flammable liquids or when pouring the liquid on dying coals to bolster the fire.

The best way to start the fire is the old-fashioned way, spreading charcoal over lighted wood shavings or kindling. Some commercially available products are relatively safe if used as directed — electric starters be sure to look for the Underwriters' Laboratories Inc. label as well as some liquid and treated solid starters.

To freshen the fire, use paper, leaves, wood shavings or other combustibles, but not flammable liquids. Adding a liquid starter to an apparently dead fire can result in a flash cup or an explosion.

Around the barbecue site avoid wearing apparel with dangling sleeves or skirts that can easily catch fire. Tell the chef to roll up sleeves and wear an apron of denim or other heavy material and use potholder type gloves to protect hands from hot handles or grease splatters.

A RELATIVELY SIMPLE way to start the charcoal, get a two quart oil can from the local gas station. Remove top and bottom and wash the can. Take a punch type can opener and punch triangle-shaped holes around the top and bottom edges of the can. Then make loosely bunched balls of newspaper, each about plum size. Pack these loosely in the bottom of the can standing on the grill. Pack the top with charcoal. Then light the paper balls by using a long match poking some through some of the punches at the bottom end of the can. The draft will carry the flame to the other paper and the burning paper, its flame carried upward in the chimney made by the can will be of sufficient intensity to start the charcoal. It will smoke a lot. When the charcoal seems started use a pair of tongs to remove the hot can. The starter charcoal will spread out and you're on your way — with no danger of an explosion. Put the hot can in a bucket of water near the grill. It will cool off fast before anyone can suffer a burn. It's an old camper's way of starting charcoal and it works.

Free Camping Tips

If you're thinking of taking up family camping for the first time or have some experience under your camping belt but still can't learn more, here's good news: a free booklet called "Tips for New Campers." The booklet issued by the North American Family Campers Association contains comparisons of different types of camping equipment including tents, trailers, truck campers and motor homes, safety and convenience check lists, ideas for the camp book.

Free by sending a self-addressed No. 10 envelope (the long kind) with eight cents postage applied, to TIPS, NAFCA, Box 552, Newburyport, Mass.

Plain Talk about Beef Labeling...

What's in a name? With some beef cuts, a 'name' can cost from 10% to 15% more per pound and the 'name' is all you get for the extra money! Often times beef cuts are given names different from their standard name, for the express purpose of selling these cuts at a higher price. For example, you could easily pay 20¢ a pound more for a "His and Her Steak", than it would cost if it were properly labeled as T-bone or porterhouse. You have probably seen a number of beef cuts labeled as Market Steak, Butterfly Steak, Family Steak, Bar-B-Que Steak, Butter Steak, Chef Cut Steak, Imperial Broil Steak, Sandwich Steak, etc.

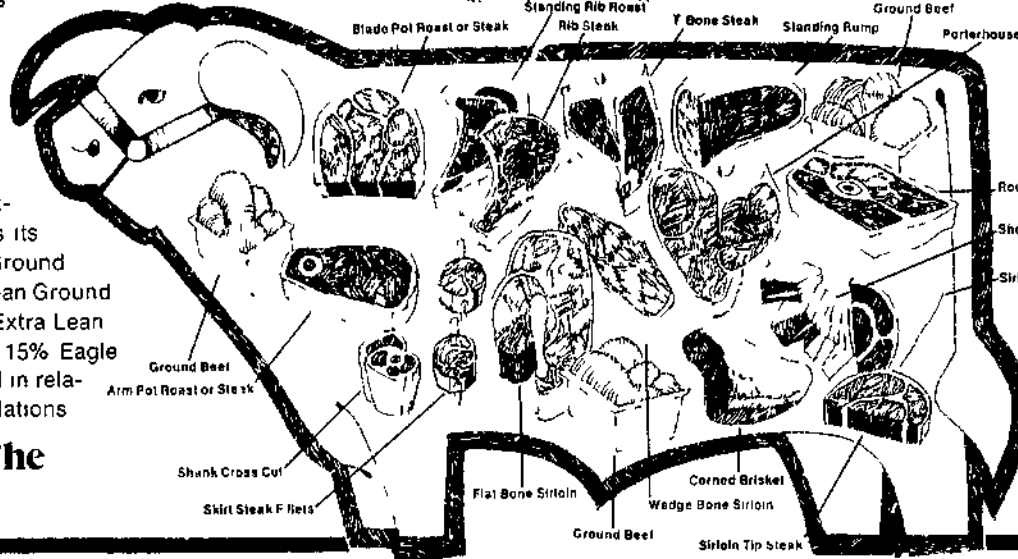

When you check the prices, chances are you'll discover that they are considerably higher than they'd be if these cuts were packaged under their true name. At Eagle, all meats are truthfully labeled so you always know exactly what you are buying. When you buy ground beef at Eagle, you also know exactly what you are buying. Eagle sells its ground beef by three classifications: Ground Beef — approximate fat content 25%, Lean Ground Beef — approximate fat content 20%, Extra Lean Ground Beef — approximate fat content 15%. Eagle feels that ground beef should be priced in relation to its fat content. Federal regulations stipulate that ground beef cannot have more than 30% fat content. At Eagle, our least expensive Ground Beef has approximately 25% fat (5% less than the legal limit), our Lean Ground Beef approximately 10% less and our Extra Ground Beef, 15% less.

Eagle feels that if one grade of ground beef is sold at a higher price in the same store, it should also have less fat. This is guaranteed at Eagle and Eagle is supporting legislation to that effect. It has long been a practice in the retail meat industry to designate ground beef as ground chuck, ground round or ground sirloin. And although trimmings from these cuts are generally used, the consumer is not assured of getting only the meat listed on the label. Eagle does not feel these classifications are truthful. Eagle feels that ground beef should be honestly labeled and priced by fat content.

No matter what cut of meat you buy at Eagle, you can be assured of honest labeling — and no fancy names. Our label tells you the price per pound, the net weight before packaging, the total cost of the package and the correct cut of meat.

Blue Cheese

In Biscuits

Blue cheese found its way into the eating habits of many millions as an integral part of a salad dressing. It also makes a filling and healthful dessert when served with a tasty apple or pear and crackers. Those who especially enjoy the tangy taste of Danish blue cheese will want to use it in making biscuits including bacon and buttermilk. These biscuits go well with a summer barbecue or a summer brunch.

- BLUE CHEESE BISCUITS
- 4 strips crisp bacon, crumbled
 - 2 cups unsifted all purpose flour
 - 3 teaspoons baking powder
 - 1 teaspoon salt
 - 2 1/2 teaspoons instant minced onion
 - 1 1/2 cups firmly packed Danish blue cheese
 - 1 1/2 cup vegetable shortening
 - 1 cup buttermilk

Mix crisp-bacon, flour, baking powder, salt and onion. Cut in blue cheese and shortening until particles are like small peas. Stir in buttermilk to form a soft sticky dough. Place dough on a floured board and knead several times to make a smooth ball. Roll dough to 1/2-inch thickness and cut into 2-inch rounds, using a cookie cutter. Place on ungreased cookie sheet and bake in a preheated 450-degree oven for 12 to 15 minutes. Serve hot with butter. Makes 14 two-inch biscuits.

Peanut Butter

With Ice Cream

The golden pea of peanut is one of the richest sources of protein. Peanuts make good snacks for children and for adults who are not stringently watching the calories. Those who like peanuts and ice cream will be delighted over a Peanut Butter Honey Buttermilk or a Peanut Butter Fudge Ice Cream Pie.

PEANUT BUTTER HONEY BUTTERMILK PARfait

- 1 cup peanut butter
- 1/2 cup honey
- 1 teaspoon ground ginger
- 1 quart vanilla ice cream
- Peanut

Combine peanut butter, honey and ginger. Alternate layers of peanut butter mixture and ice cream in parfait glasses. Chill thoroughly. Sprinkle top with peanuts and serve. Makes 6 servings.

PEANUT BUTTER FUDGE ICE CREAM PIE

- 1 1/2 quart vanilla ice cream
- 1 baked 9-inch pie shell
- 1 cup (1 pint) heavy cream
- 1 cup peanut butter
- 4 squares semi-sweet chocolate (4 oz.)

Spoon ice cream into baked and cooled pie shell. Freeze to keep hard. Combine remaining ingredients and cook over low heat while stirring until sauce is thick and smooth. Cool. When ready to serve, spoon sauce over ice cream pie. Let stand at room temperature for 15 to 30 minutes before cutting into wedges. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

Tuna Patchwork Salad

A Tasty Summer Sampler

Tuna Patchwork Salad

To have a salad, you must have ingredients which have been grown in the good earth. Tuna Patchwork Salad adds an ingredient picked from the blue ocean. The seafood salad is one of the best-liked of salads, particularly in the summertime when its subtle fresh flavors make a welcome change from heavier meals.

Tuna Patchwork Salad is as pretty as a garden and a good deal easier to put together. "Rows" of fresh raw vegetables, attractively cut for eye appeal, are arranged on either side of a wide row of tuna. Tuna's mild delicate flavor blends here beautifully with a delightfully summery green dressing that you will want to add to your favorite recipe file.

Tuna's high in protein, comparable to that found in lean meat, as well as other essential nutrients. Because it's ready to serve, it's a boon for warm weather meals when you want a tasty and nutritious meal without cooking.

TUNA PATCHWORK SALAD
3 cans (6½ or 7 ounces each) tuna in vegetable oil, chilled Carrot curls
Cherry tomatoes or tomato wedges
Cucumber slices
Radishes
Parsley
Arrange tuna in center of platter.
Place vegetables in rows on platter.
Serve with Green Dressing.

GREEN DRESSING
¼ cup sour cream
½ cup mayonnaise
2 tablespoons lemon juice
2 tablespoons chopped
chives or scallions
2 tablespoons chopped parsley
¼ teaspoon each celery seed, oregano and Worcestershire sauce

Combine all ingredients. Serve with Garden Patchwork Salad. Yield: 1 cup dressing.

'Bake' In Refrigerator

Be a cool cook this summer — let your refrigerator do the baking. Of course, it doesn't really, but the consistency of this dessert changes during its stay in the refrigerator and does in a way seem to "bake."

The mixture becomes very firm and we'll bet no one would guess that the dough surrounding the dates, walnuts and miniature marshmallows is really very fine graham cracker crumbs. They lose their identity but the good flavor remains.

What helps hold all these good things together? Unwhipped heavy cream. That's right, heavy cream just as it comes from the carton. If you whip the heavy cream the recipe won't work.

DATE MARSHMALLOW LOGS

3 cups very fine graham cracker crumbs
4 cups miniature marshmallows
1 package (8-ounce) pitted dates, chopped
3 cups chopped walnuts
1½ cups heavy cream, unwhipped
In a large bowl, combine 2½ cups graham cracker crumbs, marshmallows, dates and walnuts; mix well. Add unwhipped heavy cream; mix thoroughly.
Divide mixture in half. Shape each half into a roll 10 inches long. Coat both rolls with remaining ½ cup graham cracker crumbs. Wrap rolls in wax paper; chill in refrigerator several hours. Cut into 1-inch slices. Top each slice with a dollop of whipped cream and a maraschino cherry, if desired. Yield: 20 slices.

Mostly For Men

Imagine you're sitting in a jumbo 747 jet enroute to Hawaii or sitting in the plush surroundings of Mario's Villa D'Este in New York City. You're being served Shrimp Molokai Salad, a delicious main course of seafood and fruit.

It's not going to happen? Well, vicarious experience is better than no experience, so try the dish at home. Here's how:

To serve 4, wash and crisp salad greens (endive and romaine make a nice combination) and tear with the hands enough to fill a 6-cup bowl. Have ready 1 pound of cooked, shelled and deveined shrimp, 2 oranges peeled and sectioned, 1 grapefruit peeled and sectioned, and 1 cup fresh or canned pineapple chunks.

Atop the torn greens in salad bowl arrange the shrimp, oranges, grapefruit and pineapple. Just before serving, toss well with remoulade sauce and serve.

The remoulade, which should be made several hours in advance to allow flavors to blend, can be made in a variety of ways, but this southern recipe goes well with seafood and fruit.

COMBINE 4 tablespoons fresh lemon juice, 4 tablespoons tarragon vinegar, 2 tablespoons mild yellow mustard, and 4 tablespoons prepared horseradish.

Add 2 teaspoons salt, ½ teaspoon freshly ground black pepper, 2 teaspoons paprika, a dash or two of red hot sauce, 2 tablespoons chili sauce and 2 tablespoons sugar.

Add ¼ cup little green onions chopped very fine and ½ cup celery, also chopped very fine. Gradually add ½ cup mayonnaise and ½ cup salad oil, stirring with fork or rotary beater to blend well.

Cover and allow to season in a cool place, but don't refrigerate until seasonings blend. This recipe makes 2 cups, so you'll have some left which can be put into a jar or container and tightly sealed. It will keep well under refrigeration.

Do you have a favorite shrimp or salad recipe, or a question about food?

Scattered Work Stoppages Reported

Shutdown Of Construction Near? Talks Continuing

by LEA TONKIN

As contractors and construction workers continue their counterattacks in the current round of contract negotiations, the possibility of a massive Chicago area construction shutdown moves closer to reality.

A limited number of slowdowns and work stoppages by carpenters and cement masons were reported as of late Wednesday in the Northwest suburbs.

However, carpenters announced Wednesday that additional picketing sites may be announced today in the Chicago area. And the Mid-America Regional Bargaining Association (MARBA), announced it may enforce an area wide lockout in retaliation against selective strikes and picketing by the cement masons and carpenters.

Approximately 2,000 of the Carpenters Chicago District Council's 30,000 members were on strike Wednesday, reported George Vest, president. Among the suburban sites selected for strikes was the parking facility at O'Hare International Airport.

Cement Masons Local 502 (Cook County) reported Wednesday that selective picketing continued as negotiations with contractors are in a deadlock. A meeting is slated for this morning to determine additional picketing sites, said a union spokesman.

APPROXIMATELY 800 contractors at a unity rally held Tuesday night in Chicago voted to continue their contract offers to the 2,200 member Cement Masons Local 502 (Cook County) and the Chicago District Council of Carpenters.

At that meeting, the contractor group, a conglomerate of 14 area employer organizations, warned that the selective strikes could bring a lockout of all the members in these trades throughout the Chicago metropolitan area.

A meeting will be held this afternoon by MARBA executives to decide what action to take in response to the ongoing strikes and picketing. Should a lockout occur, nearly 100,000 construction workers would be idled. Approximately $2 1/2 billion in highways, residential, commercial and industrial construction, and other building projects would be halted.

In the meantime, some confusion was reported at Northwest suburban construction sites.

"TO SAY THE least, the situation is almost chaotic," said project foreman Jerry Harker at a Levitt and Sons, Inc., residential construction site in Schaumburg. "We have three subdivisions here, at two of which we have a full force of carpenters working. The other one started with a picket line up this morning."

The picket line disappeared later in the day, but so did some of the men, reported Harker. "We're going with whatever men we've got," Harker said. He noted that the other trades honored the carpenter picket lines at the Sheffield Park project.

At the Huntington Apartments in Mount Prospect, carpenters were on the job yesterday, but said they'll picket if the word comes down from the Chicago District Council.

Construction continued in the residential projects by Centex Winston in Elk Grove Village.

Carpenters stayed on the job site, but cement masons were on strike at the Palatine Junior High construction site as of late Wednesday.

Rolling Meadows sidewalk projects continued on schedule yesterday. However, city superintendent of public works James McPeggan reported a curb replacement program could be halted by cement mason strikes.

SHERMAN DAUTEL, business manager for three Northwest Suburban Carpenters Union locals, said Wednesday that the parking garage project at O'Hare is the major area picketing site. He works for Local 839 in Des Plaines, 1196 in Arlington Heights and 2014 in Barrington.

The major grievance is "working conditions rather than money," said Dautel. Claiming that working conditions "date back to 1912 . . . they want us to work from 1 a.m. to 6 p.m.," Dautel said the carpenters will strike additional construction sites unless grievances are settled.

A lunch break is the cause of Cement Masons and MARBA disagreements. The two groups did agree on a 53-cent-an-hour boost in wages and benefits. "This would raise the workers' pay from the present $9.71 an hour to $10.24 an hour. The union has refused to accept a contractor request for flexible lunch hours.

Housing Panel Fails To Meet; Lacks Quorum

The Elk Grove Village Housing Commission failed to meet this week because of a lack of members remaining on the nine-member commission.

Cathy Duoba, temporary chairman, said yesterday she is sending a letter to Village Pres. Charles Zettek asking him to appoint additional members to carry on the work of the commission. She added she was making one appointment recommendation which she did not disclose.

Currently the commission is operating with three members which is less than the quorum needed to take action. Commissioners are Mrs. Duoba, James Morita and Joseph Wellman.

Seven members had been serving on the housing commission until May when former commission chairman Neil Cooney and commissioners Ed Kenna, the Rev. Maynard Beal and Donald Oehl resigned.

The commission was set up in the fall of 1970 to study housing problems in the village, including the need for low-income dwellings.

IN A LETTER sent to the housing commission two months ago, the village board criticized the recommendations of the group and said it (the board) was not sympathetic to low-income housing unless it was considered on an area-wide basis.

In the letter the board urged the commission to continue its study of the housing problem by contacting similar groups in the Northwest suburban area to prepare a joint recommendation defining housing problems and suggesting remedies.

Zettek said later that the board's stand against low-income housing was one which the board felt would be beneficial to the community. He said it would be an injustice to the people to put up the 1,000 low-income housing units which the commission claimed were needed.

Mrs. Duoba said this week that the task of contacting other housing committees in the area is enormous and too much work for three commissioners.

If the Housing Commission is to help set up an area-wide task force in the Northwest suburbs to plan for the housing needs of the area, it will need additional interested members, she said.

Openings Remain For Dance Class

Registration for the Elk Grove Park District summer dance classes is still open, and dance instructor Carol Smitherman said there is room for students in all age groups.

Miss Smitherman, who taught park district dance classes this past year, said so far some 100 children from preschool to junior high school age have signed up for ballet, tap, modern dance and modern jazz instruction. She added that the park district program was designed to accommodate some 300 students.

Dance classes start next week with ballet at 9 a.m., tap dance at 10 a.m. and modern dance at 11 a.m. at Grant Wood School on Elk Grove Blvd. Preschool age classes meet Monday with junior high youngsters on Tuesday, first through third grades on Wednesday, junior high age again on Thursday and fourth and fifth graders on Friday.

The fee for the class is $3, and registration is being taken at the park district offices, 499 Biesterfeld Rd.

Miss Smitherman has studied dancing for 14 years, including most recently with Zaki Labovsky as well as with Jack Saxon in New York. She graduated from Elk Grove High School this month and plans to attend Louisiana Tech University in Ruston next fall where she will be a fine arts major.

Lefkowitz Opens Elk Grove Branch Office

'Closed-Circuit King' Here

by JOHN MAES

The day is only about two years away when the American public will be able to enjoy closed-circuit television in their homes.

At least that's the contention of Harry Lefkowitz, founder and president of the GBC Closed Circuit Television Corp. His firm recently opened a branch office in Elk Grove Village.

"We're developing a cassette television unit right now where a cassette put into a video recording unit produces a television picture," said the outspoken Lefkowitz, who built a small New York radio repair shop business into a multi-million-dollar corporation.

Lefkowitz admitted, "It will take a decline in market prices though, before the unit can be reasonably priced for the average consumer. Right now the complete unit would cost more than $1,000 but in a few years it may be able to be purchased for about $400," he said.

GBC, WHICH BOASTS the largest supply of closed circuit television equipment in the area, distributes, sells, leases and rents and installs closed-circuit television cameras, monitors and other equipment. The firm also provides repair facilities for its products.

Between 60 and 70 per cent of GBC's products are used for security purposes and for educational television. In New York City, the home of GBC, their cameras have been installed in the New York Daily News Building, and the Lincoln Center, to detect muggings and robberies. According to Lefkowitz crimes have decreased in areas where his company's equipment has been installed.

Lefkowitz says he got the idea for the company, whose sales exceeded $3,400,000 last year, in his New York radio shop in the late 1950s.

"A guy brought in a small closed-circuit camera which they did have in those days, but only a few people had ever seen. The camera needed only about a 45-cent repair, but I was astonished at what it could do."

LEFKOWITZ WAS impressed enough with the closed-circuit television concept that he decided to get into the field. His company was formed in 1958 under the name of GBC America Corp.

"The name GBC doesn't stand for anything specific," he said. "It comes from an old Italian phrase that had a nice ring to it."

Their main business in those days was distributing various types of video recording devices bought from Sony and Panasonic Corporations in Japan. Nearly 75 per cent of all GBC equipment is still made there today.

The early 1960s saw an ever increasing demand for closed circuit equipment as GBC shifted its emphasis to meet the demands of the large market. The entire industry boomed and the firm's sales skyrocketed.

Later, branch offices were opened in such cities as Detroit, Boston, Indianapolis and just recently in Chicago and St. Louis.

"THIS MADE IT easier to coordinate wider area sales and provide local repair facilities," he said.

"I'm also happy that we were able to bring our brand of security and educational television to the Chicago area."

Lefkowitz claims his corporation has become like a household word in the closed-circuit television industry. Which isn't bad for an old Italian phrase.

Membership Decline Plagues American Legion

by DOUG RAY

Something has happened to the American Legion in Cook County which has been thinning its ranks over the past two decades.

The decline in membership began after the Korean War. Veterans of that conflict trudged home, secured jobs, got married but unlike their predecessors most didn't join the legion. In the last 18 years, the legion roll call in Cook County has dwindled from 90,000 to 54,000, leaving some of the organization's officials a little concerned.

And the Vietnam era veteran, in whose hands the future of the organization seems to rest, thus far has been reluctant to enlist in the military-fraternal group like his father had done.

James Kissner, a drill sergeant during the second World War and now the division commander for Cook County's 324 Legion posts, attributes much of the decline to the "changing complexion of the county itself."

Veterans are leaving the city for the suburbs, he said, "and those who belonged in Chicago haven't re-upped" (re-enlisted) at suburban chapters.

Kissner himself "didn't know anything about the Palatine post until eight years after he was discharged from the service."

"I guess I drove by there (the Palatine Legion Hall) for a long time before I knew it existed," he said.

BUT KISSNER also acknowledged the "type of war" (Vietnam) may have something to do with the decline in the once burgeoning American Legion ranks.

"When we came home, we didn't worry whether it was a moral war or not. Everyone was close then... today most of the veterans don't care much for the war and the attitude is different."

John Helmer, a 25-year-old sergeant at arms of the Arlington Heights Merle Guild Post 208, voices optimism about the Vietnam veterans pulling the Cook County posts back to full membership.

"It is going to be a slow process and we have to let people know that it's run differently," Helmer said. "With new blood comes new ideas."

Helmer is one of only four Vietnam era veterans who have decided to "re-up" at the Arlington Heights post out of a total membership of 1970. The bulk of the chapter consists of portly veterans whose most recent tour of duty was during World War II.

Don Bondi, post commander, said the recently discharged veteran "has too many other things to do besides worrying about joining. Getting established is more important for the younger man."

IN AN ATTEMPT to lure additional legionnaires and hold its present total, the Arlington Heights post has begun several community programs "to let people know what we're doing," said Bondi. The Merle Guild 208 is involved in a boys' baseball team and will start a hockey club soon.

Other activities include the boy's state program held yearly in Springfield for outstanding high school students, and a drum and bugle corps and Coronets girls drill team.

As Cook County's rolls are dwindling, downstate legion halls are prospering," said Kissner. "When they return to the smaller communities, they become a part of the town... Look at Springfield and Kankakee, they are doing well."

Cook County is one of the five American Legion divisions in Illinois. In the entire county only seven to eight per cent of eligible veterans belong, Kissner added.

He said there have been attempts to "open the membership" to all veterans, but the decision to do that rests with Congress which establishes dates for servicemen who are eligible. The American Legion was opened for membership Aug. 5, 1964 and all servicemen with an honorable discharge serving from that date until the end of the Vietnam War are eligible. "We have a Congressional charter and they will decide," Kissner said.

NORTHWEST SUBURBAN American Legion posts have few recruitment drives and obtain new members "by word of mouth," according to Kissner.

"We use personal contact to get people," he said.

The newest area American Legion chapter is in Wheeling and has a membership of 56. An employee at the legion hall called it "an all time high." But only four of that number are Vietnam veterans.

Wheeling Post 1968, named in honor of a Wheeling man, Richard Blanchfield, who was killed in Vietnam, has been plagued by transfers. About 10 persons were transferred through their work last year and are no longer members.

Commander of Des Plaines Post 35, Ralph Geils, said only 15 or 20 of the 428 members in that chapter are Vietnam Veterans and added that present membership drives are being held to "get our old members back. We're working on renewals and we don't have the manpower to really recruit," he said.

The American Legion office for veteran affairs and rehabilitation in Chicago helps returning veterans secure jobs among its other veteran services, but there is "no follow up to recruit men into the legion," according to an employee there.

"There's no coercion at all. If they want to join, then they join... we don't push them," she said.

HEAVY RAINS early this week turned a baseball diamond at Lions Park in Elk Grove Village into a small lake. Two youths took advantage of the flood by trying out their raft yesterday afternoon.

School Group's Suit Is Awaiting Court Ruling

A class action suit challenging alleged underassessments at Cook County racetracks is pending a ruling on a similar but broader suit filed in U. S. Federal Court.

Ten Chicago area school districts affected by alleged racetrack underassessments have joined the Joint Service Program, a subgroup of the Illinois Association of School Boards, (IASB), to file a class action suit against Cook County Assessor P. J. Cullerton.

Ron Booth, director of IASB, said the Joint Service Program was ready to file the suit but was awaiting the outcome of a similar suit filed in Federal Court on behalf of Donald Page Moore, an unsuccessful candidate for the democratic nomination for Cook County States Attorney.

The Moore suit also alleges misassessments of properties but does not stop at the racetracks. The Moore suit asks the court to appoint an assessor to correct misassessments throughout Cook County.

Thomas Meites, one of Moore's attorneys, said a hearing in the case is scheduled for the first week in September.

"WHEN THE hearing takes place we will file our own suit or intervene on behalf of the districts," said Booth. "If the suit (Moore's) is successful and an immediate reassessment of property is called for, we will have avoided the cost of a separate suit and be able to return fees to the districts involved."

The class action suit was prompted when the Citizens Action Program (CAP) released figures they had compiled on alleged underassessments at the racetracks last fall.

Four local school districts encompassing Arlington Park Race Track have allocated funds to join the suit. They are Palatine-Rolling Meadows Dist. 15, High School Dist. 211 and 214 and Harper College Dist. 512.

'Youth Of Year' Awards Slated

The Elk Grove Village Elks Lodge will make its first "youth of the year" awards to a boy and girl attending Elk Grove High School at a dinner Friday night at the Elks Lodge, 115 Gordon St.

A boy and girl were chosen by the Elks for the past five months as youths of the month, and the youths of the year will be selected from the monthly winners. The boy and girl youths of the year will each receive a plaque and a $25 savings bond at the dinner.

The youths of the month are Daniel Deaf, Carla Sall, Michael Smith, Carol Tvedy and Larry Friedrichs.

The community is invited to the dinner, and anyone wanting to purchase tickets at $5 a couple may contact Ron Kohler at 437-2178.

Trustee Charges Cop Suspension 'Fix' Was Sought

A Wheeling trustee charged Monday the head of a police union tried to "fix" a suspension of a village policeman.

The trustee was responding to a "letter to the editor" which appeared in the Herald's Fence Post column, Monday.

John Flood, president of the Combined Counties Police Association, wrote the letter which criticized the suspension of Sgt. Gene Wolf.

Trustee Michael Valenza said Flood had set up a meeting with former Wheeling Township Democratic committeeman James Stavros.

"Flood wanted Mr. Stavros to come to the village manager and demand that the manager lift the suspension of Sgt. Wolf. I heard it, I was there. I will testify in any court in the country that in my presence Mr. Flood asked that Mr. Stavros lift that suspension through the manager," Valenza said.

THE TRUSTEE read Flood's letter aloud at the village board meeting.

"Two weeks ago Mr. Flood called Mr. Stavros asking for help and asking that he meet with him. Mr. Stavros is not even a resident of the village," Valenza said.

The meeting was at the Two Doves Restaurant, Valenza said. "I went. We were there for five hours."

Stavros had called him and trustee John Koeppen about Flood's request for a meeting, Valenza said.

THE TRUSTEE SAID he did not want to discuss Wolf's suspension because it is pending before the fire and police commission.

"It's not Flood's prerogative to say whether it is legal or illegal. It's up to the police and fire commission and their attorney," Valenza said.

About Flood's alleged request from Stavros, Valenza said, "If he's claiming bossism, what earthly reason would he have to come to Mr. Stavros to demand Mr. Stavros ask the manager to lift the suspension?" Valenza said.

Valenza said Stavros refused to go to the manager.

"MR. STAVROS stated that he had nothing to do with village hall and said 'why are you coming to me? I'm not even a resident,'" Valenza said.

"I wish he (Stavros) were here to defend himself tonight," Valenza said.

The trustee charged Flood had said that if the suspension were lifted "the CCPA and the village could come to some nice friendly terms."

"As far as we are concerned we are on friendly terms," Valenza responded.

"I DON'T see how he (Flood) could even dream that Mr. Stavros could help him with a suspension," Valenza said.

Other village board members also commented on the letter. Trustee Edward Berger said Valenza's comments indicated Flood "was looking for a 'fix' in other words."

Trustee Ronald Bruhn said it was he and Trustee Albert Lang who originated the post of director of public safety and it was their idea to appoint Roger Stricker to the post.

"Mr. Stavros didn't have anything to do with the title or with Mr. Stricker," Bruhn said.

Flood had charged in his letter that Stricker's post was "unnecessary and Stavros—oriented."

The Herald was unable to contact Stavros for his comments on the statements made by Valenza and Flood.

PUCKER UP. Lyman Gould warms up for his big moment Friday night. Gould and about 60 other Northwest suburban residents are members of the Palatine Village

Band, which opens its summer concert series this week. The performances will be at 8 p.m. each Friday at the Palatine Hills recreation area in Palatine.

Crossroads Tonight For School Talks

The Dist. 21 school board tonight will reject or accept a call for impasse procedures in its talks with the Wheeling Faculty Council (WFC). The board will make the decision at its regularly scheduled meeting at 8:15 p.m.

The board will also have its public hearing on the proposed 1972-73 budget at tonight's meeting.

In the impasse procedure, the board has been given until tomorrow to respond to the WFC call for mediation in the contract talks. If the board fails to comply with the WFC's wishes it may be taken to court.

Should the board accept the impasse demand, the chairman of its bargaining team, John Barger, and WFC chairman Margo Richter will begin working to get a mediator for the talks.

The two chairmen will write a joint letter to the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service requesting its services. If the service is not available, they will seek help from the American Arbitration Association or another agreeable mediation service.

DIST. 21 Supt. Ken Gill said he and members of the board negotiating team will recommend that the school board accept the impasse. "We feel it would cost too much money to take this matter to court," said Gill. "Our labor lawyers feel we should go to mediation."

Gill reemphasized that the board team will try to keep its firm stand of not moving unless the WFC makes moves. "If anything, mediation will probably help us, since it will force the WFC into giving something," he said.

The board will not make its decision on the impasse until the budget is finished. The budget hearing is scheduled to begin shortly after the meeting opens.

The $11 million budget was tentatively approved at an earlier board meeting. It is a balanced budget with some funds expected to be on hand at the end of the 1972-73 year.

IT IS NOT known how much money will be left over since the exact amount will not be determined until teacher salaries for the new year are settled.

The largest budget in the history of Dist. 21, it is expected to pass without opposition.

The board is also planning to discuss principals' salaries and the superintendent's contract in executive session.

Wickes Furniture Opens Store Here

Wickes Corp. opened the doors to its large warehouse showroom in Wheeling during special ceremonies yesterday morning.

The building at 351 W. Dundee Rd. is one of the largest retail outlets in Wheeling, and will also include headquarters for the corp's furniture division. The headquarters is presently in Northbrook.

The 148-foot tall light tower in the parking lot marks the third Wickes outlet in the Chicago suburbs. The other two are at Itasca and Harvey.

Featured at the grand opening were several sports celebrities and Miss Illinois.

Statements By Trustee Are Hit By Flood

John Flood, president of the Combined Counties Police Association, Tuesday disputed statements made by a Wheeling trustee during a village board meeting Monday.

Flood said that while he met with former Wheeling Township Democratic committeeman James Stavros, he did so to ask Stavros to stop political interference in the village police department.

Village Trustee Michael Valenza Monday charged Flood had asked Stavros to get the Wheeling village manager to lift a suspension levied against Wheeling Police Sgt. Gene Wolf.

Flood said he didn't ask Stavros to go to the manager. "I did say that Wolf's suspension was a political thing, that it was illegal—and I asked Stavros to stop such political interference with the police department."

"I had met with Stavros. I did so because he is the seat of power in anything happening in Wheeling, and because of the possible appointment of Peter Guttila as acting police chief. I met with him to stop political influence within the Wheeling Police Department," Flood said.

THE CCPA HEAD has been openly critical of Guttila, an appointed captain who is filling in as police chief while Chief M. O. Horcher is ill.

Flood said Stavros told him, "If we played ball with him we could get anything we wanted from the village. We could have the highest-paid police department in the state. We could have official recognition for our police association."

"His price was that we not comment on anything the village officials do."

"We as a police association refuse to pay that price," Flood said.

The CCPA president said Valenza, who made many of the charges about Flood's meeting with Stavros, "is a Stavros puppet on the board and is used to do any of the dirty work to try to disparage or discourage our association."

School's Out—Park Programs Start

School's out and a variety of Wheeling Park District summer programs are getting under way.

There are still openings for registration in programs which begin next week.

An arts and crafts program with separate classes by sex and age group is being offered for the first time this year.

There will be classes for boys 6-8 and 9-12 years old and for girls in the same age categories.

Each class will undertake projects of special interest to its age groups. For example, the younger boys will work with tools and the older girls will learn macramé, Park Recreation Director David Phillips said.

There is a $4 fee for participating in the program, which runs from June 26 through Aug. 4.

Classes are at Heritage Park, Whitman School, Sandberg School, Field

School and Twain School.

The 6 to 8-year-old boys' classes will be from 9 to 10 a.m. Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays.

The 6 to 8-year-old girls will meet from 10 to 11 a.m. Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays.

Boys 9-12 will meet Tuesdays and Thursdays from 9 to 10:30 a.m. The 9 to 12-year-old girls will meet Tuesdays and Thursdays from 10:30 to noon.

GIRLS AND boys may also sign up for sewing classes the district is offering. Adult sewing classes also have openings.

Sewing is taught in two sessions at Heritage Park. The first session begins Monday and ends July 14. The second session begins July 17 and ends Aug. 4.

The lessons for 9 to 12-year-old beginners will be Monday, Wednesday and Friday from 1 to 2 p.m. and from 2 to 3 p.m.

Dog Show 'Fun Match' Set

Wheeling is going to the dogs.

To the dogs of the all-breed "fun match" dog show sponsored by the Deerpath Kennel Club, that is. The show will be from 8:30 a.m. to 6 p.m. Sunday in the Wheeling High School Fieldhouse.

Time slots have been opened for the showing of more than 140 breeds of dogs throughout the day.

If dogs are registered between today and the meet, owners will be charged $2.50. For those wishing to pay their entry fee at the gate, the fee will be $3.50.

MRS. MARILYN RICHARDS, publicity chairman for the show said more than 300 dogs already have preregistered for the show. Officials expect more than 500 dogs to be entered before Sunday's deadline.

Mrs. Richards said many rare breeds as well as the common breeds will take part in the fun match. She said anyone who has ever wanted to show a dog should bring it to the fun match.

"A fun match is the place to give it a try," she said. "Amateurs as well as professionals can learn a lot from this type of match."

People from several states are expected to travel to Wheeling for the dog show, which is the first to be sponsored here by the Deerpath club.

Adults will be charged $1 and children 50 cents for admission. The event is open to the public.

SHE SAID THERE will be parking, large areas to groom and view the dogs and plenty of food for those who wish to spend the day.

For more information about show times for certain breeds or about the show in general, residents are asked to phone 831-3550 or 432-9314.

The "Best in Show" event is expected to begin about 5 p.m.

Other activities include the boy's state program held yearly in Springfield for outstanding high school students, and a drum and bugle corps and Coronets girls drill team.

As Cook County's rolls are dwindling, downstate legion halls are prospering," said Kissner. "When they return to the smaller communities, they become a part of the town . . . Look at Springfield and Kankakee, they are doing well."

Cook County is one of the five American Legion divisions in Illinois. In the entire county only seven to eight per cent of eligible veterans belong, Kissner added.

He said there have been attempts to "open the membership" to all veterans, but the decision to do that rests with Congress which establishes dates for servicemen who are eligible. The American Legion was opened for membership Aug.

5, 1964 and all servicemen with an honorable discharge serving from that date until the end of the Vietnam War are eligible. "We have a Congressional charter and they will decide," Kissner said.

NORTHWEST SUBURBAN American Legion posts have few recruitment drives and obtain new members "by word of mouth," according to Kissner.

"We use personal contact to get people," he said.

The newest area American Legion chapter is in Wheeling and has a membership of 56. An employee at the legion hall called it "an all time high." But only four of that number are Vietnam veterans.

Wheeling Post 1968, named in honor of a Wheeling man, Richard Blanchfield, who was killed in Vietnam, has been plagued by transfers. About 10 persons were transferred through their work last year and are no longer members.

Commander of Des Plaines Post 36, Ralph Geils, said only 15 or 20 of the 428 members in that chapter are Vietnam Veterans and added that present membership drives are being held to "get our old members back. We're working on renewals and we don't have the manpower to really recruit," he said.

The American Legion office for veteran affairs and rehabilitation in Chicago helps returning veterans secure jobs among its other veteran services, but there is "no follow up to recruit men into the legion," according to an employee there.

"There's no coercion at all. If they want to join, then they join . . . we don't push them," she said.

Senate OKs Condo Law Amendment

A truth in selling amendment to the Condominium Property Act passed the state senate yesterday.

Earlier approved by the Illinois House, it was introduced in the Senate by Sen. John Graham, R-Barrington, and was reported out of committee early this month.

The bill basically requires sellers of condominiums to provide potential buyers with a written disclosure of full details on the declaration of sale, articles of incorporation of the homeowner's association, bylaws of that association, deed to underlying ground and management contract.

A PROJECTED operating budget for the unit, a floor plan of the unit and a commitment for a specific location for the unit are also required by the bill.

Richard Regan, chairman of the Hoffman Estates plan commission wrote the original guidelines along which the bill was written.

Regan wanted the bill to protect young couples or persons previously living only in single-family homes from the misunderstandings and pitfalls of which they might not be aware.

The bill requires all information concerning expenses, responsibilities and privileges connected with condominium ownership be clarified in writing before the sale.

The Wheeling Rotary Club is sponsoring the two performances at 4 and 8 p.m. in a "big top" in Heritage Park.

The King Brothers Circus features wild and domestic animals, performing elephants, acrobats, tumblers, jugglers, wire walkers, aerialists and clowns.

Proceeds from the circus will be used by the club for community projects.

Tickets are available at the Heritage Park offices, at Don Russ State Farm Insurance and at Mark Drugs in Wheeling and Buffalo Grove.

Tickets are also available by phoning 537-5050 or 537-3480.

Areawide Construction Shutdown In Offing?

by LEA TONKIN

As contractors and construction workers continue their counterattacks in the current round of contract negotiations, the possibility of a massive Chicago area construction shutdown moves closer to reality.

A limited number of slowdowns and work stoppages by carpenters and cement masons were reported as of late Wednesday in the Northwest suburbs.

However, carpenters announced Wednesday that additional picketing sites may be announced today in the Chicago area. And the Mid-America Regional Bargaining Association (MARBA), announced it may enforce an area wide lockout in retaliation against selective strikes and picketing by the cement masons and carpenters.

Approximately 2,000 of the Carpenters Chicago District Council's 30,000 members were on strike Wednesday, reported

George Vest, president. Among the suburban sites selected for strikes was the parking facility at O'Hare International Airport.

Cement Masons Local 502 (Cook County) reported Wednesday that selective picketing continued as negotiations with contractors are in a deadlock. A meeting is slated for this morning to determine additional picketing sites, said a union spokesman.

APPROXIMATELY 800 contractors at a unity rally held Tuesday night in Chicago voted to continue their contract offers to the 2,200 member Cement Masons Local 502 (Cook County) and the Chicago District Council of Carpenters.

At that meeting, the contractor group, a conglomerate of 14 area employer organizations, warned that the selective strikes could bring a lockout of all the members in these trades throughout the Chicago metropolitan area.

A meeting will be held this afternoon by MARBA executives to decide what action to take in response to the ongoing strikes and picketing. Should a lockout occur, nearly 100,000 construction workers would be idled. Approximately $2 1/2 billion in highways, residential, commercial and industrial construction, and other building projects would be halted.

In the meantime, some confusion was reported at Northwest suburban construction sites.

"TO SAY THE least, the situation is almost chaotic," said project foreman Jerry Harker at a Levitt and Sons, Inc., residential construction site in Schaumburg. "We have three subdivisions here, at two of which we have a full force of carpenters working. The other one started with a picket line up this morning."

The picket line disappeared later in the day, but so did some of the men, reported Harker. "We're going with whatever men we've got," Harker said. He noted that the other trades honored the carpenter picket lines at the Sheffield Park project.

At the Huntington Apartments in Mount Prospect, carpenters were on the job yesterday, but said they'll picket if the word comes down from the Chicago District Council.

Construction continued in the residential projects by Centex Winston in Elk Grove Village.

Carpenters stayed on the job site, but cement masons were on strike at the Palatine Junior High construction site as of late Wednesday.

Rolling Meadows sidewalk projects continued on schedule yesterday. However, city superintendent of public works James McPeggan reported a curb replacement program could be halted by cement mason strikes.

SHERMAN DAUTEL, business manager for three Northwest Suburban Carpenters Union locals, said Wednesday that the parking garage project at O'Hare is the major area picketing site. He works for Local 839 in Des Plaines, 1196 in Arlington Heights and 1014 in Barrington.

The major grievance is "working conditions rather than money," said Dautel. Claiming that working conditions "date back to 1912 . . . they want us to work from 1 a.m. to 6 p.m.," Dautel said the carpenters will strike additional construction sites unless grievances are settled.

'Closed Circuit TV King' Opens Area Branch Office

by JOHN MAES

The day is only about two years away when the American public will be able to enjoy closed-circuit television in their homes.

At least that's the contention of Harry Lefkowitz, founder and president of the GBC Closed Circuit Television Corp. His firm recently opened a branch office in Elk Grove Village.

"We're developing a cassette television unit right now where a cassette put into a video recording unit produces a television picture," said the outspoken Lefkowitz, who built a small New York radio repair shop business into a multi-million-dollar corporation.

Lefkowitz admitted, "It will take a decline in market prices though, before the unit can be reasonably priced for the average consumer. Right now the complete unit would cost more than $1,000 but in a few years, it may be able to be purchased for about $400," he said.

GBC, WHICH BOASTS the largest supply of closed circuit television equipment in the area, distributes, sells, leases and rents and installs closed circuit television cameras, monitors and other equipment. The firm also provides repair facilities for its products.

Between 60 and 70 per cent of GBC's products are used for security purposes and for educational television. In New York City, the home of GBC, the cameras have been installed in the New York Daily News Building, and the Lincoln Center, to detect muggings and robberies. According to Lefkowitz, crimes have decreased in areas where his company's equipment has been installed.

Lefkowitz says he got the idea for the company, whose sales exceeded

$2,000,000 last year, in his New York radio shop in the late 1950s.

"A guy brought in a small closed-circuit camera which they did have in those days, but only a few people had ever seen. The camera needed only about a 15 cent repair, but I was astonished at what it could do."

LEFKOWITZ WAS impressed enough with the closed-circuit television concept that he decided to get into the field. His company was formed in 1958 under the name of GBC America Corp.

"The name GBC doesn't stand for anything specific," he said. "It comes from an old Italian phrase that had a nice ring to it."

Their main business in those days was distributing various types of video recording devices bought from Sony and Panasonic Corporations in Japan. Nearly 75 per cent of all GBC equipment is still made there today.

The early 1960s saw an ever increasing demand for closed circuit equipment as GBC shifted its emphasis to meet the demands of the large market. The entire industry boomed and the firm's sales skyrocketed.

Later, branch offices were opened in such cities as Detroit, Boston, Indianapolis and just recently in Chicago and St. Louis.

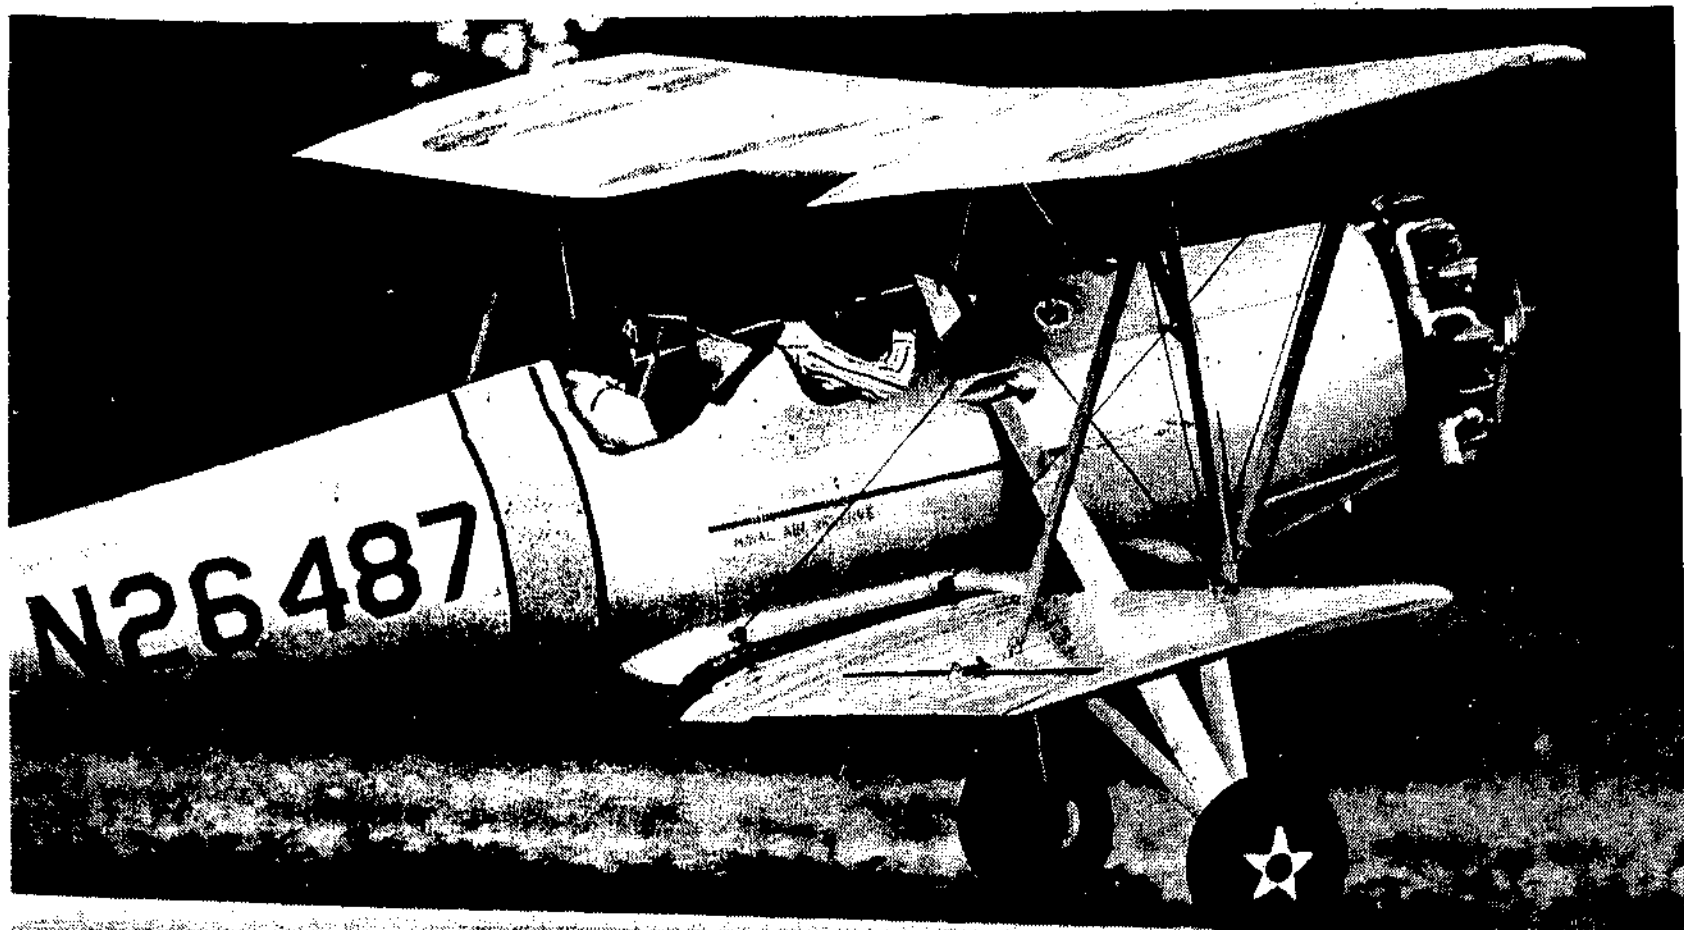

THIS MADE IT easier to coordinate wider area sales and provide local repair facilities," he said.

"I'm also happy that we were able to bring our brand of security and educational television to the Chicago area."

Lefkowitz claims his corporation has become like a household word in the closed-circuit television industry. Which isn't bad for an old Italian phrase.

GBC CLOSED CIRCUIT Television corp. founder and president Harry Lefkowitz, right, demonstrates use of GBC closed-circuit camera. The company recently opened a Chicago branch office in Elk Grove Village that will contain sales offices and repair facilities.

Antique aircraft gave fast breezy view of suburbs, bi-plane style.

The 'Red Baron' Zooms Into Area

by PAT GERLACH

Go by plane! Or is it bi-plane? Open cockpit biplane is the mode of travel suggested by Charles (Chuck) Downey, of Butler Aviation.

Equipped with helmet and goggles and bearing a trace of resemblance to the Red Baron of World War I, Downey zoomed into Schaumburg last week to introduce a dozen or so local residents to his idea of going up and away.

Many local dignitaries were invited to take short individual hops with Downey. The event was sponsored by the First Savings and Loan Association of Schaumburg, 400 W. Higgins Rd. But, the guest list suffered a high attrition rate when it became obvious that the aviator was quite serious about using the antique two-seat craft he had securely tied down at Schaumburg airport.

Schaumburg passengers appeared enthusiastic, on the whole, about riding in the craft but women travelers experienced some difficulty on embarkation.

The plane is entered by climbing up either wing and hoisting into the front cockpit; the pilot sits to the rear of his passenger.

COMMUNICATIONS between the pilot in the back seat and the passenger up front are achieved by a tap of shoulder by Downey when he wants to point out something below. He passenger to pilot contact is achieved, most easily, by nudging one of Downey's feet placed at either side of the front seat.

Downey carries a separate plug-in radio system which assists him in flying in or out of larger airfields such as O'Hare or Meigs Field.

How does it feel to fly at 1,000 feet over Schaumburg in an open cockpit? "I have never felt anything more exciting and peaceful at the same time and it sure is a lot more beautiful from above than I ever expected," said a passenger who had never flown in other than a commercial plane before.

With few exceptions, passengers appeared anxious for another opportunity to ride in Downey's "rare bird."

Registered with the Antique Airplane Association, N26487, a Meyers model GTW-145 (serial number 40), was built in 1941. Consisting of aluminum, steel, wood and fabric, the craft has a 30-foot wingspan and was patterned after planes designed and constructed for sport flying in the 1930s.

IT HAS A gross weight of 1,850 pounds and horsepower (Warner) of 145 at 2,050 revolutions per minute; maximum speed is 120 m.p.h. but the craft cruises smoothly at 95 m.p.h.

The plane has been fully restored to meet existing FAA air-worthiness standards but log book records show that the ship has flown more than 3,800 hours with about 2,500 hours accumulated during World War II. The plane was used for the instruction of military/naval aviation cadets by a civilian pilot training program operated under contract to the U.S. government.

In 1967, the plane retraced the pioneer U.S. Air Mail Service route of the 1920's from Chicago to Hadley Field, New Jersey, where the country's present air transportation system originated.

According to Downey, a captain in the U.S. Naval Reserve, the plane's decoration is patterned after Navy combat biplanes operating from aircraft carriers during the mid-1930s.

Fuel capacity is 24 gallons with a range of 2.5 hours or 230 miles.

Charge Youth With Public Indecency

An 18-year-old Mount Prospect youth has been arrested on charges of public indecency.

Richard E. Dahlgren, 501 N. Fairview Ave., was released on $2,000 bond pending a July 14 court appearance in Mount Prospect. He allegedly followed a Mount Prospect woman on May 4 for several blocks and then exposed himself to her at the railroad parking lot, police said.

Dahlgren was arrested Monday.

School Group's Suit Is Awaiting Court Ruling

A class action suit challenging alleged underassessments at Cook County race tracks is pending a ruling on a similar but broader suit filed in U. S. Federal Court.

Ten Chicago area school districts affected by alleged racetrack underassessments have joined the Joint Service Program, a subgroup of the Illinois Association of School Boards (IASB), to file a class action suit against Cook County Assessor P. J. Callerton.

Ron Booth, director of IASB, said the Joint Service Program was ready to file the suit but was awaiting the outcome of a similar suit filed in Federal Court on behalf of Donald Page Moore, an unsuccessful candidate for the democratic nomination for Cook County State Attorney.

The Moore suit also alleges misassessments of properties but does not stop at the racetracks. The Moore suit asks the court to appoint an assessor to correct misassessments throughout Cook County.

Thomas Meites, one of Moore's attorneys, said a hearing in the case is scheduled for the first week in September.

"WHEN THE hearing takes place we will file our own suit or intervene on behalf of the districts," said Booth. "If the suit (Moore's) is successful and an immediate reassessment of property is called for, we will have avoided the cost of a separate suit and be able to return fees to the districts involved."

The class action suit was prompted when the Citizens Action Program (CAP) released figures they had compiled on alleged underassessments at the racetracks last fall.

Four local school districts encompassing Arlington Park Race Track have allocated funds to join the suit. They are Palatine-Rolling Meadows Dist. 15, High School Dist. 211 and 214 and Harper College Dist. 512.

Village Planning More Work To Combat Flooding

by JILL BETTNER

What Buffalo Grove Village Mgr. Dan Larson calls "a more extensive flood control program than any other northwestern community" isn't completely effective, as evidenced by the effects of heavy rain this week.

Currently, that program consists of a retention lake, built about two months ago at the Buffalo Grove High School site, and three retention basins constructed by apartment developers.

Larson said the lake on the high school site is designed to catch storm water from the 27 surrounding acres. Village Engineer Arnold Seaberg said the lake was only half full after Monday night's storm.

Retention basins located at the Villa Verde apartment complex, Cambridge-on-the-Lake Condominiums and the Mill Creek Apartments are intended to take care of storm water in those immediate areas.

Seaberg said the village board expects to pass an ordinance shortly that will require developers who build in Buffalo Grove to construct flood control and retention facilities to service their own projects. The ordinance will probably be even more stringent than current Metropolitan Sanitary District (MSD) requirements.

SEABERG EXPLAINED that part of the flooding problems in the village now are due to the fact that Buffalo Grove did not require builders to provide flood control facilities when the older sections of the village were developed.

First on the village's list of planned flood control measures is the retention basin to be built on the Arlington Country Club golf course. Buffalo Grove and the sanitary district will share the costs of the $300,000 basin. The Illinois Division of Waterways has also requested $80,000 from the state legislature for the project.

Buffalo Grove has been working on plans for a retention lake along Buffalo Creek for the past year. Larson said the MSD Board of Trustees authorized its engineers to negotiate plans for the lake with the Lake County Forest Preserve District three months ago.

ROY CARLSON of the MSD flood control section told the Herald Wednesday a change in the Lake County Board of Supervisors has delayed talks. A new board took office the first of May. Carlson said he has no idea when negotiations will get under way.

The proposed 120-acre site, almost all of it in Lake County, is on the west side of Arlington Heights Road, south of Checker Road. The area is farm land.

Seaberg said plans are for the site to be developed by the Forest Preserve District as a park-type area surrounding the retention lake. He said the net capacity of the basin, some 45,560 cubic feet, would probably only be fully used once or twice a year.

Larson said the Buffalo Creek retention lake would permit all of the village east of Arlington Heights Road to drain much faster after a heavy rain. Currently, rain water follows a course from as far west as Lake Zurich and travels through the village. He added time is of the essence in starting the project because the proposed site could be annexed and developed any time.

In addition to the existing and proposed man-made flood control facilities around Buffalo Grove, nature provided a flood plain in the Buffalo Grove golf course.

PUCKER UP. Lyman Gould warms up for his big moment Friday night. Gould and about 60 other Northwest suburban residents are members of the Palatine Village Band, which opens its summer concert series this week. The performances will be at 8 p.m. each Friday at the Palatine Hills recreation area in Palatine.

Crossroads Tonight For School Talks

The Dist. 21 school board tonight will reject or accept a call for impasse procedures in its talks with the Wheeling Faculty Council (WFC). The board will make the decision at its regularly scheduled meeting at 8:15 p.m.

The board will also have its public hearing on the proposed 1972-73 budget at tonight's meeting.

In the impasse procedure, the board has been given until tomorrow to respond to the WFC call for mediation in the contract talks. If the board fails to comply with the WFC's wishes it may be taken to court.

Should the board accept the impasse demand, the chairman of its bargaining team, John Barger, and WFC chairman Margo Richter will begin working to get a mediator for the talks.

The two chairmen will write a joint letter to the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service requesting its services. If the service is not available, they will seek help from the American Arbitration Association or another agreeable mediation service.

DIST. 21 Supt. Ken Gill said he and members of the board negotiating team will recommend that the school board accept the impasse. "We feel it would cost too much money to take this matter to court," said Gill. "Our labor lawyers feel we should go to mediation."

Gill reemphasized that the board team will try to keep its firm stand of not moving unless the WFC makes moves. "If anything, mediation will probably help us, since it will force the WFC into giving something," he said.

The board will not make its decision on the impasse until the budget is finished. The budget hearing is scheduled to begin shortly after the meeting opens.

The $11 million budget was tentatively approved at an earlier board meeting. It is a balanced budget with some funds expected to be on hand at the end of the 1972-73 year.

IT IS NOT known how much money will be left over since the exact amount will not be determined until teacher salaries for the new year are settled.

The largest budget in the history of Dist. 21, it is expected to pass without opposition.

The board is also planning to discuss principals' salaries and the superintendent's contract in executive session.

Wickes Furniture Opens Store Here

Wickes Corp. opened the doors to its large warehouse showroom in Wheeling during special ceremonies yesterday morning.

The building at 331 W. Dundee Rd. is one of the largest retail outlets in Wheeling, and will also include headquarters for the corp's furniture division. The headquarters is presently in Northbrook.

The 148-foot tall light tower in the parking lot marks the third Wickes outlet in the Chicago suburbs. The other two are at Itasca and Harvey.

Featured at the grand opening were several sports celebrities and Miss Illinois.

Shop Center Annex, Rezone Plan Weighed

Buffalo Grove trustees Monday discussed annexation and rezoning for a shopping center and gas station at Buffalo Grove and Dundee roads, and also suggested an alternate plan to extending Twisted Oak Lane to Arlington Heights Road.

The board heard a request from an attorney representing the Dominion Property Development Co. for annexation and rezoning of 122,000 square feet of property at the southwest corner of the proposed realigned intersection of Buffalo Grove and Dundee roads.

The developer plans to build a shopping center and Marathon gas station on the site.

AFTER HEARING testimony on the intended uses of the land, the proposed appearance of the improvements and the amount of revenue expected to be generated, the board directed Village Atty. Richard Aysa to draw up the annexation agreement and the other necessary documents and discuss them with Dominion's lawyer.

In other action, the trustees resumed discussion of extending Twisted Oak Lane to Arlington Heights Road.

The board decided to investigate the possibility of laying a cement walkway north along the drainage ditch from Twisted Oak Lane to Aspen Court rather than extending Twisted Oak Lane. The walkway would provide area school children with a much shorter route to Willow Grove School than now exists.

THE BUFFALO Grove Jaycees received a waiver of the permit fee for their Fourth of July celebration activities in the village and permit to sell beer.

Proceeds from the holiday's events will be used to buy equipment for the Civil Defense and fire departments. Four days of activities are planned.

In response to several complaints from citizens concerned about the safety of mini-bike riders along Lake-Cook Road, the board voted to prohibit use of the bikes there.

Smith Named To Board At Stevenson

Edward C. Smith, 7 Springside Ct., Buffalo Grove, has been appointed to the Adlai Stevenson High School Board of Education. He will fill a vacancy created when Walter Zorn announced his resignation. Zorn is moving out of the district.

Smith is an engineering graduate of the University of Illinois, and is an investment executive with Shearson, Hamill & Co. of Chicago. He has helped design jet runways for the Army.

A former president of the Strathmore Homeowners Association, Smith has been a resident of Buffalo Grove for three years.

His appointment was announced at the June board meeting.

At the same meeting board members announced that the first 15 minutes of all regular board meetings will be open to questions from the public. Board Pres. Robert Anderson said if a longer period of discussion is needed, the topics would be scheduled for a subsequent meeting. Regular board meetings begin at 8 p.m. the third Monday of each month in the high school board room.

In other action the board hired two additional teachers and moved two other part-time teachers to full-time jobs.

The board will meet at 8 p.m. Tuesday to continue discussion on the selection of personnel.

Seek Hit-And-Run Driver, Cadillac

Mount Prospect Police are looking for a white, four-door Cadillac involved in a hit-and-run accident Saturday night.

Wendell A. Kalck, 24, of 182 Mohave St., Hoffman Estates, was struck by the car and spent the weekend in Northwest Community Hospital. He was released Monday.

The accident took place about 7 p.m. at Central Road and Northwest Highway. Police said Kalck's motorcycle had blown a fuse and he had stopped to fix it.

According to a witness, the driver of the Cadillac appeared to deliberately swerve to hit Kalck. Police said the witness momentarily stopped the Cadillac with his own car, but the Cadillac's driver pulled around him and left the scene.

Police have the offender's license plate number.

Dog Show 'Fun Match' Set

Wheeling is going to the dogs.

To the dogs of the all-breed "fun match" dog show sponsored by the Deerpath Kennel Club, that is. The show will be from 8:30 a.m. to 6 p.m. Sunday in the Wheeling High School Fieldhouse.

Time slots have been opened for the showing of more than 140 breeds of dogs throughout the day.

If dogs are registered between today and the meet, owners will be charged $2.50. For those wishing to pay their entry fee at the gate, the fee will be $3.50.

MRS. MARILYN RICHARDS, publicity chairman for the show said more than 300 dogs already have preregistered for the show. Officials expect more than 500 dogs to be entered before Sunday's deadline.

Mrs. Richards said many rare breeds as well as the common breeds will take part in the fun match. She said anyone who has ever wanted to show a dog should bring it to the fun match.

"A fun match is the place to give it a try," she said. "Amateurs as well as professionals can learn a lot from this type of match."

People from several states are expected to travel to Wheeling for the dog show, which is the first to be sponsored here by the Deerpath Club.

Adults will be charged $1 and children 50 cents for admission. The event is open to the public.

SHE SAID THERE will be parking, large areas to groom and view the dogs and plenty of food for those who wish to spend the day.

For more information about show times for certain breeds or about the show in general, residents are asked to phone 831-3550 or 432-9314.

The "Best in Show" event is expected to begin about 5 p.m.

Chicagoan, 23, Placed On 2 Years Probation

A Chicago man has been placed on two years probation after he was found guilty of battery Tuesday in the Niles branch of circuit court.

Richard O. Collins, 23, was originally charged with the rape of a 20-year-old Mount Prospect woman on April 1.

Police said the charge was reduced to battery, and Collins pleaded guilty.

The State

Everett Leary Holt, 25, of Indianapolis, Ind., who was arrested after a Christmas Eve hijack attempt of an airliner which pul down at O'Hare Airport, was committed to a psychiatric hospital.

1st. Col. Anthony Herbert (Ret.) who prompted a nationwide controversy when he brought formal charges of perpetration and concealment of war crimes against his commanding officers in Vietnam in March, 1971, has endorsed George McGovern for president.

The World

Soviet President Nikolai Podgorny's visit to Hanoi last week has generated hopes for a negotiated settlement of the Vietnam war, highly qualified diplomatic sources said.

Israeli troops, artillery and planes raided southern Lebanon and captured five high ranking Syrian military officers that Israel said were mapping the territory for future joint operations against Israel.

The War

South Vietnamese marines pushed slowly through fierce tank and infantry fire in Quang Tri Province in a drive to recapture the only province they have lost to the Communists.

This Morning In Brief

The Nation

More than 1,000 residents and vacationers fled Isleton, Calif., when a levee crumbled and sent up to 15 feet of water rushing across a low lying delta island. No fatalities were immediately reported.

The cost of living rose by 0.3 per cent in May despite the first drop in supermarket prices in seven months, and the administration warned the decline might already be erased by a new surge in food costs.

A uniformed gunman shot and killed seven persons and wounded at least three others in a shooting spree in Cherry Hill, N.J.

The men apprehended in Democratic national headquarters may have been removing electronic devices already used to eavesdrop, rather than installing new ones, it was reported in Washington, D.C.

Sen. George McGovern in New York, assured of more than 1,300 delegate votes and a possible first-ballot victory at the Democratic Convention, called on Democrats to unite to defeat President Nixon.

An undetermined number of federal troops will be assigned to the Miami area for use as required to avert violence at the Democratic and Republican conventions this summer.

On a crucial test vote, the House approved the President's controversial bill to share federal revenues with the states and cities.

Family Who Lost Daughter Seeks To Help Other Children

by KEN KOZAK
Lee Mudlaff feels that he and his wife Carol owe something to many people in the Northwest suburbs. And he feels that those people owe it to themselves and their families to help him pay off that debt.

In December, the Mudlaffs, former Palatine residents, who now live in Delavan, Wis., lost their three-year old daughter, Mandy, to neuroblastoma, one of the deadliest varieties of childhood cancer.

During the long siege of Mandy's illness, many people rallied behind the Mudlaffs with support and money. Locally, friends raised several thousand dollars toward hospital expenses through the "Money for Mandy" fund.

Now Mudlaff feels he has found a way to give something back to those he says gave so much to him.

The Mudlaffs and an Elkhorn, Wis., couple, Dr. and Mrs. G.E. Richards (who also lost a young daughter to cancer), are trying to get people interested in a new test that reportedly can accurately diagnose neuroblastoma in young children.

The test was developed by Dr. Arnold S. Leonard and his colleagues at the University of Minnesota School of Medicine where Leonard is head of pediatric surgery.

IN MARCII, Leonard explained the test to newsmen attending the American Cancer Society's annual seminar for science writers.

The test, which is marketed by Kalles-Laboratories of Minneapolis, can be administered at a cost of less than 14 cents.

Basically, a child's urine is tested for a substance called vanilmandelic acid (VMA) which is found in the urine of about 80 per cent of patients with neuro-blastoma.

Lee Mudlaff

A test strip is dipped in a child's urine or is placed on an infant's wet diaper. Within ten minutes the strip will turn from its original yellow color to dark purple if FMA is present in the urine.

Leonard told the writers at the seminar that the test helped the doctor identify six positive cases of neuroblastoma. In addition, every known case of neuroblastoma tested registered positive.

The Mudlaffs and Richards learned of Dr. Leonard's discovery through newspaper stories and wrote to the physician himself to learn more.

They found out that the test is already being extensively used in Minnesota and Canada. But they also learned that news of the test has not yet been circulated in medical journals and probably will not appear there until later this summer.

SO THE TWO couples decided to try to spread the word themselves and line up support for the program. They have been very successful in Wisconsin.

This Thursday, primarily through the efforts of the Mudlaffs and Richards, a free clinic will open in Elkhorn at which the tests for neuroblastoma will be administered.

The two couples plan to repeat the clinic in the future (the test should be administered to young children several times a year) and are trying to interest others in participating in similar clinics. That's what brought Lee Mudlaff back to this area yesterday.

He is trying to interest community groups in the testing program. If that fails he hopes to reach parents and doctors, and convince them that the test for neuroblastoma should be a routine part of a child's checkup.

One local group has already told Mudlaff that they might be interested in establishing a clinic similar to the one located in Elkhorn. He said he is waiting for a firm commitment. Mudlaff's sister, Joan Strickland, was instrumental in leading him to the interested organization.

The important thing, he feels, is to let people know the dangers of neuroblastoma and let them know that there is a method by which it can be diagnosed early enough to save lives.

IT IS ESTIMATED, Mudlaff says, that one in 8,000 children contract neuroblastoma. In the majority of the cases it is not diagnosed until it has already spread from its origin in the nervous system.

When it spreads, the five-year cure rate is less than five per cent. Most victims die within a year of diagnosis.

If, however, it is caught before it has spread, 80 per cent long-term survival is possible. Mandy Mudlaff was diagnosed only after her cancer had spread. She died less than three months after diagnosis.

Most victims are younger than five years old. And according to Leonard's statistics, more than 1,500 children died from neuroblastoma between 1960 and 1964.

Schools Gear For New Special Education Plan

Palatine Rolling Meadows Dist. 15 officials are gearing up to implement a new mandatory statewide special education program for three- and four-year olds that will begin in September.

Under state House Bills 322 and 323, passed last summer, school districts must make provisions for special education programs for children in the preschool age group who have learning disabilities.

Last week the Dist. 15 School Board approved a proposal outlining how the district will begin screening children and planning the program this September.

The board-approved proposal has been sent to the state Office of the Superintendent of Public Instruction for final approval.

If the proposal passes, Dist. 15 will begin the screening and planning process in September, will launch a pilot special education program in spring of 1973, and will have a full-scale program operable by fall of 1973.

LORITA LANGLEY, director of pupil personnel services, said the program will include three- and four-year olds who can roughly be classified as the learning disabled, socially or emotionally maladjusted, educable or trainable mentally handicapped and speech defective.

"We will start screening and identifying children this year and develop a plan for full implementation," she said. "We will also begin to place severely handicapped children for whom placement is available" at places like Kirk Center in Palatine.

Mrs. Langley said the district will be aided in locating families with children who could participate in the program by the district census that was recently completed and is now being compiled.

The pilot program planned for next spring will be a small-scale test model of the full-scale plan that will go into effect in fall of 1973.

Mrs. Langley and Harriet Foster, the district's director of special education, said the pilot program will concentrate in the areas of delayed language development and disability in movement.

"The program will be highly diagnostic in nature," Mrs. Langley said. "As we work with the children we will learn more of what the disabilities are."

THE DIRECTION the final full-scale program will take will probably be largely influenced by the success of the pilot program.

Plans for the full-scale program have not yet been completed, but Mrs. Langley and Mrs. Foster said staffing is already being considered. The district will probably staff the screening process and pilot program with a nurse, speech clinicians, psychologists and teachers qualified in early childhood and special education.

"The program will be partially financed by state grants that will pay parts of the salaries for staff members and aides, and by standard state disbursements for special education programs."

Mrs. Langley said the district is looking into areas where additional funds could be raised.

In the past, the district has participated in a state program to educate five year olds who have hearing or vision deficiencies. This new plan is only for handicapped three- and four-year olds.

More information about the program may be obtained from the district's administrative office.

PUCKER UP. Lyman Gould warms up for his big moment Friday night. Gould and about 60 other Northwest suburban residents are members of the Palatine Village

Band, which opens its summer concert series this week. The performances will be at 8 p.m. each Friday at the Palatine Hills recreation area in Palatine.

Charge Pair Radioed Race Results

Two Michigan men have been arrested by Arlington Heights police and charged with illegally transmitting betting information on races at Arlington Park Race Track to a Detroit bookmaker.

Police detectives said that walkie-talkie radios were used by the pair to relay betting odds and early race results from inside the race track to one of the men who would be stationed at a pay telephone near the Arlington Park Shell service station at the corner of Wilke Road and Euclid Avenue.

The telephone was used to relay the racing information to a Detroit bookmaker, police say.

John Patrick McGee, 22, of Detroit, was apprehended by officers of the Illinois Bureau of Race Track Police Tuesday after they observed him with the walkie-talkie inside the track.

McGee later was turned over to Arlington Heights police.

A SECOND MAN, James Riggio, of Grosse Point Woods, Mich., who allegedly worked with McGee in the information relay network, was arrested by Arlington Heights police a short time later as he was leaving the track grandstand.

Detectives say they had been observing the pair several days prior to their arrest.

Both men also were charged with possession of amphetamines after a police search of their car reportedly turned up a bottle of pills later identified as amphetamines.

Bond for the men was set at $5,000 each with a preliminary court date scheduled June 23.

Area School Suit Awaits U.S. Ruling

A class action suit challenging alleged underassessments at Cook County racetracks is pending a ruling on a similar but broader suit filed in U. S. Federal Court.

Ten Chicago area school districts affected by alleged racetrack underassessments have joined the Joint Service Program, a subgroup of the Illinois Association of School Boards, (IASB), to file a class action suit against Cook County Assessor P. J. Cullerton.

Ron Booth, director of IASB, said the Joint Service Program was ready to file the suit but was awaiting the outcome of a similar suit filed in Federal Court on behalf of Donald Page Moore, an unsuccessful candidate for the democratic nomination for Cook County States Attorney.

The Moore suit also alleges misassessments of properties but does not stop at the racetracks. The Moore suit asks the court to appoint an assessor to correct misassessments throughout Cook County.

Ron Meites, one of Moore's attorneys, said a hearing in the case is scheduled for the first week in September.

"WHEN THE hearing takes place we will file our own suit or intervene on behalf of the districts," said Booth. "If the suit (Moore's) is successful and an immediate reassessment of property is called for, we will have avoided the cost of a separate suit and be able to return fees to the districts involved."

The class action suit was prompted when the Citizens Action Program (CAP) released figures they had compiled on alleged underassessments at the racetracks last fall.

Four local school districts encompassing Arlington Park Race Track have allocated funds to join the suit. They are Palatine-Rolling Meadows Dist. 15, High School Dist. 211 and 214 and Harper College Dist. 512.

Planners OK 300-Bed Nursing Home

The Palatine Plan Commission has recommended that the village board approve a petition for a special use permit to build a 300-bed nursing home across from William Fremd High School.

The 3-2 vote Tuesday night came over the objections of two commissioners who considered the granting of a special use permit "spot zoning."

Acting Chairman Conrad Hansen said he was not certain whether a five-acre parcel in itself could be considered spot zoning, but said five acres in a 22-acre site "may be spot zoning."

The five acres at 1011 S. Quentin Rd. are surrounded on three sides by some 220 acres currently zoned for manufacturing.

Commissioner Andrew M. Obara discounted the spot zoning argument. "I don't think five acres would influence (the development of) 220 acres," he said.

OTHER DISCUSSION concerned the need for another nursing home in Palatine.

Plan commission members indicated that the three homes in Palatine now have an excess number of skilled care beds for patients requiring the most care.

Developer Alexander Webster indicated he would provide an equal number of shelter, intermediate and skilled care beds in the Quentin Road nursing home, but said he would fill the beds on a first-come, first-served basis as long as he meets the minimum state requirements in patient-employee ratios.

He said nursing home operators make a greater profit providing skilled care than shelter or intermediate care and often do not fill vacant skilled care beds with patients requiring less care.

The plan commission's recommendation now goes to the village board for final action.

Gordon Bird Directs Palatine Band

by MARCIA KRAMER

As a 10-year-old growing up in Fairmont, Minn., Gordon Bird sometimes had to practice trumpet exercises while his friends played ball.

He might have missed out on a few activities that kids prefer, but Bird isn't sorry at all.

"It sort of got to me after awhile," he smiles.

Now, 47 years later and a professor of music and director of bands at Northern Illinois University in DeKalb, Gordon Bird doesn't have to practice as much as when he was young.

He now plays the trumpet well enough to teach others, and he plays countless other instruments as well.

But what he says he prefers doing is conducting. And that's what he'll be doing each Friday night this summer in Palatine.

BIRD will be leading the 60-member Palatine Village Band in its weekly concerts at the Palatine Hills recreation area.

The band is a conglomeration of housewives, doctors, businessmen and others from throughout the Northwest suburbs who get together every so often during the winter and regularly during the summer to make music.

Only one two-hour rehearsal of the band as a whole goes into each concert and the new conductor says he's impressed with what he's seen — and heard — so far.

"The level of ability is really quite good although it's an amateur group," he said.

GORDON BIRD

Many of the band members are music teachers in the area, accounting for much of the quality, Bird indicated.

He said the band's programs this summer would cover a wide range of music — from classical to marches and jazz-rock.

BIRD's own musical taste is equally far-ranging, he says. "I thoroughly enjoy all kinds of music, I really do."

Who is his favorite composer? None in particular — "there are too many that I like."

Bird guest-conducted the Palatine band two years ago and says he's looking forward to a full summer with the band.

"The Palatine group thoroughly enjoys making music," he said. "Some musicians do it because they have to. But this is purely a volunteer group and there only because they like to sit down and play together."

"I think it's going to be a very enjoyable summer."

Village Band Concerts Begin Friday Night

Following is the program for the first Palatine Village Band concert of the season scheduled for 8 p.m. Friday at the Palatine Hills recreation area.

"Pennsylvania Fanfare," by Benson; "Procession of the Nobles," Rimsky-Korsakov; "Suite in Eb (first)," Holst; "The Klaxon (march)," Fillmore; "Prelude To Return," Mitsue Nonami; "Manhattan Beach (march)," Sousa.

"Buglers Holiday," Anderson, featuring Stan Louiseau, Bob Tindall, Jan Hooser; "On the March (march)," Goldman; "West Side Story," Bernstein; "Goin' Out of My Head," Randazzo-Weinstein; "Americans We (march)," Fillmore.

Homeowners Plan Objections To Rezoning Near Harper

The Rolling Meadows City Council will hear objections from Palatine homeowners Tuesday at a public hearing on the rezoning of land near Harper College.

Hunting Ridge residents are upset about the proposed annexation and rezoning of a 55-acre tract south of their subdivision near Harper College.

A Rolling Meadows Special Zoning Commission has recommended approval of a request to rezone, upon annexation, the property for apartments and a small shopping center.

The property is known as the Beery property after Eugene Beery of Palatine, one of the principals of the proposed development. Current proposals for development call for eight apartment buildings, including two 13-story units and six three-story units on 47 acres and a small shopping center on the remaining five acres.

THE LAND, located between Quentin Road on the east, Harper College on the west, Euclid-Lake Avenue on the north and 1000 feet north of Old Plum Grove Road on the south is presently unincorporated.

No showdown is planned, the Hunting Ridge residents merely have several questions they want to raise at the council meeting, said William McQueen, a director of the Hunting Ridge Homeowners Association.

"From a practical standpoint no one can be opposed to the development of the land, our (Hunting Ridge residents') main concern is the high density," said McQueen.

"One has to ask why Schaumburg officially turned down the annexation and rezoning because of the high density and Palatine unofficially turned it down and then Rolling Meadows might approve it," said McQueen.

Most of the residential area of Rolling Meadows is far removed from the proposed development and therefore the council would not receive a lot of flack if it approved the annexation and rezoning, said McQueen.

"This (the rezoning and annexation) will create a Palatine backyard problem rather than a Rolling Meadows frontyard problem," said McQueen.

THERE ARE also questions about ingress and egress, according to McQueen. At the present time access to the proposed development is planned from Quentin Road. Residents in the area feel this would cause a heavy traffic flow on Quentin.

Another concern is the hardship such a development would cause on the schools in the area. At the special zoning commission hearing, Beery indicated he planned to contact Palatine-Rolling Meadows Dist. 15 Supt. Frank Whiteley said the district has not been contacted by Beery to date. Whiteley indicated a member of the Dist. 15 staff would be present at Tuesday's public hearing.

"The project is planned to house students from Harper College. I am not convinced there are that many requests for this kind of facility from non-residents and non-commuters attending Harper," said McQueen.

In order to annex the Beery property Rolling Meadows will also have to annex a 150-foot wide corridor 1,700 feet long to make the land contiguous to the city. "They will actually be creating a little peninsula or island," according to McQueen.

IN ORDER to further accommodate Beery's development plans, the Rolling Meadows Council would have to substantially alter its current height limitation of three stories for apartment buildings. "This would literally open up their (Rolling Meadows) zoning without any limitations," said McQueen.

Residents of Hunting Ridge are also concerned because the two 13-story buildings are presently planned for the west portion of the land but this property might be within the flood control project being undertaken on Salt Creek by the Metropolitan Sanitary District (MSD) and the U.S. Department of Conservation. If the land is taken over by the MSD, residents are afraid the high-rises will be moved closer to Quentin Road.

"This is not a call to arms, we just wanted to call the proposed development to the attention of our homeowners," said McQueen. "We feel the density in this area should be in line with proper density rules and guidelines."

Areawide Construction Shutdown In Offing?

by LEA TONKIN

As contractors and construction workers continue their counterattacks in the current round of contract negotiations, the possibility of a massive Chicago area construction shutdown moves closer to reality.

A limited number of slowdowns and work stoppages by carpenters and cement masons were reported as of late Wednesday in the Northwest suburbs.

However, carpenters announced Wednesday that additional picketing sites may be announced today in the Chicago area. And the Mid-America Regional Bargaining Association (MARBA), announced it may enforce an area wide lockout in retaliation against selective strikes and picketing by the cement masons and carpenters.

Approximately 2,000 of the Carpenters Chicago District Council's 30,000 members were on strike Wednesday, reported George Vest, president. Among the suburban sites selected for strikes was the parking facility at O'Hare International Airport.

Cement Masons Local 502 (Cook County) reported Wednesday that selective picketing continued as negotiations with contractors are in a deadlock. A meeting is slated for this morning to determine additional picketing sites, said a union spokesman.

APPROXIMATELY 800 contractors at a unity rally held Tuesday night in Chicago voted to continue their contract offers to the 2,200 member Cement Masons Local 502 (Cook County) and the Chicago District Council of Carpenters.

At that meeting, the contractor group, a conglomerate of 14 area employer organizations, warned that the selective strikes could bring a lockout of all the members in these trades throughout the Chicago metropolitan area.

A meeting will be held this afternoon by MARBA executives to decide what action to take in response to the ongoing strikes and picketing. Should a lockout occur, nearly 100,000 construction workers would be idled. Approximately $2 1/2 billion in highways, residential, commercial and industrial construction, and other building projects would be halted.

In the meantime, some confusion was reported at Northwest suburban construction sites.

"TO SAY THE least, the situation is almost chaotic," said project foreman Jerry Harker at a Levitt and Sons, Inc., residential construction site in Schaumburg. "We have three subdivisions here, at two of which we have a full force of carpenters working. The other one started with a picket line up this morning."

The picket line disappeared later in the day, but so did some of the men, reported Harker. "We're going with whatever men we've got," Harker said. He noted that the other trades honored the carpenter picket lines at the Sheffield Park project.

At the Huntington Apartments in Mount Prospect, carpenters were on the job yesterday, but said they'll picket if the word comes down from the Chicago District Council.

Construction continued in the residential projects by Centex Winston in Elk Grove Village.

Carpenters stayed on the job site, but cement masons were on strike at the Palatine Junior High construction site as of late Wednesday.

Rolling Meadows sidewalk projects continued on schedule yesterday. However, city superintendent of public works James McFeggan reported a curb replacement program could be halted by cement mason strikes.

SHERMAN DAUTEL, business manager for three Northwest Suburban Carpenters Union locals, said Wednesday that the parking garage project at O'Hare is the major area picketing site. He works for Local 839 in Des Plaines, 1196 in Arlington Heights and 2014 in Barrington.

The major grievance is "working conditions rather than money," said Dautel. Claiming that working conditions "date back to 1912 . . . they want us to work from 1 a.m. to 6 p.m.," Dautel said the carpenters will strike additional construction sites unless grievances are settled.

Junior Olympic Winners To Waukegan

First-place winners in last Saturday's Palatine Junior Olympics will travel to Waukegan for the regional competition this Saturday. Youngsters 10 to 15 years old participated in the local event sponsored by the Palatine Jaycees and the Palatine Park District.

Track and field events were split into three age levels, midget, junior, and intermediate. Fifty-five youngsters won first place in the contests. All first, second, and third place winners received trophies.

Results of Saturday's contests, including the winning distances and times, are:

Condo Truth In Selling Amendment Is Approved

A truth in selling amendment to the Condominium Property Act passed the state senate yesterday.

Earlier approved by the Illinois House, it was introduced in the Senate by Sen. John Graham, R-Barrington, and was reported out of committee early this month.

The bill basically requires sellers of condominiums to provide potential buyers with a written disclosure of full details on the declaration of sale, articles of incorporation of the homeowner's association, bylaws of that association, deed to underlying ground and management contract.

A PROJECTED operating budget for the unit, a floor plan of the unit and a commitment for a specific location for the unit are also required by the bill.

Richard Regan, chairman of the Hoffman Estates plan commission wrote the original guidelines along which the bill was written.

Regan wanted the bill to protect young couples or persons previously living only in single-family homes from the misunderstandings and pitfalls of which they might not be aware.

The bill requires all information concerning expenses, responsibilities and privileges connected with condominium ownership be clarified in writing before the sale.

Coffee House Set

The Bloeker Street Cafe, a coffee house and folk center, opens Saturday at the Rolling Meadows Sports Complex.

Bill Cody and Sue Davies will be performing on opening night. The cafe will be open from 8 to 11 p.m. There is a $1 cover charge and persons must be 16 years old or older to enter.

New North View Building Try

Another attempt is to be made to build multi-family housing on six undeveloped lots near the North View subdivision in Palatine and the developer may have another fight on his hands.

Owner Edward T. Burley has submitted a petition requesting rezoning of the property at Benton Street and Northwest Highway to build 18 units of townhouses.

An earlier request for rezoning to build 24 units was turned down by the village board on the grounds that the density was too high.

Before that, Burley had asked for rezoning of the same property for an office-commercial complex, but that request also was denied.

About 10 members of the North View Homeowners Association attended Tuesday night's meeting of the Palatine Plan Commission and requested a copy of the plans to study.

The plans call for three buildings on the 1 1/2 acres, each containing six two-bedroom units. Cost of the units would be $25,000 to $35,000 each.

Acting plan commission chairman Conrad Hansen said he was uncertain whether a public hearing would have to be held on the plans because a hearing on the 24-unit proposal was held in April.

At that time, chairman Thomas A. Moody Jr. indicated he would consider similar plans with a lower density, but did not commit himself or the plan commission to approving such plans.

'Absent Minded Prof' To Be Feature Film

"The Absent Minded Professor" will be the first outdoor family movie this summer sponsored by the Rolling Meadows Park District.

The movie will be shown after dark Saturday free of charge at the Campbell Street Park tennis courts by Cardinal Drive School. In case of rain the movie will be shown the following night at the same place.

Several Park District Programs Still Open

Registration is still open in several of the Rolling Meadows Park District programs which start next week.

Among the programs still open are children's theater; pique, ponytail, high school and adult women's softball; men's golf instruction and golf league; outdoor volleyball; self-defense; jogging club; family bike club; and water sports.

PREPARING FOR Friday night's concert are Palatine residents Mike Spratlin and Carol Dunlap. About 60 area residents are members of the Palatine Village Band, and students are invited to join during summer concerts.

Planners OK 300-Bed Nursing Home

The Palatine Plan Commission has recommended that the village board approve a petition for a special use permit to build a 300-bed nursing home across from William Fremd High School.

The 3-2 vote Tuesday night came over the objections of two commissioners who considered the granting of a special use permit "spot zoning."

Acting Chairman Conrad Hansen said he was not certain whether a five-acre parcel in itself could be considered spot zoning, but said five acres in a 22-acre site "may be spot zoning."

The five acres at 1011 S. Quentin Rd. are surrounded on three sides by some 220 acres currently zoned for manufacturing.

Commissioner Andrew M. Obara discounted the spot zoning argument. "I don't think five acres would influence (the development of) 220 acres," he said.

OTHER DISCUSSION concerned the need for another nursing home in Palatine.

Plan commission members indicated that the three homes in Palatine now have an excess number of skilled care beds for patients requiring the most care.

Developer Alexander Webster indicated he would provide an equal number of shelter, intermediate and skilled care beds in the Quentin Road nursing home, but said he would fill the beds on a first-come, first-served basis as long as he meets the minimum state requirements in patient-employee ratios.

He said nursing home operators make a greater profit providing skilled care than shelter or intermediate care and often do not fill vacant skilled care beds with patients requiring less care.

The plan commission's recommendation now goes to the village board for final action.

Gordon Bird Directs Palatine Band

by MARCIA KRAMER

As a 10-year-old growing up in Fairmont, Minn., Gordon Bird sometimes had to practice trumpet exercises while his friends played ball.

He might have missed out on a few activities that kids prefer, but Bird isn't sorry at all.

"It sort of got to me after awhile," he smiles.

Now, 47 years later and a professor of music and director of bands at Northern Illinois University in DeKalb, Gordon Bird doesn't have to practice as much as when he was young.

He now plays the trumpet well enough to teach others, and he plays countless other instruments as well.

But what he says he prefers doing is conducting. And that's what he'll be doing each Friday night this summer in Palatine.

BIRD will be leading the 60-member Palatine Village Band in its weekly concerts at the Palatine Hills recreation area.

The band is a conglomerate of housewives, doctors, businessmen and others from throughout the Northwest suburbs who get together every so often during the winter and regularly during the summer to make music.

Only one two-hour rehearsal of the band as a whole goes into each concert and the new conductor says he's impressed with what he's seen — and heard — so far.

"The level of ability is really quite good although it's an amateur group," he said.

GORDON BIRD

Many of the band members are music teachers in the area, accounting for much of the quality, Bird indicated.

He said the band's programs this summer would cover a wide range of music — from classical to marches and jazz-rock.

BIRD's own musical taste is equally far-ranging, he says. "I thoroughly enjoy all kinds of music, I really do."

Who is his favorite composer? None in particular — "there are too many that I like."

Bird guest-conducted the Palatine band two years ago and says he's looking forward to a full summer with the band.

"The Palatine group thoroughly enjoys making music," he said. "Some musicians do it because they have to. But this is purely a volunteer group and there only because they like to sit down and play together."

"I think it's going to be a very enjoyable summer."

Village Band Concerts Begin Friday Night

Following is the program for the first Palatine Village Band concert of the season scheduled for 8 p.m. Friday at the Palatine Hills recreation area.

"Transylvania Fanfare," by Benson; "Procession of the Nobles," Rimsky-Korsakov; "Suite in Eb (first)," Holst; "The Klaxon (march)," Fillmore; "Prelude To Return," Mitsuo Nonami; "Manhattan Beach (march)," Sousa.

"Buglers Holiday," Anderson, featuring Stan Louisa, Bob Tindall, Jan Hooser; "On the Mall (march)," Goldman; "West Side Story," Bernstein; "Goin' Out of My Head," Rindazzo-Weinstein; "Americans We (march)," Fillmore.

'Contiguity' Keys Inverness Suit To Block Disannex Bid

"Contiguity" is the key to the suit filed by the village of Inverness to block a disannexation attempt by Inverness residents Mr. and Mrs. Robert Lonze, 1120 S. Roselle Rd.

The legal definition of contiguous may make the difference in how Cook County Circuit Court Judge Helen McGillicuddy rules when she announces her decision next Tuesday. The two sides presented their cases before Judge McGillicuddy Tuesday.

Disannexation, or disconnection as it is legally called, must meet eight state requirements before it is allowed. One condition is that property for disconnection cannot be contiguous to two or more municipalities.

Lonze's 40 acres border Inverness along the north side of his plot, and overlaps into Palatine along 33 feet of Roselle Road in the southeastern corner of his land.

Palatine's boundary extends to the center of Roselle Road, while the Inverness border overlaps to the west side of Roselle. Technically, this half-road overlap is a common boundary.

No specific definition exists defining how much common land represents a "contiguous" border in Illinois.

Inverness, represented by Atty. J. William Braithwaite, argued that disannexation is forbidden if the territory is contiguous in part to any other municipality.

Lonze's attorney, William J. Moore, countered with examples of court decisions on annexation suits. In such cases, common borders of 20 feet, 50 feet, and 83 feet were insufficient to make them legally contiguous.

OTHER DECISIONS had borders of 300 feet and 400 feet did constitute contiguity.

"As far as we can determine, there are no recorded cases that determine the width of overlap that equals contiguity in disconnection cases," Braithwaite said. He argued that annexation precedents did not apply to the Inverness situation.

Annexation rulings do apply to disconnection, Moore said, he called the Inverness-Palatine overlap as "the very minutest of touchings."

Lonze was put on the stand at Moore's request to officially make yesterday's meeting a hearing. Whatever decision is reached next week will probably be appealed by the losing party.

A proposed plan for Inverness would allow development of offices and research activities on Lonze's land. Although Lonze has not indicated his plans for the site, it could be used for apartment complexes or a shopping center. The disannexation petition is successful. The 40-acre parcel is near Harper College.

Hearing Is Tonight On Inverness Plan

Robert Teska, consultant who wrote the Inverness Comprehensive Plan, will field questions about his recommendations at a public hearing tonight at 8 in the Field House, 55 N. Highland, in Inverness.

The plan was prepared in February by Teska of Barton-Aschman Associates, Inc. of Chicago. Final approval is up to the Inverness Village Board.

The plan provides little change for Inverness. Some higher-density housing would be permitted in the fringe areas of the village. Only one residential unit per acre is currently allowed. Certain areas of the village could be zoned for two to six units per acre if the Inverness Village Board approves the plan.

Kids Get Their Day In Court

It was kids' day in court Saturday, as the Rolling Meadows police opened another summer session of bicycle court.

Twice a month young bike riders who violated the city's bicycle regulations appear in this special court with a parent or guardian.

Virgil Leanna, for five years the bicycle court judge, dispenses advice and sometimes fines to the young offenders.

About 300 kids appear in bicycle court each summer. No punishment is given to first offenders, but a second offense is treated like any violation of a traffic ordinance and the offender is fined.

Court is held two Saturdays each month, beginning at 10 a.m. at city hall.

In Hatten Heights, Forest View West Areas

Implement Plan To Reduce Chance Of Future Flooding

Mount Prospect public works crews yesterday and this morning began to implement a three-part plan designed to lessen future flooding problems in the Hatten Heights and Forest View West subdivisions.

The measures being taken are:

—Development of a swale depression south of Lawrence Lane that will remove mud and flood waters entering that area;
—Construction of a 270-foot long, 12-inch storm sewer extension line from Meier Road, down Mark Terrace to the Colonial Heights storm sewer system;

—Excavation of a temporary retention basin in the dedicated portion of Meier Road, north of Lincoln Street.

Yesterday, village employees began removing the dirt dam hastily constructed south of Lawrence Lane during Monday night's rain. This area will then be graded and seeded.

According to Village Eng. Leonard Dicke, the grass on this swale will not stop the water but will remove the mud from the flood water.

MOST OF THE WATER that hits Lawrence Lane comes from the farm to the west and southwest of the area. The farm, which is on higher ground, is owned by George Baumhardt and Village Mgr. Robert J. Eppley said Baumhardt has given the village permission to work on his land.

The village hopes the installation of a temporary extension storm sewer line will handle most of the water from the farm. Work on this line will begin today, according to Dicke. Eppley has estimated the cost at between $2,500 and $3,000. The pipe was delivered yesterday.

Dicke also said work will begin today or tomorrow on the retention basin which will be dug in the 40-foot dedication of Meier Road north of Lincoln Street. There is no street here now.

The basin will be about five feet deep, 30 feet wide and 1,100 feet long (stretching to Grindel Drive). It should hold 200,000 gallons of water, Dicke said.

Village officials met throughout Tuesday in an effort to come up with immediate solutions to alleviate the flooding that has plagued these areas of town. At Tuesday's village board meeting, approval was given for both the sewer line extension and the retention basin.

MORE THAN 100 residents of the Fair View West area were present at the board meeting to demand immediate action by the village to prevent future flooding.

One woman described how her new home had become surrounded by water. "It is unreal," she told the board. "My house was an island."

Many residents questioned why Kaplan and Braun Homebuilders were allowed to build homes in the area if the storm sewer systems were inadequate.

Mayor Robert D. Teichert told the people that the village administration has informally been trying to get cost estimates for the Special Assessment '70 storm sewer project that would enable the project to be done for $66,800 less than the original $634,000 estimate.

This $66,800 is the amount a Circuit Court jury recently reduced some 112 assessments for the project by.

The project would have a 48-inch and a 70-inch storm sewer installed in the Hatten Heights area.

Weigh Suit Over Principal Ouster

A lawsuit charging the River Trails Dist. 26 Board of Education with violating a principal's civil rights may be filed by a group of parents in Mount Prospect.

The parents decided to consider the legal action after Feehanville School Principal Bea Amundson was reassigned to another school as a teacher. Her transfer was part of a staff shakeup that involved three of the district's seven principals. The moves were recommended by Supt. Tom Warden.

The school board, in approving the changes at its meeting Tuesday, denied a request by Miss Amundson for a hearing on her transfer. Jim Burke, one of the organizers of the parents' group, said the suit, if it is filed, would probably charge the board with denying Miss Amundson her right to speak under the First and Fourteenth Constitutional Amendments. He said his group was contacting civil rights attorneys to determine the procedures and costs involved in such a suit.

Board Pres. Clarke Robinson said the district's attorney advised the board that reassignment without a reduction in pay is "a discretion vested solely in the school board." Miss Amundson would retain her current salary in the new job.

THE BOARD APPROVED the reassignments despite the protests of about 170 persons who attended Tuesday's board meeting in support of the three principals. Residents' requests for the board to make public the reasons for the transfers were turned down. Warden could not be reached for comment yesterday.

Miss Amundson, Feehanville principal for seven years, said yesterday she would support the legal action. She has been reassigned as a teacher at River Road School in Des Plaines. She said Supt. Warden had asked her to either resign or accept a teaching position. She said he listed complaints over her performance as Feehanville principal as

Chicagoan, 23, Placed On 2 Years Probation

A Chicago man has been placed on two years probation after he was found guilty of battery Tuesday in the Niles branch of circuit court.

Richard O. Collins, 23, was originally charged with the rape of a 20-year-old Mount Prospect woman on April 1.

Police said the charge was reduced to battery, and Collins pleaded guilty.

Lions Plan Big Fourth Celebration

Bingo, beer drum-and-bugle corps competition and a variety of carnival rides will be in store for residents at this year's Fourth of July celebration in Mount Prospect.

The annual five-day Lions Club Fair, with rides, booths and games, will begin at 7 p.m. on June 30.

This year's Fourth of July parade, sponsored by the Mount Prospect Chamber of Commerce, will feature 10 of the leading Mid-West Drum and Bugle Corps.

Bingo, now legal, has been added to the Lions' fair this year. Rides include the "ferries wheel," "tilt-a-wheel," "merry-go-round," "loop-a-plane" and several kiddie rides. Food and game booths will also be set up for the carnival, held at Lions Park, 411 S. Maple St.

THE FAIR WILL also feature two nights of fireworks. On June 30 the Lions will host a fireworks display while the Mount Prospect Park District will sponsor the exhibit on July 4.

Proceeds from the fair will be used for Lions club projects, including donations to the blind. Hours for the carnival are 7 p.m. to 11 p.m., June 30; 3 p.m. to 11 p.m., July 1 and 2; 7 p.m. to 11 p.m. on July 3; and 3 p.m. to 11 p.m. on July 4.

"Spirit of Mount Prospect—It's the Real Thing" is the theme of this year's parade which will begin at 2 p.m. on July 4. At least 40 groups are expected to participate, according to George Lindholm, parade committee chairman. The parade will assemble at North Emerson and Gregory streets, for the march through town to Lions Park.

Following the parade, the top six Mid-West drum and bugle corps will compete at Lions Park. Groups in the parade include the Guardsmen Cadettes from Mount Prospect, the Ambassadors from Racine, Wis., the Flint Guardsmen from Flint, Mich., the Crusader Gladiators from Milwaukee, and the Colt 45 Cadettes from Dubuque, Iowa.

THIS OIL WELL-TYPE rig is being used to drill Mount Prospect's newest well, No. 16, which will be located south of Algonquin Road, near the Plywood Minnesota Co. Working two 10-hour shifts a day, crews have reached a depth of 157 feet. When completed, the well will be able to supply 2 million gallons a day for the area south of Golf Road.

14-Year-Old Boy Hit By Car

A 14-year-old Mount Prospect boy was reported in fair condition last night at Holy Family Hospital in Des Plaines after he was struck by a car about 2:30 p.m. yesterday on Central Road just west of Wolf Road in Mount Prospect.

Wayne Kay, 309 N. Westgate, was struck by a car driven by Betty Schwietert, 1200 Pendleton, Mount Prospect. She was charged with driving too fast for conditions.

Police theorized that Kay was hit as he was trying to cross Central Road. He was taken to the hospital in a Des Plaines fire ambulance.

Construction Shutdown In Offing?

by LEA TONKIN

As contractors and construction workers continue their counterattacks in the current round of contract negotiations, the possibility of a massive Chicago area construction shutdown moves closer to reality.

A limited number of slowdowns and work stoppages by carpenters and cement masons were reported as of late Wednesday in the Northwest suburbs.

However, carpenters announced Wednesday that additional picketing sites may be announced today in the Chicago area. And the Mid-America Regional Bargaining Association (MARBA), announced it may enforce an area wide lockout in retaliation against selective strikes and picketing by the cement masons and carpenters.

Approximately 2,000 of the Carpenters Chicago District Council's 30,000 members were on strike Wednesday, reported George Vite, president. Among the suburban sites selected for strikes was the parking facility at O'Hare International Airport.

Cement Masons Local 502 (Cook County) reported Wednesday that selective picketing continued as negotiations with contractors are in a deadlock. A meeting is slated for this morning to determine additional picketing sites, said a union spokesman.

APPROXIMATELY 800 contractors at a unity rally held Tuesday night in Chicago voted to continue their contract offers to the 2,200 member Cement Masons Local 502 (Cook County) and the Chicago District Council of Carpenters.

At that meeting, the contractor group, a conglomerate of 14 area employer organizations, warned that the selective strikes could bring a lockout of all the members in these trades throughout the Chicago metropolitan area.

A meeting will be held this afternoon by MARBA executives to decide what action to take in response to the ongoing strikes and picketing. Should a lockout occur, nearly 100,000 construction workers would be idled. Approximately $2 1/2 billion in highways, residential, commercial and industrial construction, and other building projects would be halted.

In the meantime, some confusion was reported at Northwest suburban construction sites.

"TO SAY THE least, the situation is almost chaotic," said project foreman Jerry Harker at a Levitt and Sons, Inc., residential construction site in Schaumburg. "We have three subdivisions here, at two of which we have a full force of carpenters working. The other one started with a picket line up this morning."

The picket line disappeared later in the day, but so did some of the men, reported Harker. "We're going with whatever men we've got," Harker said. He noted that the other trades honored the carpenter picket lines at the Sheffield Park project.

At the Huntington Apartments in Mount Prospect, carpenters were on the job yesterday, but said they'll picket if the word comes down from the Chicago District Council.

Construction continued in the residential projects by Centex Winston in Elk Grove Village.

Carpenters stayed on the job site, but

This Morning In Brief

The Nation

More than 1,000 residents and vacationers fled Isleton, Calif., when a levee crumbled and sent up to 15 feet of water rushing across a low lying delta island. No fatalities were immediately reported.

The cost of living rose by 0.3 per cent in May despite the first drop in supermarket prices in seven months, and the administration warned the decline might already be erased by a new surge in food costs.

A uniformed gunman shot and killed seven persons and wounded at least three others in a shooting spree in Cherry Hill, N.J.

The men gathered in Democratic national headquarters may have been removing electronic devices already used to eavesdrop, rather than installing new ones, it was reported in Washington, D.C.

Sen. George McGovern in New York, assured of more than 1,300 delegate votes and a possible first-ballot victory at the Democratic Convention, called on Democrats to unite to defeat President Nixon.

An undetermined number of federal troops will be assigned to the Miami area for use as required to avert violence at the Democratic and Republican conventions this summer.

On a crucial test vote, the House approved the President's controversial bill to share federal revenues with the states and cities.

The State

Everett Leary Holt, 25, of Indianapolis, Ind., who was arrested after a Christmas Eve hijack attempt of an airliner which put down at O'Hare Airport, was committed to a psychiatric hospital.

LI. Col. Anthony Herbert (Ret.) who prompted a nationwide controversy when he brought formal charges of war crimes against his commanding officers in Vietnam in March, 1971, has endorsed George McGovern for president.

The World

Soviet President Nikolai Podgorny's visit to Hanoi last week has generated hopes for a negotiated settlement of the Vietnam war, highly qualified diplomatic sources said.

Israeli troops, artillery and planes raided southern Lebanon and captured five high ranking Syrian military officers that Israel said were mapping the territory for future joint operations against Israel.

The War

South Vietnamese marines pushed slowly through fierce tank and infantry fire in Quang Tri Province in a drive to recapture the only province they have lost to the Communists.

Declining Membership Plagues American Legion Here

Something has happened to the American Legion in Cook County which has been thinning its ranks over the past two decades.

The decline in membership began after the Korean War. Veterans of that conflict trudged home, secured jobs, got married but unlike their predecessors most didn't join the legion. In the last 10 years, the legion roll call in Cook County has dwindled from 90,000 to 54,000, leaving some of the organization's officials a little concerned.

And the Vietnam era veteran, in whose hands the future of the organization seems to rest, thus far has been reluctant to enlist in the military-fraternal group like his father had done.

James Kissner, a drill sergeant during the second World War and now the division commander for Cook County's 324 Legion posts, attributes much of the decline to the "changing complexion of the county itself."

Veterans are leaving the city for the suburbs, he said, "and those who belonged in Chicago haven't re-upped" (re-enlisted) at suburban chapters.

Kissner himself "didn't know anything about the Palatine post until eight years after he was discharged from the service."

"I guess I drove by there (the Palatine Legion Hall) for a long time before I knew it existed," he said.

BUT KISSNER also acknowledged the "type of war" (Vietnam) may have something to do with the decline in the once burgeoning American Legion ranks.

"When we came home, we didn't worry whether it was a moral war or not. Everyone was close then. . . today most of the veterans don't care much for the war and the attitude is different."

John Helmer, a 25-year-old sergeant at arms of the Arlington Heights Merle Guild Post 208, voices optimism about the Vietnam veterans pulling the Cook County posts back to full membership.

"It is going to be a slow process and we have to let people know that it's run differently," Helmer said. "With new blood comes new ideas."

Helmer is one of only four Vietnam era veterans who have decided to "re-up" at the Arlington Heights post out of a total membership of 1970. The bulk of the chapter consists of portly veterans whose most recent tour of duty was during World War II.

Don Bondi, post commander, said the recently discharged veteran "has too many other things to do besides worrying about joining. Getting established is more important for the younger man."

IN AN ATTEMPT to lure additional legionnaires and hold its present total, the Arlington Heights post has begun several community programs "to let people know what we're doing," said Bondi. The Merle Guild 208 is involved in a boys' baseball team and will start a hockey club soon.

Other activities include the boy's state program held yearly in Springfield for outstanding high school students, and a drum and bugle corps and Coronets girls drill team.

As Cook County's rolls are dwindling, downstate legion halls are prospering," said Kissner. "When they return to the smaller communities, they become a part of the town. . . Look at Springfield and Kankakee, they are doing well."

Cook County is one of the five American Legion divisions in Illinois. In the entire county only seven to eight per cent of eligible veterans belong, Kissner added.

He said there have been attempts to "open the membership" to all veterans, but the decision to do that rests with Congress which establishes dates for servicemen who are eligible. The American Legion was opened for membership Aug. 5, 1964 and all servicemen with an honorable discharge serving from that date until the end of the Vietnam War are eligible. "We have a Congressional charter and they will decide," Kissner said.

NORTHWEST SUBURBAN American Legion posts have few recruitment drives and obtain new members "by word of mouth" according to Kissner.

"We use personal contact to get people," he said.

The newest area American Legion chapter is in Wheeling and has a membership of 56. An employee at the legion hall called it "an all time high." But only four of that number are Vietnam veterans.

Wheeling Post 1968, named in honor of a Wheeling man, Richard Blanchfield, who was killed in Vietnam, has been plagued by transfers. About 10 persons were transferred through their work last year and are no longer members.

Commander of Des Plaines Post 36, Ralph Geils, said only 15 or 20 of the 428 members in that chapter are Vietnam Veterans and added that present membership drives are being held to "get our old members back. We're working on renewals and we don't have the manpower to really recruit," he said.

The American Legion office for veteran affairs and rehabilitation in Chicago helps returning veterans secure jobs among its other veteran services, but there is "no follow up to recruit men into the legion," according to an employee there.

"There's no coercion at all. If they want to join, then they join. . . we don't push them," she said.

Democrats Choose Edwin Frank To Oppose Crane

Democrats in the 12th Congressional District have named Edwin L. Frank, 42, of Hoffman Estates, to carry the fight against the reelection of Republican U.S. Rep. Philip M. Crane.

Frank was selected from among six applicants for the job by the 12th Congressional District Democratic Committee composed of township committeemen in Cook County and Herbert L. (Hub) Stern of Waukegan, Lake County Democratic chairman.

State Rep. Daniel Pierce, D-Highland Park, state central committeeman and chairman of the district committee, said the committee selected Frank largely on the basis of his past political experience.

Frank has been active in Schaumburg Township party affairs and is currently treasurer and parliamentarian of the township Democratic organization.

He has played an active part in campaigns for state Rep. Eugenia S. Chapman, D-Arlington Heights, and in the two campaigns by former state Rep. Ed Warman of Skokie against Crane.

PIERCE SAID Frank demonstrated a wide acquaintance among Democratic committeemen and "appeared quite knowledgeable" about issues in the coming election.

Others who sought the job of running against Crane included Mrs. Betty Spence of Buffalo Grove, Mrs. Irene Pitke of Hoffman Estates, Julian Kahn of Highland Park, James Frankel of Highland Park, and Marshall Rothman of Barrington, an unsuccessful candidate for the Democratic nomination for the state senate in the March primary.

All but Mrs. Pitke and Frankel appeared before the committee to present their credentials, Pierce said. Mrs. Pitke is currently in Europe. Frankel's qualifications were presented by Stern.

The committee began its search for a candidate following the withdrawal last month of Charles W. Houchins, who attracted some 18,000 votes as an unopposed candidate for the Democratic nomination in March.

Frank is a former Hoffman Estates park commissioner and is executive vice president of an Aurora advertising agency. He holds a marketing degree from Rutgers University and formerly taught at the State University of New York in Orange County and worked as a part-time reporter for Pioneer Press.

Rehire 6 Teachers, OK Salary Raises

The Mount Prospect Dist. 57 School Board recently re-employed six teachers and approved raises for administrators, custodians and secretaries.

The teachers, who were dismissed in April to meet staff reduction goals, were rehired to fill vacancies created by recent resignations. They are Laurel Fleming, Camille Oldenburg, Susan Boelke, Rosemary Grier, Elma Wilke and Robert Rothwell.

Rothwell, whose position as a music teacher was eliminated, last month protested his dismissal on grounds that he is also certified to teach kindergarten through ninth grades. An attorney for the Illinois Federation of Teachers (IFT) met with the Dist. 57 attorneys about the matter. Gilbert Cornfield, IFT attorney, said Dist. 57 lawyers assured him Rothwell would be re-employed.

Raises for principals average about 5 per cent, according to Supt. Eric Sahlberg. Principal's salaries for 1972-73 are as follows: Dwight Hall, $22,000; Jan Rodriguez, $16,000; Robert Ferguson, $19,800; John Gatto, $19,900; Robert Guthrie, $18,400; and Cyril Kozel, $17,800. Assistant Supt. J. C. Busenhart will receive a salary of $23,500 as compared to this year's $22,200.

The board also approved full medical insurance coverage for administrators and their families and an in-district travel allowance of $200 per year for principals. This year the district will provide administrators with life insurance coverage for an amount equal to twice the individual's salary. Last year the policy was for $10,000.

Custodians and secretaries were granted an approximate 5 per cent raise, according to Busenhart.

reasons for the reassignment.

"It's not just me, I'm just an example," Miss Amundson said. "There's now a threat in this district. People are in fear of their jobs for the first time in seven years." Warden became superintendent last September.

The board also approved reassignments for James Ackley, River Trails Junior High School principal, and Gene Kukla, River Road School principal.

Warden recommended Ackley be made media learning center consultant in the district in charge of resource centers. He will also retain his current salary.

ACKLEY, RIVER Trails principal for three years, said he didn't know yesterday if he would accept the new position since he didn't know what the job entails. He also said he had no particular interest or background in the area of media and resource centers.

"I would prefer to stay where I am," he said. Ackley has taught two years in the district, and served as Indian Grove School principal for three years before moving to River Trails.

Gene Kukla, River Road School principal for three years, is being moved to principal at the junior high. He said yesterday, "I try to do a good job wherever I am assigned."

Six residents spoke in favor of Miss Amundson at Tuesday's meeting. Ben Baldwin, 1404 Dogwood Ln., handed the board a petition with 344 signatures of parents in the Peohenville area. "This is to show our approval and confidence in our principal," he said.

MARGE BLOMQUIST, teacher at River Trails, spoke in support of Ackley. She read a letter from teachers at the school protesting the reassignment. "Mr. Ackley has shown obvious and earnest dedication to his job, giving far more time and effort than required," she said.

Theda Idyl Nipper, 1216 Meadow Ln., asked the board to postpone a decision on the reassignments until "Mr. Warden knows these two people better." She suggested that perhaps a citizen's committee could be formed to help solve the problem.

Joseph Wawack, currently a teacher at River Road, will become the new principal there. The district is accepting applications for the principal's job at Peohenville.

Construction Shutdown In Offing?

cement masons were on strike at the Palatine Junior High construction site as of late Wednesday.

Hilling Meadows sidewalk projects continued on schedule yesterday. However, city superintendent of public works James McFiggan reported a curb replacement program could be halted by cement mason strikes.

SHERMAN DAUTEL, business manager for three Northwest Suburban Carpenters Union locals, said Wednesday that the parking garage project at O'Hare is the major area picketing site. He works for Local 839 in Des Plaines, 1106 in Arlington Heights and 204 in Barrington.

The major grievance is "working conditions rather than money," said Dautel. Claiming that working conditions "date back to 1912 . . . they want us to work from 1 a.m. to 6 p.m.," Dautel said the carpenters will strike additional construction sites unless grievances are settled.

A lunch break is the cause of Cement Masons and MAIBA disagreements. The two groups did agree on a 53-cent-an-hour boost in wages and benefits. This would raise the workers' pay from the present $9.71 an hour to $10.24 an hour. The union has refused to accept a contractor request for flexible lunch hours.

Extensioneers Hold Annual Picnic Today

The Extensioneers, the Mount Prospect senior citizen groups will hold the annual picnic today at Veterans' Acres in Crystal Lake.

The club will entertain members of Girl Scout Junior Troops 521 and 237 who baked cupcakes for the seniors during the year. The bus will leave the Community Presbyterian Church, 407 N. Main St. in Mount Prospect at 9:15. Seniors should bring their own lunch. Cost of the outing is 50 cents.

On July 20, the Extensioneers will lunch at Indian Trail Restaurant in Winnetka and visit the Bahai Temple in Wilmette. Cost of transportation and lunch is $4.75. On July 27, the group will attend a special showing of the "Fantastiks," a musical comedy, at the Tralee Farm Restaurant in Barrington. The bus will leave the church at 10:15 a.m. Cost of the outing is $5.

A TRIP TO Ravinia Park is scheduled for Aug. 6. The bus, which is being paid for by five patrons of Ravinia, will leave the church at 4:30 p.m. Tickets are $3. Seniors can bring a basket lunch or purchase refreshments at the park.

The Extensioneers will take a three-day trip to Wisconsin Dells on Aug. 9, 10 and 11. Cost of the trip, which includes lodging and transportation, via air-conditioned bus, is $39.

Members of the group are now planning for the Northwest Suburban area senior citizen tour of Hawaii which leaves Sept. 30. During the 15-day visit, senior citizens will tour five of the Hawaiian islands, take the Polynesian culture tour, and attend an Hawaiian luau. Cost of the trip, which includes lodging, transportation and special outings, is $709.

Any senior citizen interested in taking part in the outings should call Elizabeth Meyer, Extensioneer director, at 255-3169.

School Board Unanimously Okays Teacher Contract

The Elk Grove Township Dist. 59 Board of Education unanimously approved a new contract for teachers Monday which would mean an average 6.8 per cent salary increase next year for the more than 525 teachers.

Harry Peterson, board president, said the new agreement called for a 2.3 per cent increase in the base pay. According to the current pay scale formula, teachers also will receive an average 4 per cent increment based on education and years of experience. Last week the Dist. 59 Teachers' Council overwhelmingly accepted the contract with 290 teachers voting to approve the agreement, six voting no and one abstaining.

In a joint statement by the Teachers' Council and the school board issued previously, the increase in the base teacher pay was labeled a cost-of-living increase. The contract for next full pays teacher pay at $16,942 with experience and education that includes a master's degree plus 30 additional hours of graduate work and 15 years of experience. Starting teacher pay with a bachelor's degree and no experience was set at $8,047.

This year starting pay for a teacher with a bachelor's degree and no experience was $7,828. The top pay was set at $16,480.

OTHER BENEFITS of the contract include a duty-free lunch period and changes in maternity and insurance benefits.

Tom Dresser, chief negotiator for the teachers, said last week the settlement was reasonable, but he was not overjoyed with it. "Considering the economic times, I'm pleased with it (contract)," he said. "The nonmoney portion of the agreement is very good to excellent. Concerning the money, it is difficult to expect much more considering the financial difficulties of the district."

Seven members from each negotiating team arrived at a tentative agreement June 9 after working four months on the contract.

The only other area elementary district with a new contract for next year is Mount Prospect Dist. 57 with a 3.9 per cent average pay increase for teachers.

School Board Delays Naming New Members

The River Trails Dist. 26 School Board has postponed appointment of two school board members until a special meeting June 29.

Board member Leora Rosen suggested the postponement because she said she wanted more time to consider residents who have applied for the vacancies. The special meeting will be held at 7:30 p.m. at the administration building, 1800 E. Kensington Rd.

Mount Prospect residents who were interviewed for the vacancies are Sylvia Lurie, 122 Bonnie Brae Ave.; William Haase, 1815 Camp McDonald Rd.; Michael Sheyker, 1306 Ironwood Dr.; Eugene Snyder, 1748 Carib Ln.; Otto Bouc, 910 Greenfield Ct.; and Le Roy Nattress, 811 Newberry Ln.

Nattress said yesterday he is withdrawing his name from consideration.

"If the appointment were given to me I could not serve without prejudice to current board members because of their failure to listen to their constituency," he said.

Nattress said both his interview and the board's reassignment of Bea Amundson, Peeshanville School principal, influenced his decision to withdraw. Nattress was one of several residents who spoke in support of Miss Amundson Tuesday before the board approved Supt. Tom Warden's recommendation for her reassignment.

School Group's Suit Is Awaiting Court Ruling

A class action suit challenging alleged underassessments at Cook County racetracks is pending a ruling on a similar but broader suit filed in U. S. Federal Court.

Ten Chicago area school districts affected by alleged racetrack underassessments have joined the Joint Service Program, a subgroup of the Illinois Association of School Boards, (IASB), to file a class action suit against Cook County Assessor P. J. Cullerton.

Ron Booth, director of IASB, said the Joint Service Program was ready to file the suit but was awaiting the outcome of a similar suit filed in Federal Court on behalf of Donald Page Moore, an unsuccessful candidate for the democratic nomination for Cook County States Attorney.

The Moore suit also alleges misassessments of properties but does not stop at the racetracks. The Moore suit asks the court to appoint an assessor to correct misassessments throughout Cook County.

Thomas Meites, one of Moore's attorneys, said a hearing in the case is scheduled for the first week in September.

"WHEN THE hearing takes place we will file our own suit or intervene on behalf of the districts," said Booth. "If the suit (Moore's) is successful and an immediate reassessment of property is called for, we will have avoided the cost of a separate suit and be able to return fees to the districts involved."

The class action suit was prompted when the Citizens Action Program (CAP) released figures they had compiled on alleged underassessments at the racetracks last fall.

Four local school districts encompassing Arlington Park Race Track have allocated funds to join the suit. They are Palatine-Rolling Meadows Dist. 15, High School Dist. 211 and 214 and Harper College Dist. 512.

Intersection

Work Delayed

Improvement work on the Central Road-Northwest Highway intersection in Mount Prospect originally scheduled to be completed early next month, has encountered a 90-day delay.

Village Mgr. Robert J. Eppley said the $17,000 traffic signal controller had not been ordered by the contractor until last Monday. He said it takes 90 days to build and deliver this equipment.

The new traffic light standards and islands have already been installed in the intersection. What remains to be done is installation of the controller and the signals themselves.

G. A. Rafel Co. is the contractor for the intersection work, a TOPICS project. TOPICS (Traffic Operations Program to Increase Capacity and Safety) means that 50 per cent is paid for with federal funds and 25 per cent each by the village and the state.

Seek Hit-And-Run Driver, Cadillac

Mount Prospect Police are looking for a white four-door Cadillac involved in a hit-and-run accident Saturday night.

Wendell A. Kalek, 21 of 182 Mohave St., Hoffman Estates, was struck by the car and spent the weekend in Northwest Community Hospital. He was released Monday.

The accident took place about 7 p.m. at Central Road and Northwest Highway. Police said Kalek's motorcycle had blown a fuse and he had stopped to fix it. According to a witness, the driver of the Cadillac appeared to deliberately swerve to hit Kalek. Police said the witness momentarily stopped the Cadillac with his own car, but the Cadillac's driver pulled around him and left the scene.

Police have the offender's license plate number.

Humans Barking For Law To Curtail 'Constitutionals'

Mount Prospect dogs may find their daily constitutional severely curtailed, if human residents back loud enough to get the village to pass an anti-defecation ordinance.

As they did three years ago, the village's public health and safety committee is discussing the creation of such an ordinance, which would regulate where dogs could defecate or at least make sure the dogs' owners would clean up afterwards.

Village Mgr. Robert J. Eppley last week said he has received half a dozen complaints about dog droppings in private yards. He said residents feel it has become a health problem in some areas.

Trustee Daniel J. Ahern, committee chairman, said that enforcement always is a problem.

"We should first see if the people are interested enough in having such a law," he said. He suggested if people were interested, they either call or write Eppley at the village hall.

Another member of the committee, Trustee Kenneth V. Scholten, said that the newly annexed area "feels the most strongly" on the issue (This is the "New Town" area.)

In July, the Mount Prospect Jaycees will consider passing petitions for such an ordinance in that area, Scholten said. He is a member of the Jaycees.

Find Teen Guilty Of Having Alcohol

David P. White, 17, of 1831 Cree Ln., Mount Prospect, was found guilty of possession of alcohol by a minor and fined $25 Friday in Mount Prospect Court. A second charge of resisting arrest was dropped by the police department.

White was arrested May 12 behind the Mount Prospect Plaza Shopping Center. When apprehended, White had allegedly struck Patrolman Michael Salatiello in an attempt to flee.

New Doctor

Mark Craig Smedley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert E. Smedley, 503 S. Pine St., Mount Prospect, received a doctor of medicine degree recently from Indiana University School of Medicine.

A 1964 graduate of Prospect High School, Dr. Smedley has been accepted to intern at Methodist Hospital, Indianapolis, and will complete his residency in neurology at Indiana University Medical Center.

Dr. Smedley is married to the former Sharon Morris of Mount Prospect, a graduate of Prospect High School and University of Illinois. They now live at 7750 Knue Rd., Indianapolis.

Suit Challenging Track Assessing Waits U.S. Ruling

A class action suit challenging alleged underassessments at Cook County race tracks is pending a ruling on a similar but broader suit filed in U. S. Federal Court.

Ten Chicago area school districts affected by alleged racetrack underassessments have joined the Joint Service Program, a subgroup of the Illinois Association of School Boards, (IASB), to file a class action suit against Cook County Assessor P. J. Cullerton.

Ron Booth, director of IASB, said the Joint Service Program was ready to file the suit but was awaiting the outcome of a similar suit filed in Federal Court on behalf of Donald Page Moore, an unsuccessful candidate for the democratic nomination for Cook County State Attorney.

The Moore suit also alleges misassessments of properties but does not stop at the racetracks. The Moore suit asks the court to appoint an assessor to

Summer Has New Twist For 600 Mothers Here

by CINDY TEW

Summer vacation has a new meaning to more than 600 mothers in Arlington Heights School Dist. 25.

Not only is it a time to have the children home from school, but it's time to be home with them — instead of in school with them.

The mothers were volunteers in the 18 district schools this year, and are as happy that summer vacation is here as are their children.

Dorothy Simon, however, is ready for fall already. Head librarian at Park School, Mrs. Simon has 11 volunteers already scheduled for the coming year. The librarian position at the school was part of the budget cuts last year.

"One of the women who is coming back next year won't even have a child at Park School," Mrs. Simon said. "That's what I call dedication."

MRS. SIMON has been a dedicated volunteer this year as she helped move the Park School library into larger quarters and develop a catalogue system. She also cleaned up the files and ordered about 75 books with the help of teachers and students.

"I love to read and also like to keep things in order," she said.

Her dedication is typical of the volunteer mothers, most of whom serve the school district through the Volunteer Service Bureau of Northwest Cook County. The bureau provides a coordinator at each school who is responsible for filling the volunteer needs of the school as seen by teachers and principals.

Most requests come for help in library-learning centers and learning disability classes where some cuts were made last year because of a referendum that didn't pass.

"We sent out requests through the children asking parents to volunteer at the beginning of the year, and we were very successful," said Jane Sutton, coordinator of Park School. More than 2,400 volunteer hours were accumulated at that school by about 22 mothers.

MARY GARNETT, coordinator of Westgate School, calls volunteering her "civic duty."

"The school district needed help after the funds were cut, and I like being involved where I'm needed," she said.

During the 1970-71 school year, the Volunteer Service Bureau provided 4,000 hours worth of help to the district. During the past school year, the total is expected to come to about 25,000 hours.

"There was a greater need this year for volunteers," said Esther Rabchuk, bureau director. "People were aware of the need and pitched in."

According to the working mothers, volunteering can be a very rewarding experience, even if it is only two to three hours weekly, which was the year's average.

"You get back much more than you give, especially when you're a volunteer, and know that you're really helping children," said Mrs. Garnett.

YOGA, AS PRACTICED by Michelle Halverson at Kensington School in Arlington Heights School Dist. 25 is one of many activities that would not have been included in the curriculum if it hadn't been for volunteer help. Over 100 parent volunteers, working through the Volunteer Service Bureau of Northwest Cook County, helped make a fair possible at Kensington School as they trained students one day a week in languages, arts and crafts, theater and other interest areas.

High Schoolers Did Volunteer Work, Too

While parents of children in Arlington Heights School Dist. 25 provided the bulk of volunteer hours in the schools this year, students from area high schools also helped their younger brothers and sisters.

At Ridge School, more than 12 Arlington High School students tried out the role of teacher. While some students are thinking of teaching as a possible career, others just wanted to put their time to good use.

"I didn't want to sit in study hall," said Bob White who worked an hour a day in a second grade class at Ridge. Bob has no aspirations to be a teacher, however. He wants to go into body shop work on automobiles.

While Bob helped in various academic areas, some of his classmates worked on extracurricular activities.

John Chapman taught wrestling and Diane Dustman and Pam Curran taught folk singing, for instance. Ridge teachers provided an hour to their students who were interested in one of the programs.

"The students worked out very well, and I think they learned a lot from the young teachers," said Jim Hall, principal of Ridge School.

At Kensington School, about 35 students from Prospect High School, which is right next door, help around the school. Some worked in the office, and others worked in the classroom.

"They usually work with teachers in special or enrichment areas," said Katherine McElroy, principal of the school. "Members of the high school's orchestra dance group for example helped teach dancing."

Two Charged In Bookie Phone Line

Two Michigan men have been arrested by Arlington Heights police and charged with illegally transmitting betting information on races at Arlington Park Race Track to a Detroit bookmaker.

Police detectives said that walkie-talkie radios were used by the pair to relay betting odds and early race results from inside the race track to one of the men who would be stationed at a pay telephone near the Arlington Park Shell service station at the corner of Wilke Road and Euclid Avenue.

The telephone was used to relay the racing information to a Detroit bookmaker, police say.

John Patrick McGee, 22, of Detroit, was apprehended by officers of the Illinois Bureau of Race Track Police Tuesday after they observed him with the walkie-talkie inside the track.

McGee later was turned over to Arlington Heights police.

A SECOND MAN, James Riggio, of Grosse Pointe Woods, Mich., who allegedly worked with McGee in the information relay network, was arrested by Arlington Heights police a short time later as he was leaving the track grandstand.

Detectives say they had been observing the pair several days prior to their arrest.

Both men also were charged with possession of amphetamines after a police search of their car reportedly turned up a bottle of pills later identified as amphetamines.

Bond for the men was set at $5,000 each with a preliminary court date scheduled June 23.

Construction Shutdown In Offing?

by LEA TONKIN

As contractors and construction workers continue their counterattacks in the current round of contract negotiations, the possibility of a massive Chicago area construction shutdown moves closer to reality.

A limited number of slowdowns and work stoppages by carpenters and cement masons were reported as of late Wednesday in the Northwest suburbs.

However, carpenters announced Wednesday that additional picketing sites may be announced today in the Chicago area. And the Mid-America Regional Bargaining Association (MARBA), announced it may enforce an area wide lockout in retaliation against selective strikes and picketing by the cement masons and carpenters.

Approximately 2,000 of the Carpenters Chicago District Council's 30,000 members were on strike Wednesday, reported George Vest, president. Among the suburban sites selected for strikes was the parking facility at O'Hare International Airport.

Cement Masons Local 502 (Cook County) reported Wednesday that selective picketing continued as negotiations with

Family Who Lost Daughter Seeks To Help Other Children

Lee Mudlaff feels that he and his wife Carol owe something to many people in the Northwest suburbs. And he feels that contractors are in a deadlock. A meeting is slated for this morning to determine additional picketing sites, said a union spokesman.

APPROXIMATELY 800 contractors at a unity rally held Tuesday night in Chicago voted to continue their contract offers to the 2,200 member Cement Masons Local 502 (Cook County) and the Chicago District Council of Carpenters.

At that meeting, the area contractor group, a conglomerate of 14 contractor organizations, warned that the selective strikes could bring a lockout of all the members in these trades throughout the Chicago metropolitan area.

A meeting will be held this afternoon by MARBA executives to decide what action to take in response to the ongoing strikes and picketing. Should a lockout occur, nearly 100,000 construction workers would be idled. Approximately $2 1/2 billion in highways, residential, commercial and industrial construction, and other building projects would be halted.

In the meantime, some confusion was reported at Northwest suburban construction sites.

"TO SAY THE LEAST, the situation is almost chaotic," said project foreman Jerry Harker at a Levitt and Sons, Inc., residential construction site in Schaumburg. "We have three subdivisions here, at two of which we have a full force of carpenters working. The other one started with a picket line up this morning."

The picket line disappeared later in the day, but so did some of the men, reported Harker. "We're going with whatever men we've got," Harker said. He noted that the other trades honored the carpenter picket lines at the Sheffield Park project.

At the Huntington Apartments in Mount Prospect, carpenters were on the job yesterday, but said they'll picket if the word comes down from the Chicago District Council.

Construction continued in the residential projects by Centex Winston in Elk Grove Village.

Carpenters stayed on the job site, but cement masons were on strike at the Palatine Junior High construction site as of late Wednesday.

Rolling Meadows sidewalk projects continued on schedule yesterday. However, city superintendent of public works James McEgan reported a curb replacement program could be halted by cement mason strikes.

SHERMAN DAUTEL, business manager for three Northwest Suburban Carpenters Union locals, said Wednesday that the parking garage project at O'Hare is the major area picketing site. He works for Local #39 in Des Plaines, 116 in Arlington Heights and 2014 in Barrington.

The major grievance is "working conditions rather than money," said Dautel. Claiming that working conditions "date back to 1912," they want us to work from 1 a.m. to 6 p.m.," Dautel said the carpenters will strike additional construction sites unless grievances are settled.

A lunch break is the cause of Cement Masons and MARBA disagreements. The two groups did agree on a 33-cent-an-hour boost in wages and benefits. This would raise the workers' pay from the present $9.71 an hour to $10.24 an hour. The union has refused to accept a contractor request for flexible lunch hours.

Parks Planning Star Game Trip

A trip to the College All-Star-Dallas Cowboy football game at Soldier Field is being planned by the Arlington Heights Park District for July 28 at 6 p.m.

Everyone in the park district is welcome to participate, but children under 18 years old must be accompanied by an adult. Tickets and transportation will cost $6.75 per person.

Signup is now being held for the trip at Frontier Park, 1933 N. Kennicott. The signup list will be closed July 5.

Hike To River Trails Slated For Tuesday

A nature hike and picnic to River Trails will be held Tuesday with a bus leaving from Hashbrook Park at 10 a.m. and Frontier Park at 10:15 a.m.

The day's activities, directed by Tom Richardson, Hashbrook and Frontier Park recreation director, will be free of charge. Each child should bring a bag lunch and beverage, however.

Signup for the event is open to all residents of the Arlington Heights Park District, and is being held at Frontier Park, 1933 N. Kennicott.

these people owe it to themselves and their families to help him pay off that debt.

In December, the Mudlaffs, former Palatine residents, who now live in Delavan, Wis., lost their three-year-old daughter, Mandy, to neuroblastoma, one of the deadliest varieties of childhood cancer.

During the long siege of Mandy's illness, many people rallied behind the Mudlaffs with support and money. Locally, friends raised several thousand dollars toward hospital expenses through the "Money for Mandy" fund.

Now Mudlaff feels he has found a way to give something back to those he says gave so much to him.

The Mudlaffs and an Elkhorn, Wis., couple, Dr. and Mrs. G.E. Richards (who also lost a young daughter to cancer), are trying to get people interested in a new test that reportedly can accurately diagnose neuroblastoma in young children.

Lee Mudlaff

dren.

The test was developed by Dr. Arnold S. Leonard and his colleagues at the University of Minnesota School of Medicine where Leonard is head of pediatric surgery.

IN MARCH, Leonard explained the test to newsmen attending the American Cancer Society's annual seminar for science writers.

The test, which is marketed by Kalles-Lad Laboratories of Minneapolis, can be administered at a cost of less than 14 cents.

Basically, a child's urine is tested for a substance called vanillmandelic acid (VMA) which is found in the urine of about 80 per cent of patients with neuroblastoma.

A test strip is dipped in a child's urine or is placed on an infant's wet diaper. Within ten minutes the strip will turn from its original yellow color to dark purple if VMA is present in the urine.

Leonard told the writers at the seminar that the test helped the doctor identify six positive cases of neuroblastoma. In addition, every known case of neuroblastoma tested registered positive.

The Mudlaffs and Richards learned of Dr. Leonard's discovery through newspaper stories and wrote to the physician himself to learn more.

They found out that the test is already being extensively used in Minnesota and Canada. But they also learned that news of the test has not yet been circulated in medical journals and probably will not appear there until later this summer.

SO THE TWO couples decided to try to spread the word themselves and line up support for the program. They have been very successful in Wisconsin.

This Thursday, primarily through the efforts of the Mudlaffs and Richards, a free clinic will open in Elkhorn at which the tests for neuroblastoma will be administered.

The two couples plan to repeat the clinics in the future (the test should be administered to young children several times a year) and are trying to interest others in participating in similar clinics.

That's what brought Lee Mudlaff back to this area yesterday.

He is trying to interest community groups in the testing program. If that fails he hopes to reach parents and doctors, and convince them that the test for neuroblastoma should be a routine part of a child's checkup.

One local group has already told Mudlaff that they might be interested in establishing a clinic similar to the one located in Elkhorn. He said he is waiting for a firm commitment. Mudlaff's sister, Joan Strickland, was instrumental in leading him to the interested organization.

The important thing, he feels, is to let people know the dangers of neuroblastoma and let them know that there is a method by which it can be diagnosed early enough to save lives.

IT IS ESTIMATED, Mudlaff says, that one in 8,000 children contract neuroblastoma. In the majority of the cases it is not diagnosed until it has already spread from its origin in the nervous system.

When it spreads, the five-year cure rate is less than five per cent. Most victims die within a year of diagnosis.

If, however, it is caught before it has spread, 80 per cent long-term survival is possible. Mandy Mudlaff was diagnosed only after her cancer had spread. She died less than three months after diagnosis.

Most victims are younger than five years old. And according to Leonard's statistics, more than 1,500 children died from neuroblastoma between 1960 and 1964.

PUCKER UP. Lyman Gould warms up for his big moment Friday night. Gould and about 60 other Northwest suburban residents are members of the Palatine Village

Band, which opens its summer concert series this week. The performances will be at 8 p.m. each Friday at the Palatine Hills recreation area in Palatine.

Judo Demonstration Scheduled For July 5

Larry Sachs, a black belt in Judo, will give a free demonstration of his skills July 5 at Camelot Park, 1005 E. Suffolk, Arlington Heights. Included in his demonstration will be three young judo students aged 15, 13 and 10.

Bikers To Celebrate Swedish Day Sunday

Swedish Day Festival at Geneva, Ill., will be included in Sunday's Arlington Heights Park District Bicycle Association bike ride around Geneva.

Anyone in the district who wishes to ride with the association should meet at Recreation Park, 300 E. Miner at 9 a.m. Reservations should be made by calling Al Heuer, 392-5777.

Low Cost Housing Opponent Eyed For Housing Panel

The president of a Des Plaines group opposed to low and moderate-income housing will be considered for appointment to the city's special housing commission, created in February to examine local housing problems.

Joseph Botte, president of Des Plaines Citizens Opposed to Low and Moderate-Income Housing, joins 12 other residents now being considered for the commission. The seven-member panel will consist of an attorney, a licensed contractor, an expert in mortgage finance and four other residents.

Des Plaines Mayor Herbert Behrel has not indicated how many more residents may be added to the consideration list. He has not said when he will submit his own final recommendations, or when he will ask for final council action on the appointments.

Botte's name was added to the list Monday night, after Mayor Behrel read a letter signed by Botte asking to serve on the commission.

A motion was made by Ald. Joseph Szabo (1st) and seconded by Ald. Robert Sherwood (2nd) to include Botte among those being considered. These actions, according to council procedures, made Botte a candidate for appointment.

Behrel had stated soon after creation of the commission last winter that he had received letters from both Botte and the Rev. John Peterson, who had led a group in favor of low and moderate-income housing. Both asked to be appointed to the commission.

BEHREL INDICATED that he did not want to appoint residents who already had formed unalterable opinions on housing issues.

Behrel did not submit Botte's or the Rev. Mr. Peterson's name in the first list

Hunt For Reported Drowning Victim Still Unsuccessful

The search for a missing Glenview boy, feared drowned in Beck Lake north of Des Plaines, continued unsuccessfully for the third day yesterday.

The youth, William Schultz, 16, of Glenview, reportedly drowned Monday afternoon while swimming to shore from an island in the middle of the forest preserve lake located at E. River and Central roads.

Since Monday, 15 divers from 10 suburban fire and police departments have been searching the lake during daylight hours. Tuesday, a U.S. Coast Guard helicopter assisted in the search, circling the lake in an unsuccessful effort to spot the youth's body from above.

Yesterday, the Cook County Sheriff's police tactical squad with help from 10 volunteers from the Glenview Naval Air Station, began a search of the forest preserve woods near the lake.

Sgt. Clyde Abney, who headed up the tactical squad's search unit, told the Herald the men were also searching the woods because no one actually saw the Schultz youth drown in the lake.

ACCORDING TO police, Schultz swam out to the island, about 100 yards from shore, with another youth Monday afternoon. The companion, whose name was not released, told police Schultz said he was too tired to make the return swim to shore.

The other youth then returned to shore alone and left the area while Schultz was still on the island, he told police. The missing boy's shoes were found on shore Tuesday.

The searchers plan to continue their efforts today. Police said Beck Lake will remain closed to the public until the search is completed.

of possible appointees presented last month to the council. However, he did include names of residents who had stated publicly that they either favored or opposed low and moderate-income housing.

Botte wrote letters to the Herald and to Behrel asking that his name be added, and Behrel agreed Monday night to read a letter from Botte to the council.

The Rev. Mr. Peterson was unavailable for comment yesterday.

In his letter, Botte wrote that "the wishes of the majority in Des Plaines must have a strong voice in the Housing Commission. I can and will serve that purpose."

He stated that "shortly after the formation of the housing commission, I expect every social agency in this area to inundate the commission with tons of loaded statistics attempting to prove why low-income housing must be recommended immediately. I would be able to successfully rebut their arguments; others may not."

According to Botte, about half of the names included in the list under consideration have been associated with groups that favor such housing.

THE 13 under consideration include Botte, Raymond Schuepfer, former building commissioner; Jerry Perkins, 1179 Margaret St., an officer of the Des Plaines Citizens Opposed to Low and Moderate-Income housing and also a member of the John Birch Society of Des Plaines; Mrs. Alan Lapides, who headed a League of Women Voters Study group which recommended construction of low and moderate-income housing in Des Plaines.

Others are George Mott, 1736 Stockton Ave., former chairman of the city's human relations commission; Anne Evans, 986 Jeannette St., former Constitutional Convention delegate and chairman of a citizens group for reelection of Gov. Ogilvie; and George Olen, 1242 White St., chairman of the human relations commission who spoke against low and moderate-income housing at a public hearing last fall.

Also Stuart Edinoff, 1267 Earl Ave., an officer of the Des Plaines Jaycees and a real estate salesman; Bert Thompson, STORY TELLER Rouven Gold told tales from a number of different cultures Tuesday night to an audience at Place For People youth center, 1415 Ellinwood St., Des Plaines, as part of Place For People Week activities. A 72-hour marathon fund raiser volleyball game, which will end Saturday, got under way late yesterday at Immanuel Lutheran School. Also as part of the week's activities, the youth center will sponsor a concert-carnival from 2 to 10 p.m. at People's Park on Dee Road north of Dempster Street.

Revise Bidding Methods

The Des Plaines City Council has unanimously revised the city's bidding procedures to limit Des Plaines Mayor Herbert Behrel's powers to authorize advertising for bids.

Under the revision, passed this week by the council, aldermen must authorize advertising for bids on each item or group of items before city purchases can be made.

Under the former system, the council has approved a list of proposed purchases when the city's budget is created early in the year. As each city department head decides a purchase is needed, the mayor or City Clerk Eleanor Rohrbach would authorize bids. The council would vote on which bid to accept.

Council members felt that they should participate more in deciding when to advertise for bids. They also felt they should be given more opportunity to decide whether the purchase is really necessary.

The issue of who should authorize advertising for bids arose this spring, when Behrel ordered advertisement for bids on a water main extension, which the city council's water and sewer committee had ordered delayed until the city received a comprehensive report on the city's water system.

Behrel said he was acting under authority granted to him in 1969 to act without council approval on advertising for bids. Aldermen decided to change this ordinance.

The underlying issue, according to some aldermen, was whether the mayor has too much power and whether the council is a "rubber stamp."

Schools Must Get More For Money: Gogo

by KATHERINE BOYCE

Cutting school costs and improving the quality of education at East Maine Elementary Dist. 63 will require greater use of volunteer help and development of more mechanical teaching aids, according to George A. Gogo, new superintendent of schools.

At a press conference Tuesday, Gogo said "schools must get much more value out of the dollars they are spending now. And one of the ways to do this is research."

Gogo, 43, will take over duties as superintendent July 1. He now is director of laboratory schools at Northern Illinois University, where teaching equipment and new teaching methods are studied and tested.

GOGO SAID schools should encourage students to accept more responsibility for learning on their own while in school.

"I think we can develop some productive programs at East Maine," he said. "We should try to create opportunities where children can play a more vigorous and independent role in what they learn."

"Public schools cannot continue to invest the number of dollars they do invest in human resources," he said. "I'm not suggesting you reduce teacher salaries, but a large portion of the teacher's time is spent in unprofessional work such as clerical and testing."

Dist. 63 schools now make use of a Teacher's Aid Program that gives community volunteers the opportunity to help out in the classroom by reading to children, working on a special problem with a small group or performing some of the many clerical duties connected with teaching.

Volunteers can play a "vital role" in the classroom as long as they are qualified and can work to free the teacher for more professional work, said Gogo.

Gogo said 80 per cent of next year's tentative Dist. 63 budget is for salaries. (continued on page 2)

Consider Animal Laws

A Des Plaines City Council committee plans to seek solutions to health and safety problems created by cats, wild animals kept as pets, and domesticated farm animals within the city limits.

The council's city code and judiciary committee, chaired by Ald. Alan Abrams (3rd), will meet soon to discuss ordinances, which may extend city licensing and regulation powers beyond present controls over pet dogs.

In 15 minutes of discussion at Monday night's city council meeting, aldermen discussed whether cats should be licensed and rabies shots required.

City Atty. Robert DiLeonardi and Police Chief Arthur Hintz also asked for city ordinances controlling wild animals and farm animals. No law now exists which would prevent a resident from owning a lion, wolf, or other large carnivorous animal, DiLeonardi has said.

Abrams told the council that his committee had learned, in two meetings with cat owners and other interested groups, that neither the state nor the county requires cats to get rabies shots.

His committee has felt that the only action which should be taken would be to establish penalties for cat owners who allow their pets to harm people or property.

Abrams said that requiring cats to have rabies shots would also necessitate licensing of cats. He was told by many cat owners that forcing a cat to wear a collar, with a license, would harm the health of the animal. Residents said that cats not raised with collars will choke themselves if required to wear a collar, Abrams said.

Since cats can stray across city limits, Abrams does not feel that giving rabies shots to local cats alone would be effective.

Steal Auto Tools, Television Set

Auto repair tools valued at $235 and a portable television set valued at $70, were stolen from a west side Des Plaines auto repair shop sometime Saturday night.

Police said Sandy's Auto Clinic, 956 Lee St. was broken into by thieves who removed two hydraulic floor jacks and four portable stands as well as the television set.

3 Found Guilty On Theft Charges

Three Chicago men arrested by Des Plaines police May 31 for allegedly burglarizing a west side pharmaceutical supply company, were found guilty on reduced charges of theft Tuesday in the Niles branch of Cook County Circuit court.

Tyrone Thomas, 27, of 5033 N. Winthrop; Nathaniel Larkin, 22, of 725 W. 59th St. and Darrell Merritt, 27, of 9027 Marshfield were all placed on one year's probation by Associate Judge George Zimmermann after pleading guilty. A charge of possession of marijuana against Merritt was dropped.

Zimmermann also ordered Larkin to serve the first 90 days of his sentence in the Cook County jail, Merritt the first 60 days of his sentence in county jail and Thomas the first seven days.

The three men were apprehended by police at the Des Plaines Oasis on the Northwest Tollway following an auto chase from the A. H. Robins Co., 69 Rawls Rd. where the trio allegedly stole five cases of cough syrup.

This Morning In Brief

The Nation

More than 1,000 residents and vacationers fled Teton, Calif., when a levee crumbled and sent up to 15 feet of water rushing across a low lying delta island. No fatalities were immediately reported.

The cost of living rose by 0.3 per cent in May despite the first drop in supermarket prices in seven months, and the administration waned the decline might already be erased by a new surge in food costs.

A uniformed gunman shot and killed seven persons and wounded at least three others in a shooting spree in Cherry Hill, N.J.

The men apprehended in Democratic national headquarters may have been removing electronic devices already used to eavesdrop, rather than installing new ones, it was reported in Washington, D.C.

Sen. George McGovern in New York, assured of more than 1,200 delegate votes and a possible first-ballot victory at the Democratic Convention, called on Democrats to unite to defeat President Nixon.

An undetermined number of federal troops will be assigned to the Miami area for use as required to avert violence at the Democratic and Republican conventions this summer.

On a crucial test vote, the House approved the President's controversial bill to share federal revenues with the states and cities.

MILES MLODOCH and Darice Quinnett rehearsed this week with other cast members of the Des Plaines Park District Footlighters' week end production, "Triune, A One Act Festival."

Democrats Choose Edwin Frank To Oppose Crane

Democrats in the 12th Congressional District have named Edwin L. Frank, 42, of Hoffman Estates, to carry the fight against the reelection of Republican U.S. Rep. Philip M. Crane.

Frank was selected from among six applicants for the job by the 12th Congressional District Democratic Committee composed of township committeemen in Cook County and Herbert L. (Hub) Stern of Waukegan, Lake County Democratic chairman.

State Rep. Daniel Pierce, D-Highland Park, state central committeeman and chairman of the district committee, said the committee selected Frank largely on the basis of his past political experience.

Frank has been active in Schaumburg Township party affairs and is currently treasurer and parliamentarian of the township Democratic organization.

He has played an active part in campaigns for state Rep. Eugene S. Chapman, D-Arlington Heights, and in the two campaigns by former state Rep. Ed Warman of Skokie against Crane.

PIERCE SAID Frank demonstrated a wide acquaintance among Democratic committeemen and "appeared quite knowledgeable" about issues in the coming election.

Others who sought the job of running against Crane included Mrs. Betty Spence of Buffalo Grove, Mrs. Irene Pitke of Hoffman Estates, Julian Kahn of Highland Park, James Frankel of Highland Park, and Marshall Rothman of Barrington, an unsuccessful candidate for the Democratic nomination for the state senate in the March primary.

All but Mrs. Pitke and Frankel appeared before the committee to present their credentials, Pierce said. Mrs. Pitke is currently in Europe. Frankel's qualifications were presented by Stern.

The committee began its search for a candidate following the withdrawal last month of Charles W. Houchins, who attracted some 18,000 votes as an unopposed candidate for the Democratic nomination in March.

Frank is a former Hoffman Estates park commissioner and is executive vice president of an Aurora advertising agency. He holds a marketing degree from Rutgers University and formerly taught at the State University of New York in Orange County and worked as a part-time reporter for Pioneer Press.

He said the figure is not unusual when compared with other districts but that it is still too high. "We're capable of doing more things in schools without hiring more people," he said.

GOGO REPLACES Frank Dagne, who resigned as superintendent in April and will be serving as a consultant for the district until June 30. Donald Stetina, assistant superintendent for personnel, is acting superintendent.

Gogo said he plans to evaluate all educational programs in the district. "I think the school district needs to declare just what it is designed to do" and then design programs to fit that purpose, he said. He hopes to create a district curriculum council and a district faculty advisory council which will be involved in formulating educational programs and proposals to be submitted to the school board for approval.

Gogo was appointed director of NIU laboratory schools in 1968 following five years as a school administrator in Spain. He received his bachelor's degree in elementary education from Wayne State University, a master's degree in secondary education and a doctorate in educational administration from the University of Michigan.

Gogo is editor of "The Newsletter," published by the National Association of Laboratory Schools, as well as an executive board member and chairman of the subcommittee on purpose of that organization. He is also a member of the Northern Illinois Research Council and the Superintendent's Roundtable. During the 1961-62 school year he served as curriculum associate for the "Greater Cities Project" in Detroit.

$2,600 Motorcycle, Camera, Stolen

A 1971 Harley-Davidson motorcycle valued at $2,600 and a camera and tools valued at $75 were stolen from the driveway of a Des Plaines home sometime early Sunday morning.

Richard Wise, 1551 Ashland Ave., told police the motorcycle was removed from a trailer after thieves cut a chain attaching it to the trailer.

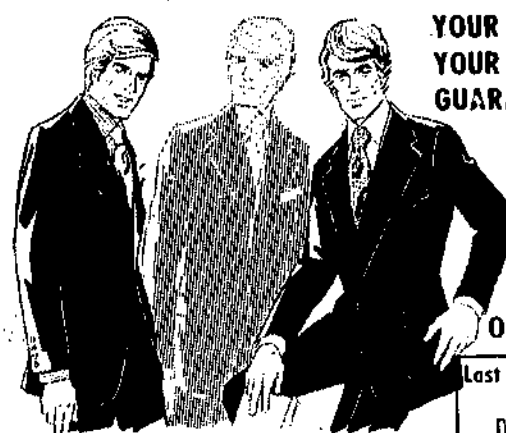

Wise said the tools and small camera were taken from an auto which was locked at the time. He said the theft took place sometime between 2:30 a.m. and 5:30 a.m.

Reports Theft

Thieves broke into a basement storage locker in a west side Des Plaines apartment building Monday night and stole two drills and a movie projector valued at $283.

According to police, thieves removed the door hinges to the storage space belonging to Raymond Davidson, 640 Murray Ln.

421 Beau Dr., a former Racine, Wis. alderman and attorney for a large insurance company; Robert Nebgen, a Park Ridge teacher who has written letters to the Herald favoring low and moderate-income housing.

Also Drake Mertes, 1524 Sixth Ave., a 21-year-old Northwestern University student who has written a study on Des Plaines housing problems; the Rev. Donald Hallberg, former associate pastor at the Trinity Lutheran Church, 567 Algonquin Rd.; and Lee Marconi, 454 N. Cambridge Ave., a contractor.

As proof that some on the list favor low and moderate-income housing, Botte indicates in the letter that four are associated with the League of Women Voters, which has said low and moderate-income housing is needed in Des Plaines.

THOSE ASSOCIATED with the League are Mrs. Evans and Mrs. Lapides, who are members, and Edinoff and Thompson, whose wives are members.

Botte does not indicate how Rev. Hallberg is identified with pro-low and moderate-income housing. Rev. Hallberg is a board member of the Maine Township Mental Health Association, is now employed by a welfare agency.

Nebgen, has "published views in favor of low-income housing," Botte states.

These residents, when contacted by the Herald, said they would be able to examine city local housing problems objectively. They said they would not make conclusions until they heard all the facts.

In past interviews with the Herald, Botte has also said he feels he could hear both sides of every issue and make objective decisions.

Botte has been a resident of the city for a year. He and his family moved to Des Plaines from a racially changing south-side Chicago community.

Botte is a gas company serviceman. He and his wife Deborah have two children, Sharon, 10, and Jennifer, 7.

HE ORGANIZED THE Des Plaines Citizens group to gather together opponents of proposals for low and moderate-income housing, which had been presented to the council. Botte has stated that his group now has 300 active members. A petition with 2,500 signatures was presented last fall to the council indicating opposition to the proposals.

Botte angrily demanded at a public hearing that only Des Plaines residents be allowed to speak on low and moderate-income housing. Botte's group proposed impeachment or recall of Ald. Robert Michaels (R) because he sought to get council authorization for the new commission to study low and moderate-income housing.

Last night was the first in the Place For People Volleyball marathon. I was playing and am still alive. Please feel free to stop by — especially if you're a sponsor — day or night until Saturday at 5 p.m. to watch. It is being held at Immanuel Lutheran School gym.

Again thanks to those people who are sponsoring me. I'm now playing for $12.49 an hour plus $96 in flat donations. After last week's column I received these additional sponsors: Betty Stackhouse, Renata Prell, the Democratic Women's Club of Des Plaines, White Oak Pharmacy, Cheryl Renna and Ken Clark.

A short note about Cheryl. She is sponsoring me for 61 cents an hour and none of it is her money. Cheryl, one of my babysitters, heard what I was doing and went out to get people to sponsor me through her.

I sponsored Cheryl in the Hike for Hungry but she got sick and wasn't able to go. When she was looking for sponsors for me she went to her ex-hike sponsors (who didn't have to pay up) and told them it would be like transferring their money to another worthwhile project. Bless you, kiddo.

I READ AN INCREDIBLE article recently which I can't get out of my mind. There is a clinic (so to speak) in New York or Boston or one of those refined Eastern cities that does nothing but attach fingernails to fingers.

They call it "fingernail transplants" and the ladies are breaking their doors down to get in. You can work it one of several ways: you can bring in your own nail that broke off and have it put back on; you can have your own private "nail bank" of fingernails you have had trimmed during earlier manicures; or you can draw from the clinic's own supply of ready-to-apply fingernails.

The operator of this thriving business even performs "emergency" transplants for clients who are willing to pay the extra amount. Women have been known to fly from their own city to the clinic after breaking a prized nail before a special event.

And it costs — oh boy, does it cost. What's bothering me is that someone is making a living from fingernails. I have never liked fingernails and always reserved the aura that surrounds them.

WHICH LEADS UP to my fingernail theory. Fingernails have prevented women from coming into their own and kept them second class citizens.

When you think of fingernails one of two visions come to mind — either the grower is the vampire type or the lady of leisure. The owner of inch-long, perfectly shaped and polished fingernails is also worshiped by the American male for her femininity.

The majority of American women are unable to maintain these tip-of-the-finger assets. Barring calcium deficiencies, they are unable to do so because their lifestyle prevents it.

Example: Typing, filing or other office work takes it toll on secretarial, clerical and other writer-type fingernails.

Example: Grubbing around the garden, pruning trees and trimming hedges, preparing the bar-be-que grill, and even setting up lawn chairs takes care of out-of-doors fingernails.

Example: Playing guitar and other stringed instruments (and even playing the piano) takes care of musical fingernails.

EXAMPLE: Scouring the bathroom, washing dishes, scrubbing floors, cleaning ovens, defrosting refrigerators and washing clothes may make fingernails clean but also snaps them off.

Example: Baseball, volleyball (had to get that in — you know) bowling and sometimes badminton, golf and tennis wipe out athletic fingernails.

IN FACT ABOUT the only thing that doesn't get fingernails is sitting on your duff reading.

The old picture of feminine womanhood was a lady sitting on her duff and letting the maid, nurse and gardener take care of the dirty work. That was a lady. And that's why ladies today get hysterical (I've even seen my sister sit down and cry) when the fingernail starts to tear.

If we changed the attitude of the nation and made long fingernails unfashionable we'd be doing a great service to all women as well as save some of them a lot of money on nail transplants.

Think of it: short fingernails are in. They are a sign of today's feminine woman — one who is intelligent and capable of typing a letter; one who is close to nature and loves outdoor activity; one who appreciates the finer things like music; one who is clean and enjoys water; one who is physically fit and cares about her health.

Looking down on the typewriter keys I feel better already. I feel repressed no longer. I feel sorry for the damsels in distress flying off for their transplants. I feel liberated. I feel like any minute someone is going to start playing the "Star Spangled Banner."

Membership Decline Hurts Legion

Something has happened to the American Legion in Cook County which has been thinning its ranks over the past two decades.

The decline in membership began after the Korean War. Veterans of that conflict (rugged home, secured jobs, got married) but unlike their predecessors most didn't join the legion. In the last 18 years, the legion roll call in Cook County has dwindled from 90,000 to 34,000, leaving some of the organization's officials a little concerned.

And the Vietnam era veteran, in whose hands the future of the organization seems to rest, thus far has been reluctant to enlist in the military-fraternal group like his father had done.

James Kissner, a drill sergeant during the second World War and now the division commander for Cook County's 324 Legion posts, attributes much of the decline to the "changing complexion of the county itself."

Veterans are leaving the city for the suburbs, he said, "and those who belonged in Chicago haven't re-upped" (re-enlisted) at suburban chapters.

Kissner himself "didn't know anything about the Palatine post until eight years after he was discharged from the service."

"I guess I drove by there (the Palatine Legion Hall) for a long time before I knew it existed," he said.

BUT KISSNER also acknowledged the "type of war" (Vietnam) may have something to do with the decline in the once burgeoning American Legion ranks.

"When we came home, we didn't worry whether it was a moral war or not. Everyone was close then... today most of the veterans don't care much for the war and the attitude is different."

John Helmer, a 25-year-old sergeant at arms of the Arlington Heights Merle Guild Post 208, voices optimism about the Vietnam veterans pulling the Cook County posts back to full membership.

"It is going to be a slow process and we have to let people know that it's run differently," Helmer said. "With new blood comes new ideas."

Helmer is one of four Vietnam era veterans who have decided to "re-up" at the Arlington Heights post out of a total membership of 1970. The bulk of the chapter consists of portly veterans whose most recent tour of duty was during World War II.

Don Bondi, post commander, said the recently discharged veteran "has too many other things to do besides worrying about joining. Getting established is more important for the younger man."

IN AN ATTEMPT to lure additional legionnaires and hold its present total, the Arlington Heights post has begun several community programs "to let people know what we're doing," said Bondi. The Merle Guild 208 is involved in a boys' baseball team and will start a hockey club soon.

Other activities include the boy's state program held yearly in Springfield for outstanding high school students, and a drum and bugle corps and Coronets girls drill team.

As Cook County's rolls are dwindling, downstate legion halls are prospering," said Kissner. "When they return to the smaller communities, they become a part of the town... Look at Springfield and Kankakee, they are doing well."

Cook County is one of the five American Legion divisions in Illinois. In the entire county only seven to eight per cent of eligible veterans belong, Kissner added.

He said there have been attempts to "open the membership" to all veterans, but the decision to do that rests with Congress which establishes dates for servicemen who are eligible. The American Legion was opened for membership Aug. 5, 1964 and all servicemen with an honorable discharge serving from that date until the end of the Vietnam War are eligible. "We have a Congressional charter and they will decide," Kissner said.

NORTHWEST SUBURBAN American Legion posts have few recruitment drives and obtain new members "by word of mouth" according to Kissner.

"We use personal contact to get people," he said. The newest area American Legion chapter is in Wheeling and has a membership of 56. An employee at the legion hall called it "an all time high." But only four of that number are Vietnam veterans.

Wheeling Post 1968, named in honor of a Wheeling man, Richard Blanchfield, who was killed in Vietnam, has been plagued by transfers. About 10 persons were transferred through their work last year and are no longer members.

Commander of Des Plaines Post 36, Ralph Geils, said only 15 or 20 of the 428 members in that chapter are Vietnam Veterans and added that present membership drives are being held to "get our old members back. We're working on renewals and we don't have the manpower to really recruit," he said.

The American Legion office for veteran affairs and rehabilitation in Chicago helps returning veterans secure jobs among its other veteran services, but there is "no follow up to recruit men into the legion," according to an employee there.

"There's no coercion at all. If they want to join, then they join... we don't push them," she said.

Family Service Slated June 30

The final family eve Sabbath service of the season at Maine Township Jewish Congregation, 8800 Ballard Rd., Des Plaines, will be recited at 8:30 p.m. June 30. Rabbi Jay Karzen and Cantor Harry Solowinich will officiate. An early service at 7:30 in the Chapel will also be recited that night.

Twice daily religious services will continue through the summer at 7:30 a.m. and 7:30 p.m. (Sunday mornings at 9 a.m.). Yahrzeit observers are especially welcome to worship at MTJC for the Kaddish prayers.

Rabbi and Mrs. Jay Karzen will lead a Congregation Tour to Israel July 2. During the Rabbi's vacation, the ritual committee will be in charge of all synagogue services.

The synagogue office is open daily for the acceptance of new memberships into the congregation and for registration in the religious school — Hebrew and Sunday School Departments. Brochures are available upon request. Bingo will continue every Sunday evening at 8 p.m. during July and August.

Benedictine College Gets New Instructor

Mrs. Mary Sarubbi, 960 Beau Dr., Des Plaines, will become a full-time instructor next fall in the physical education department at Illinois Benedictine College of Lisle.

Mrs. Sarubbi, 30, joined the Illinois Benedictine faculty as a part-time instructor in 1969, teaching physical education courses for women. She has also served as advisor to the JBC cheerleaders and pom-pom squad.

Illinois Benedictine will offer a major program of study in physical education beginning next year. Mrs. Sarubbi will conduct courses for both men and women students.

She earned a master of science degree from Indiana University in 1967, after graduating from Springfield (Mass.) College in 1964. Prior to joining Illinois Benedictine, she taught physical education at two high schools in Indiana for three years.

She is the wife of Kenneth F. Sarubbi, assistant basketball coach at DePaul University. The Sarubbis have two children.

Completes Training

Marine Lance Corporal Peter Martinez, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Martinez of 1734 Whitcomb Ave., Des Plaines, has returned to homebase at Camp Lejeune, N.C., after guerilla and anti-guerilla training on the Caribbean islands of Vieques and Culebra with Lejeune's Sixth Marine Regiment.

The Home Line

by Dorothy Ritz

Dear Dorothy: Never thought I'd get those pimples at the sight of a bug, but a cockroach makes me physically ill and I cringe over what a lousy housekeeper I must be. Someone said you had something in your column once about using boric acid for cockroaches. How do you use it and was it successful?—Mrs. Art B.

You're not alone in your queasiness over cockroaches. They're filthy pests and dangerous because they transmit disease. They not only contaminate and spoil food but damage fabrics, curtains, books, papers and so forth. Don't reproach yourself. These bugs can come in with groceries, potato bags, soda water cartons and so on. Fortunately, we haven't had to try the boric acid treatment. The treatment you mention was sent in by a baroness, no less, and we have heard from scores of readers on the success they've had using the method.

Dissolve a teaspoon boric acid in hot (not boiling) water; pour into a saucer, put in it a slice of white bread and place the saucer, or as many saucers as you want, in various spots that the bugs frequent. Might be wise to put this around after the children are in bed and the pets are out of the way.

Dear Dorothy: I've found that small strips of cellophane tape are not only invisible but will hold most climbing plants and flowers to trellises. Also when a plant has a slightly broken branch tape will help reinforce it. If the branch is heavy, taping on small splints will hold it. It's surprising how quickly a plant heals.—Mark Schoon.

Dear Dorothy: What part of the pig is used to make so-called Canadian bacon?—Julia V.

The large rib-eye muscle — cured and smoked.

A Paddock Review

Another Hit For BOB

by GENIE CAMPBELL

"Gypsy," presently being staged at Wheeling High School by a cast of some 30 Best Off Broadway Players, is a smooth, light-hearted and most enjoyable production.

It completes a successful season for BOB which also did well with its fall musical choice, "Oliver."

The stage radiates showmanship. "Gypsy" in total represents a lot of diligent work and dedicated hours by both the cast members and production crew who are responsible for the stage setting and properties. Costuming is excellent.

"Gypsy," of course, is the biography set to music of the famous burlesque queen, Gypsy Rose Lee. It begins with her childhood. She is first depicted as the shy girl she was purported to be, pushed into vaudeville and the entertainment world by a fast talking, domineering mother, who because she had missed out on the chance to be on stage herself decided to make sure that her two daughters didn't miss that chance.

THE CAST, DIRECTED by Tom Ventress, is tailor-made. The principal characters include Charmaine Sayre as Mama Rose, Lauren Lubeck as Dainty June, Laura Conter as Louise, later Gypsy Rose Lee, and Gil Pearson as Herbie, the girls' agent who does his job simply out of love for their mother.

It is Charmaine Sayre, however, who is the real star of the production. She is excellent as Mama Rose, a woman who never admits defeat nor relinquishes the selfish dream of seeing one of her daughters recognized up on stage, no matter for what kind of talent. She is a headstrong woman and Charmaine depicts her personality exactly. Her musical numbers are equally as strong and well done.

Gil Pearson is very comfortable in his role as Herbie and Lauren Lubeck does a good job characterizing the baby-faced dainty June, who is the apple of her mother's eye . . . until she runs off and leaves the vaudeville act.

LAURA CONTER meets fully the demands of her role in the first act as the awkward, shy girl whose tomboy appearance never suggests the future career ahead of her. She and Tulsa, played by Scott Martin, do a delightful routine together, "All I Need is the Girl."

Yet her appearance as Gypsy Rose Lee is somewhat disappointing. The number, "Let Me Entertain You," the grand finale if the production, is weak. The costumes are gorgeous and Laura looks great. Yet the change-over from the shy little girl to the sophisticated confident show girl is missing. The musical accompaniment also lacks "oomph" in this scene.

And while Charmaine Sayre does come across well in the last number, "Rose's Turn," it would have been better to have left it out and ended the production with Gypsy's rise to the top. Anything added after that point is tedious and merely draws out the finish.

THE BIG HIGHLIGHT of the second

Beth Shakespeare

At a gala open house for friends and relatives on Sunday, June 11, Mr. and Mrs. Stuart Shakespeare announced the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Beth, to Kit Miner, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jim Miner of Rose Ave., Des Plaines.

The Shakespeares reside at 1365 Jeanette Ave. Des Plaines.

Both Kit and Beth are graduates of Maine West High School, and Beth is currently employed by the Jewel Tea Co. in Des Plaines. Their wedding is planned for September 1972.

Joan Antosch

The engagement of Joan Antosch to Thomas L. Sweet has been announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Peter E. Antosch, 203 W. Millers Road, Des Plaines. Thomas is the son of the Robert L. Sweets of Hardin, Mont.

The bride-to-be is a graduate of Elk Grove High School and is employed by Univac in Elk Grove Village. Her fiancé is with the U.S. Navy, stationed in Schenectady, N.Y., at the Naval Nuclear Training Site.

Their wedding is scheduled for Dec. 2, 1972.

Sally Mooney

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Mooney, 824 Rose, Des Plaines, announce the engagement of their daughter, Sally, to Tom Gawle, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Gawle of Cicero.

Sally, who is a graduate of Maine West High School has attended Northern Illinois University in DeKalb for two years. She is employed at So Pro Fabrics in DeKalb. Tom, who is a senior art student at Northern, is employed by Electromotive Corp. in Chicago.

The wedding is planned for April 1973.

AAUW Collecting Used Books

Arlington Heights Branch of the American Association of University Women once again announces its annual forage for used or unwanted books, sheet music and records. Last year several tons of books were collected from area residents and sold in the fall at the branch's used book sale, proceeds of which went to the AAUW Educational Foundation.

Any type of book is acceptable, according to the chairman, Mrs. P. I. Schira, Palatine. In addition to fiction and non-fiction, both hard cover and paper back, the sale will include categories for foreign language books, text books, science, math, teacher guides, encyclopedias, religious, social studies, do-it-yourself types, early editions and children's books, as well as sheet music and records.

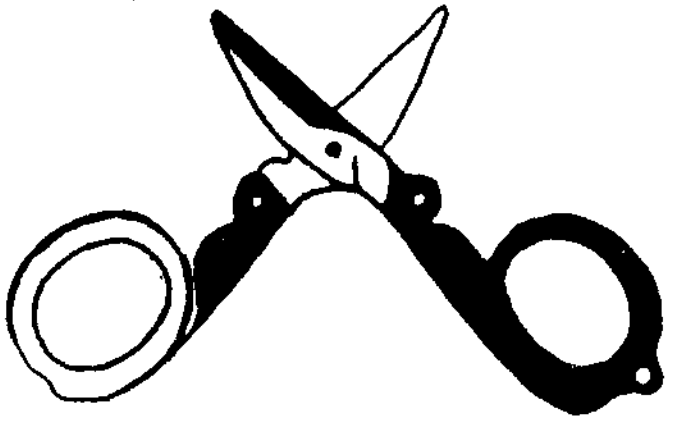

THIS WILL be the 10th year the Arlington Heights Branch has conducted the sale for the International Fellowship Program maintained by AAUW. The program provides grants for women to finance their education at the doctoral and post-doctoral levels. The sale will be held Oct. 27, 28 and 29 in the Schaumburg Room at Woodfield Mall.

The Potting Shed

by Mary B. Good

Clara C. Hefner of Arlington Heights recently wrote The Potting Shed a letter asking help for her tragic lawn problem.

I thought this letter significant in that it pointed out how chemicals can sometimes get a person in big trouble. Here's a condensation of that letter.

"I am trying to find some solution to a lawn problem. I moved to Arlington Heights last July and my lawn was very brown but within a month my neighbors all admired it. I used gypsum.

"I'm a novice, a golden-ager, with finally a garden of my own. In my zeal, I spent four hours edging it by hand and then was sold a chemical bar to retard grass, from growing over the edges.

"TO MY HORROR and sorrow, soon edges were all dried and dead and brown was creeping into the lawn. I wrote the manufacturer for advice, as the store from which I bought the chemical bar could not help me. I received a 'wait-and-see' answer.

"I fertilized in March and seeded, hovering over it like my ill baby. The grass in the center has come up nicely but the edges of the lawn are still straw-like, though I loosened it up with a rake. Last week, I got on my knees and raked it by hand, getting much thatch out and put in more seed and peat moss. To date, it is still the saddest lawn edging around here.

"My more experienced neighbors have done nothing at all since I came here, except a bit of sprinkling, and their edging is coming up nice and green.

"WHAT MORE CAN I do? I can't afford to call in a gardener, neither have I heard from the manufacturer who said he would call in the spring. I would never buy another of this product!

"It really has taken pleasure out of gardening, as I can't seem to get any help.

"I have read all sort of lawn and garden books and magazines, but nothing like this is ever discussed. Nurseries are now too busy to advise. What am I to do? Help!"

No one has sought to advise Mrs. Hefner, simply because there isn't an easy answer for her — no cure-all to undo the damage, no chemical to counter-act the other chemical.

OBVIOUSLY, this gardener used a kill-all type chemical that destroyed the lawn along with the straggly edges. Now, everytime it rains, the chemical seeps into the lawn a bit more, and does further damage. With a complete defoliant (that's what the army used in Vietnam) nothing will grow on the soil for two years.

Mrs. H. would have been better advised to lay plastic or metal edging where she wanted to retard the grass growth, or edge with a hand or power tool designed for that purpose. Now, the only solution — and it is work — is to spade up the grass in that area, and remove the soil on which the grass grew, bring in fresh humus and lay new sod or re-seed. It's important to remove the soil since it has been poisoned and cannot now support life.

Premium Is On Accuracy When Pros Tackle Sunset

"A man who wins out there will have to be a nifty putter," says former touring professional Ed Moehling about Sunset Ridge Country Club, site of this week's Western Open Golf Tournament. "The greens are going to be fast."

Moehling, an Elk Grove resident, failed to make the cut Monday in qualifying at Rolling Green Country Club. But he's played the Northbrook course and knows it well.

The 50-year-old layout has numerous trees and traps which places a premium on accuracy. However, the tricky slopes on every green should offer the biggest test. Those pros who were frustrated by the slick greens at Pebble Beach last week should be in for the same thing beginning on Thursday.

Sunset measures 6716 yards with a par of 71. The front nine is the shorter of the two nines with a par of 35 and a length of 3268 yards. The back nine, having one more par 5, is 3448 yards long.

The course record 64, held by Sunset pro Bob Harris and former assistant pro Bob Kubiak, will be the target score for the hot-shot touring pros.

This hole-by-hole description that follows was prepared after interviews with Don Grotti, the 40-year veteran course superintendent, and Harris, 17-year head pro.

No. 1, par 4, 374 yards — Virtually straightaway, with very slight dog-leg to left. Out-of-bounds left of fairway. Large trap on left 195 yards from tee; favors play from right side of fairway for second shot to green elevated at rear. Large trap at left of green, toward rear with two small traps in front and right.

No. 2, par 4, 404 yards — Straightaway off the tee. Trap on left side 195 yards from tee, with two traps directly across fairway on right. One trap on left of green, with trees and two small traps on green's right side, plus Evergreen trees. Green has slight slope at rear.

No. 3, par 4, 367 yards — Below the tee is a lake (Lake Domenic) requiring a carry of about 145 yards. Two traps on right at 170 yards and 220 yards, with trap on left about 200 yards from tee. Well trapped, medium-sized green with a hefty "roll" from right to left. Pin placements can make this a tough putting test.

No. 4, par 5, 507 yards — The big hitters should score here. Virtually straightaway off the tee, but trees on both sides of fairway demand accuracy. Good, well-placed drives will enable many to reach green with second shot. Should stay to right because of heavy trees which almost hang over green on left, with traps to right and left of green forefront.

No. 7, par 4, 304 yards — Sharp dog-leg to left, bend coming about 190 yards out. With traps and trees at left side, player must stay to right, though trees near right fairway edge present hazard. Fairly "tricky" green with trees almost surrounding carpet. Two traps on right, one on left.

No. 8, par 3, 161 yards — No tree trouble around green, which has large trap at front, two at rear. Accurate six or seven iron shot will pay off, though green has slight roll and pin-placement could make scoring difficult.

No. 9, par 4, 438 yards — Sharp dog-leg to left, where trees line fairway. With trees and trap at right, tee shot should be kept to left side, though trees close to fairway present a danger. Long, off-line tee shot could reach trees in right of fairway. Green has two traps on left side, one at right. A hole that will cause many players trouble.

No. 10, par 5, 524 yards — Straightaway off tee, with slight dog-leg starting 125 yards from green. Long hitters will score here, though if they reach in two, they will find a green hard to read, with slope in middle. Players generally will try for center of green to minimize putt-putt trouble.

No. 11, par 3, 164 yards — Straight shot to a long green which has sharp slope from middle to right side on back portion. Its a "fooler" green which invites three putts. Traps at right front and left-rear.

No. 12, par 4, 422 yards — Sarp dog-leg to right. Two traps on right at 210 yards and one at left about 180 yards from tee. Out-of-bounds left. Trees on left and right of green, with traps on both sides. Well placed drives with pay off in birdies here.

No. 13, par 4, 360 yards — With out-of-bounds on left and many trees on both edges of fairway, many players will use iron off tee. Fairly long green trapped on left and right front. Shallow green in which players often find it hard to stop ball. Hole places premium on iron play.

No. 15, par 3, 179 yards — Straight shot to green and good players will score here. Green has two small traps at front, one on right and left toward rear, where putting surface has small "plateau" at rear.

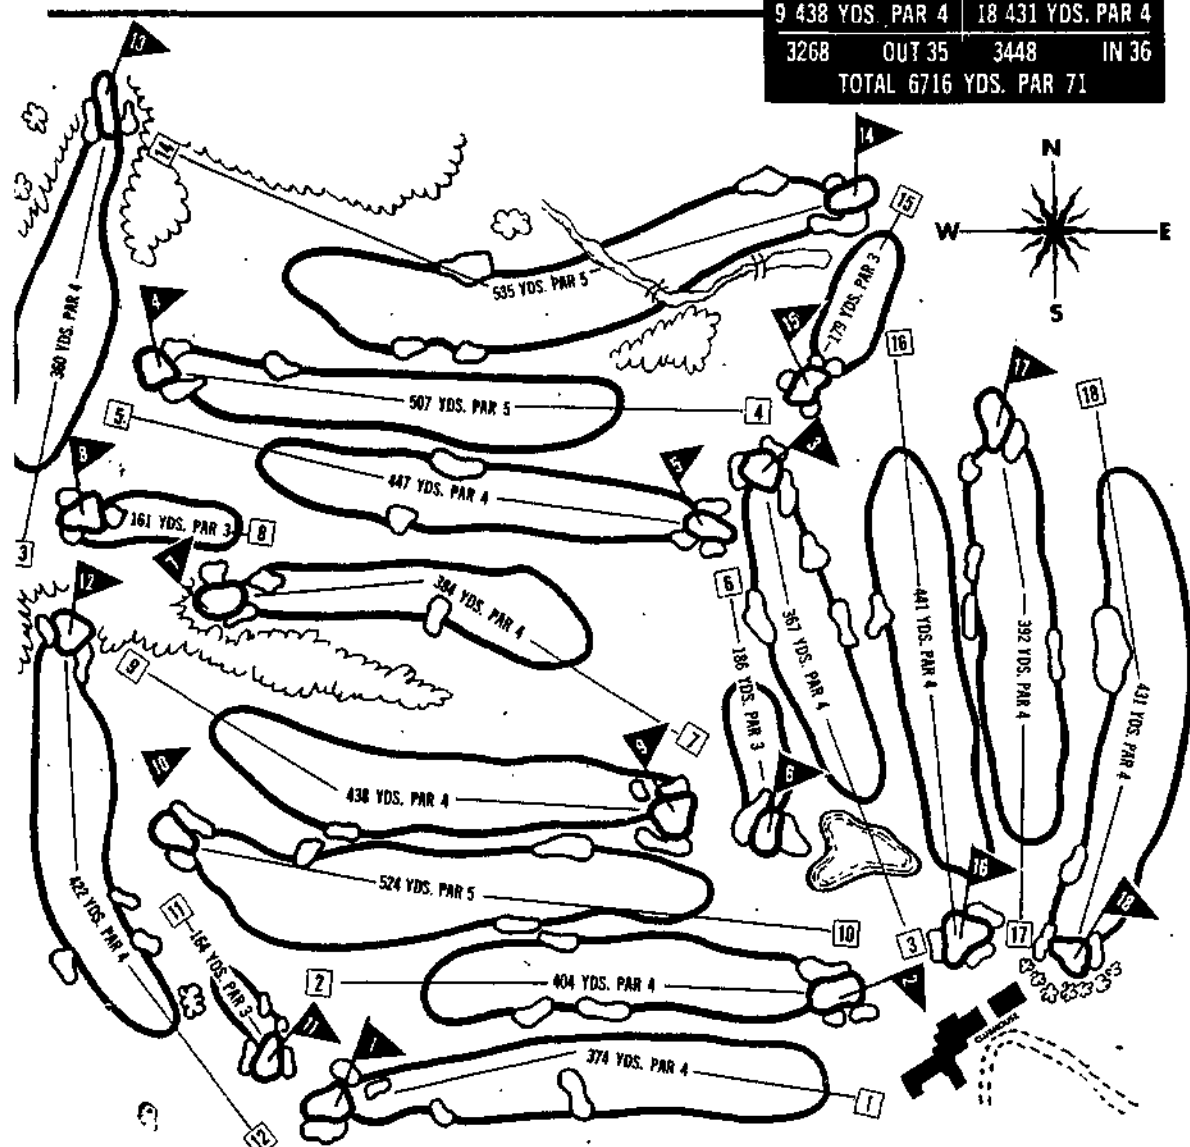

No. 16, par 4, 441 yards — One of more difficult holes, though it is straightaway off tee. Heavy trees on both sides demand accuracy. Green larger than most others and, if windy, putting will be tricky here. Trap at left-front of green, one at right and another at rear.

No. 17, par 4, 392 yards — Straightaway off tee, this could be a hole for low scoring. Long hitters will use eight and nine irons on second shots. Trap on right side of green and one at left front. Out-of-bounds behind green.

No. 18, par 4, 431 yards — Good test for finishing hole. Dog-leg to right, with break coming about 100 yards from tee, where there is a big trap on right. Players will try to stay left, but too long a tee shot to left could encounter trees or out-of-bounds area. Fairly easy green to hit, but has slope in front that could cause trouble.

Hikes Mid-Teen Mark To 4-0

Elks Roll Along In Diamond Play

On the eve of the first day of summer, the Elks and the Optimists played a Mid-Teen baseball game under very cold and windy conditions.

Despite the frigid conditions, the Elks maintained their unbeaten record with a 3-0 victory. The Elks are now 4-0 in the National League with the Optimists 1-5 in the American.

The Elks scored in the first on a throwing error. Tom Thvedt, who had reached on a walk, moved around on a fielder's choice and scored on an overthrow at third base. That was the only run pitcher Bill Heise needed. He went on to strikeout six and walk six but was very effective in the clutch.

Heise was tested in the third inning when he filled the bases with three walks. Then he got the third out on a grounder back to the mound.

The fourth saw a pair of errors make it

2-0. Jeff Schwarz reached on a two-base miscue and scored on another infield error off a ball hit by Ron Schroeder.

The final run came home in the fifth. After one out, Thvedt walked and scored on a double by Ken Schroeder. Heise had also stroked a double in the first to account for the only two hits off loser Jeff Heist. He fanned eight and walked just three but didn't receive proper backing behind him.

Craig Zaleski accounted for the Optimists' only hit — a single in the first inning. He was left stranded at second.

SCORE BY INNINGS
Elks 100 11-3-2-1
Optimists 000 00-0-1-3

In a Sunday game not previously reported, Elks came from behind with a four-run seventh inning to edge Allen's 7-6. It was the third victory in as many games for Elks and dropped Allen's record to 1-2.

Rick Wolfgram pitched the first five innings for the winners before Bill Heise finished up and notched the decision. Jeff Myers started for Allen's and was relieved by Jim Olsen in the fifth.

The contest was scoreless for four full innings before both teams got their batting eyes. Elks took a 2-0 lead in the fifth on doubles by Colin Carroll and Jeff Schwartz and a single by Ron Schroeder.

But Allen's came right back with a four-run rally on just two hits in the same frame. John O'Connor's single was sandwiched between two walks, Mike Paul singled in a run, another pass loaded the bases, an error on an attempted pickoff resulted in a run, and two more scored on passed balls.

Elks cut the lead back to 4-3 in the sixth when Schroeder doubled, Carroll walked, Bruce Perry reached on a field-er's choice and Schroeder scored on a delayed double steal.

Allen's regained its two-run lead in the sixth on three consecutive errors before Elks exploded for its big seventh to win it.

Three extra-base hits started the decisive rally — a triple by Carl Metzger, double by Tom Thvedt and another three-bagger by Wolfgram. Ken Schroeder and Carroll then capped the rally with singles.

Allen's made it tense with one more run after two outs in the seventh. Bill Slapke blooped a single, moved to third on two passed balls and scored on Myers' single before Heise got the final out.

Six more games — two each on Thursday, Friday and Sunday — are on tap in the league this week. This evening First National will take on Johnson and Sellergren will go against Bantam. On Friday it will be Allen's vs. First National and Optimists vs. Kunkel. Sunday's games will be Johnson vs. Sellergren and Bantam vs. Elks.

Explorer Olympics July 14-16

The 1972 Explorer Olympics will be held July 14-16 inclusive at various sites throughout the Chicagoland area. It was announced this week by Thomas P. Mullaney, Chairman of the Explorer Olympics Games Committee and President of Wilson Sporting Goods Co.

This event, inaugurated in 1970 for the purpose of fostering competition among members of Explorer Posts of the Exploring Division, Chicago Area Council, Boy Scouts of America, will draw approximately 600 Explorers from all parts of the metropolitan Chicagoland area. A total of 18 competitive events will comprise the Olympic competition with gold, silver, and bronze medals awarded res-spectively to the top three finishers in each event.

The Explorer Olympics will be culminated with a recognition Banquet to be held on Monday evening, July 17, at the Conrad Hilton Hotel, at which all medal winners will be honored.

Serving on the Committee with Mullaney in organizing and raising funds for the Olympics are William "Bill" Koostira, former Olympic competitor and now agent for the Massachusetts Mutual Life Insurance Company; and Thierry McCormick, Vice President of Public Relations and Civic Affairs for Meister Brau, Inc.

Woody Croom Stars In 12-Inch Softball

Roselle Building Materials, led by Woody Croom, continue to dominate the Rand Park adult 12-inch softball league.

On Thursday Woody fired his first no-hitter of the season, blanking Des Plaines Chrysler-Plymouth 10-0. He fanned 10 and walked no one.

The first batter reached on an error and was the only baserunner for Chrysler-Plymouth.

Croom also contributed a single and triple with three RBI's. Ron Hanson hit a three run homer.

In the second game of the evening Ozark Airlines gained their first win of the season by edging Dor-o-matic 8-7. Georgacopoulos drove in four runs with a single and triple, and Glover drove in two with three singles. Mike Smith led Dor-o-matic with three hits and two RBI's.

On Sunday Croom continued his mastery over the league with a perfect game. The game again was shortened to five innings because of the 10 run rule.

Georgacopoulos of Ozark Airlines led off by bouncing out to the second baseman. Woody then proceeded to strike out the remaining 14 batters.

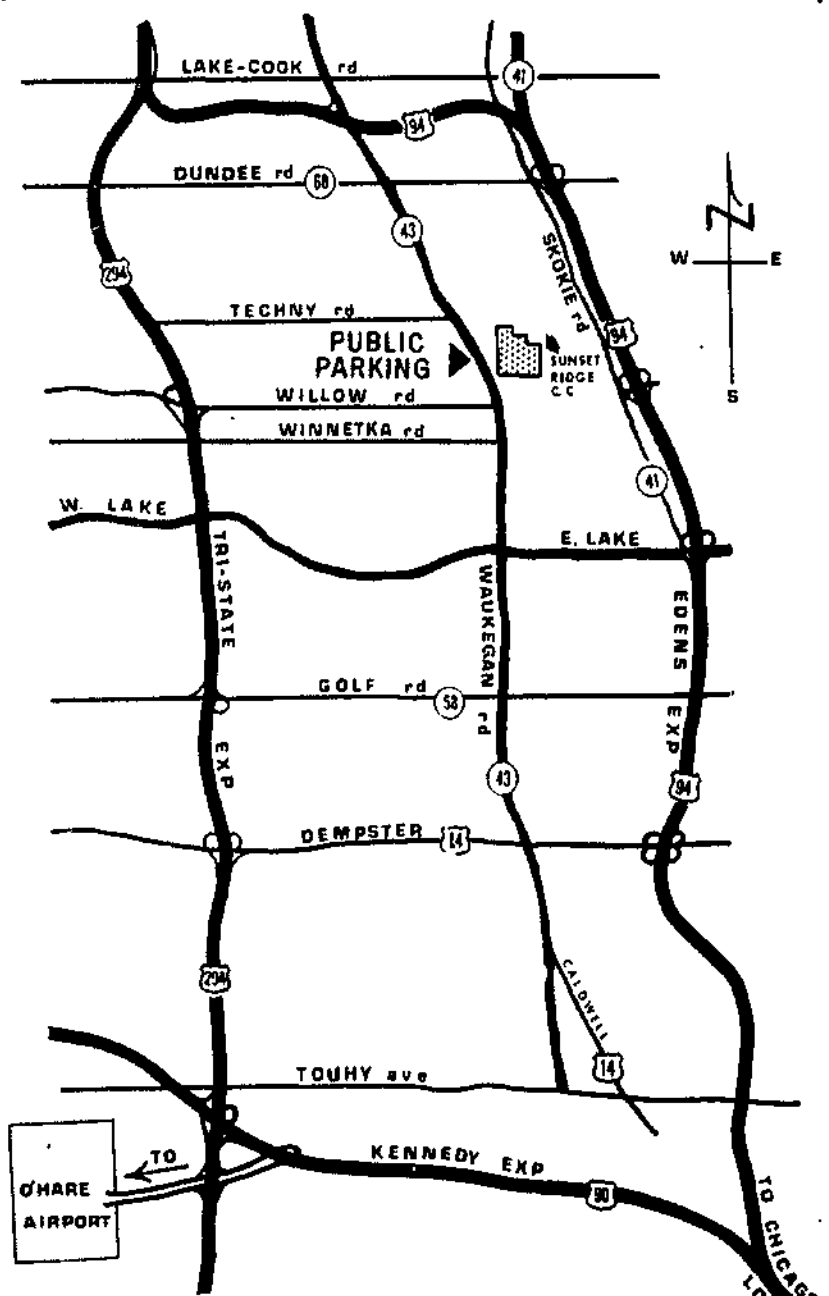

Ron Hanson powered a grand slam home run to lead the charge for Roselle Building Materials who are still unbeaten in league play.

In the second game of the evening Des Plaines Chrysler-Plymouth pushed across four runs in the fourth inning to defeat Central Telephone 4-2. John Van Winkle and Scotty Richmond each drove in two runs to account for all the offense. Joe Lee needed in besting Dick Bonnell of Central. Bonnell led all hitters with three hits.

Current Standings:

Roselle Building Materials 6-0, Des Plaines Chrysler-Plymouth 3-3, Central Telephone 3-4, Dor-o-matic 2-4, Ozark Airlines 1-4.

Boys All-Star Cage Camp Set At Maryville Academy

Players Bob Love of the Chicago Bulls, and Leon Hillard of the Harlem Globetrotters join coaches Ron Ferguson, Thornridge High School; Bill Gleason, Loyola Academy; and Chuck Schramm, Highland Park High School, for two, one-week sessions of the Boys' All-Star Basketball Camp at Maryville Academy July 17-22 and July 24-29.

The coaches, players and a team of high-school counsellors will test and train area youngsters, age 8 through 17, in basketball skills and fundamentals. Campers are grouped by age to key instruction to skill levels. Peewee group includes ages 8 through 11; Junior group includes 12 through 14; Varsity group ranges from 15 to 17.

Training and practice sessions begin promptly at 9:00 each morning and end at noon. Outstanding players in each group win awards at Father-Son graduation ceremonies on the final day of each camp session. In each age group, the coaching staff presents awards for best one-on-one shooter, best free-throw shooter and best defensive player. A Mr. Camp award goes to the outstanding player in each group.

All inclusive fee for each one-week basketball camp session is $22.00 per player. Area basketball coaches have application forms for interested players. For an application form, direct, call Basketball director, 568-6535 after 6 p.m. daily.

Central-Greenwood Romps To Victory Over Tasty Pup

by BILL MCCARTY

Central Greenwood Standard defeated Tasty Pup 27 to 0 in the first game of a three-way tie breaking play off for first half American minor league honors in Maine-Northfield play.

Central Greenwood was scheduled to meet the House of Schiller early this week for the first half title.

Jeff Beck was credited with the win with Tasty Pup's Mike Halls double the loser's only hit. For the winners Randy Marsh and Mark Pastelski tripled Barry Hochberg collected two doubles and Brock Witcamp one.

The same two teams met in the opening round of the second half and it was Central Greenwood Standard again downing Tasty Pup 18 to 5. Hall doubled again and singled in the rematch for Tasty Pup. Other singles were collected by Steve Boshold, Jeff Benjamin, Don Kemnitz and Rick Brand.

In other second half openers, Walt Boyle who won six straight in the first half defeated Golf Mill Chrysler Plymouth 15 to 7 behind the pitching of Bunkey Schawel. Peter Tafel had a grand slam home run and a single Jay Orlovski a double, and Tom Schawelcker and Schawel each two singles for the winners. Boyle's other singles were hit by Jay Orlovski and Tim Norden. Hits for Golf Mill included a triple by Scott Leibold double by Jeff Nankervis and singles by Dave Swanson and Mike Beil with two Highland Automotive downed Michaels Pharmacy 21 to 2 with Dale Outhous and Jay Kalis sharing the mound honors. Highland's Chris Payne had four hits including two home runs — one a grand slam. Singles by Matt Seagrist scored two runs and Ken Glick singled.

Todd Boist and Bob Mathews were the winning pitchers as Hackneys beat the House of Schiller 8 to 2. Steve Wells tripled, Rich Rotman had two singles. Mathews had one and Rob Manister and Mike Singer each singled.

It was a 16 to 7 victory for Maine State Insurance over Michael-Kagan. Danny Sanders and Mike Hernandez were the winning pitchers. Paul Langer, Ken Olaszewski, Scott DiGilio and Jo Les all singled for Michael-Kagan, Mark Remington singled twice and Dave Brody and Scott Malik singled once.

In a real thriller, The Flying Frenchman Restaurant edged out Glenview Foremost 13 to 12. Winning pitcher was Jimmy O'Brien. Steve McConnell doubled O'Brien had three singles, Jimmy Rehak two, and Billy Knauber one. For Glenview Foremost Jim Klausner belted a three-run homer, Billy Gordon doubled, Kent Davera, Klausner and David Ostinsky all had singles.

A tight race continued in the Senior League between Pilgrim Chrysler Plymouth, R Ruske Storm Windows and Semmerling Fence. Pilgrim Chrysler Plymouth split for the week, gaining an important victory over Semmerling Fence 10 to 3 and being edged out by Martin & Marbury Realtors 6 to 5. Robbie Marcus was the winning pitcher against Semmerling, allowing five hits. Dave MacArthur's two doubles drove in two of the Pilgrim's runs. Other doubles were hit by Mickey McCarty and Mitch Glickman. Glickman also drove in two runs on two singles. Other singles were hit by Keith Stenbrink, Randy Pfundheller, Ed Radowsky, and Dave Barish, whose spectacular outfield catch brought applause from both stands. George Kaufman had two singles for Semmerling while Mark Zoenner, Gary Hoffmann and Tom Knauber each had one.

R Ruske Storm Windows had two wins and one loss in their week. Their biggest tally came in a make up game against Martin & Marbury Realtors which they took 16 to 1. John Carlson was the winning pitcher and Tom Conney tripled and had two singles. Mark Taub and Ron Wodka doubled, John Volpe had two singles. John Maly had two singles for Martin & Marbury.

In a 4 to 3 win over Polcyn Construction, Volpe was the winning pitcher, striking out seven batters. Gary Ruske doubled and had two singles. Mark Zoll had two singles and drove in one run.

Semmerling Fence shut out R Ruske Storm Windows 5 to 0 with George Kaufman the winning pitcher. Kaufman struck out nine and allowed three hits — all singles — to Zoll, Ruske and Tom Travis. Mark Zoenner had two singles for Semmerling. In the other Senior game of the week Golf Mill Bank downed Martin & Marbury Realtors 15 to 3. Kenny Weingarten was the winning pitcher and also collected two singles. Rick Pellegrini's four hits included a double and three singles. Bob Fecor and Steve Jacobs each had two singles. For Martin & Marbury Jeff Armgardt had a home run, two singles and two RBIs. Greg Polcyn doubled and singled.

In the Senior Prep area Uncle Mitty's stretched their winning streak to nine straight with no losses by defeating Zweig's Restaurant & Deli 11 to 3 and Dash Texaco 10 to 2. Against Zweig's Jamie Humenski was the winning pitcher with Dave Malter and Jerry Mendalla used in relief. Malter had three singles. It was Malter and Humenski again sharing the win against Dash Texaco. Bob Stak had two doubles and Jeff Berenson doubled and singled. Bob Polizzi doubled for Dash.

Biggy's Restaurant defeated Dash Texaco 10 to 4. Bob Machun was the winning pitcher. He also doubled and had two singles. Dan Fawcett doubled and had two singles as did Randy Pfundheller. Jim Meyer also had two singles. For Dash, Lou Gerlach tripled and singled and Russ Karlins and John Maly each singled.

Deerpath K.C. fun match --

Deerpath Kennel Club's all breed fun match will be held this Sunday, June 25, at Wheeling High School Field House, Hunt Road and 87 Wheeling.

Puppies and adult dogs will be judged separately with the breeds given scheduled judging times. All judging will be held indoors.

If your back feels like it will break because of all the yard work you have been doing, don't worry, get the dog crates into the car and come on out. There will be 4 K.C. Club members on hand to help unload and load cars.

There is unlimited free parking adjacent to the field house entrance, plenty of grooming area and the club plans to have good food on hand.

Pre-entry fee for dogs $2.50, gate entry $1.50. For on spectators the admission is $1 children 50c. The field house will be open at 7 a.m. with entries being taken at that time and up until one hour before a breed is scheduled to be judged. For any information regarding the complete judging schedule call 841-3570 or 472-9314.

Top U.S. bird dog --

The Texas Squire has been named Top Field Trial Dog of the Year. He earned the title by winning the coveted Purina Award for 1971-72. Louis J. Pegram, Ralston Purina director of professional services, presented the award during ceremonies held at the Grove Park Inn, Asheville, N.C. The North Carolina Field Trial Assoc. hosted the ceremonies.

The 4-year-old white and orange Pointer won the ninth annual award with 2,940 points, the highest number ever compiled by an award winner. The Texas Squire is owned by Edwin Brown of Troup, Texas, and is trained by John Rex Gates of Leesburg, Ga. This is the second time Gates has trained a winning dog. He trained the 1965 winner, Safari.

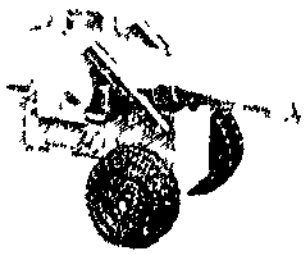

Established in 1963, some 300 pointing dogs compete each year for the prized Purina award, the highest honor a bird dog can receive. Lincolnwood obedience trial -- This will be a busy weekend for dog show folks. Sunday the Lincolnwood Training Club for German Shepherd Dogs, Inc., will hold its 32nd annual obedience trial at their training club grounds, located at Central and Dearlove roads, Des Plaines.

Show hours are from 9 a.m. to 8 p.m., with all regular obedience classes scheduled plus one non-regular class -- Graduate Novice.

If you are out driving Sunday, stop for awhile and watch. You will see some of the top German Shepherds in the Middle West competing. Barks & Bays -- Forty seven Best In-Shows, a record in one year, were won by the English Springer Spaniel, Ch. Chinese's Adamant James, owned by Dr. Milton Puckett, Lexington, Ky.

Eye Suit Over Principal Ouster

THE HERALD Thursday, June 22, 1972 Section 3 —3

A lawsuit charging the River Trails Dist. 26 Board of Education with violating a principal's civil rights may be filed by a group of parents in Mount Prospect.

The parents decided to consider the legal action after Feehanville School Principal Bea Amundson was reassigned to another school as a teacher. Her transfer was part of a staff shakeup that involved three of the district's seven principals. The moves were recommended by Supt. Tom Warden.

Changes at the board, in approving the shakeup meeting Tuesday, denied a request by Miss Amundson for a hearing on her transfer. Jim Burke, one of the organizers of the parents' group, said the suit, if it is filed, would probably charge the board with denying Miss Amundson her right to speak under the First and Fourteenth Constitutional Amendments. He said his group was contacting civil rights attorneys to determine the procedures and costs involved in such a suit.

Board Pres. Clarke Robinson said the district's attorney advised the board that reassignment without a reduction in pay is "a discretion vested solely in the school board." Miss Amundson would retain her current salary in the new job.

THE BOARD APPROVED the reassignments despite the protests of about 170 persons who attended Tuesday's board meeting in support of the three principals. Residents' requests for the board to make public the reasons for the transfers were turned down. Warden could not be reached for comment yesterday.

Miss Amundson, Feehanville principal for seven years, said yesterday she would support the legal action. She has been reassigned as a teacher at River Road School in Des Plaines. She said Supt. Warden had asked her to either resign or accept a teaching position. She said he listed complaints over her performance as Feehanville principal as reasons for the reassignment.

"It's not just me. I'm just an example," Miss Amundson said. "There's now a threat in this district. People are in fear of their jobs for the first time in seven years." Warden became superintendent last September.

The board also approved reassignments for James Ackley, River Trails Junior High School principal, and Gene Kukla, River Road School principal.

Warden recommended Ackley be made media learning center consultant in the district in charge of resource centers. He will also retain his current salary.

ACKLEY, River Trails principal for three years, said he didn't know yesterday if he would accept the new position since he didn't know what the job entails. He also said he had no particular interest or background in the area of media and resource centers.

"I would prefer to stay where I am," he said. Ackley has taught two years in the district, and served as Indian Grove School principal for three years before moving to River Trails.

Gene Kukla, River Road School principal for three years, is being moved to principal at the junior high. He said yesterday, "I try to do a good job wherever I am assigned."

Six residents spoke in favor of Miss Amundson at Tuesday's meeting. Ben Baldwin, 1404 Dogwood Ln., handed the board a petition with 344 signatures of parents in the Feehanville area. "This is to show our approval and confidence in our principal," he said.

MARGE BLOMQUIST, teacher at River Trails, spoke in support of Ackley. She read a letter from teachers at the school protesting the reassignment. "Mr. Ackley has shown obvious and earnest dedication to his job, giving far more time and effort than required," she said.

Theda Idyl Nipper, 1216 Meadow Ln., asked the board to postpone a decision on the reassignments until "Mr. Warden knows these two people better." She suggested that perhaps a citizen's committee could be formed to help solve the problem.

Joseph Wawack, currently a teacher at River Road, will become the new principal there. The district is accepting applications for the principal's job at Feehanville.

School Board Delays Naming New Members

The River Trails Dist. 26 School Board has postponed appointment of two school board members until a special meeting June 29.

Board member Leora Rosen suggested the postponement because she said she wanted more time to consider residents who have applied for the vacancies. The special meeting will be held at 7:30 p.m. at the administration building, 1800 E. Kensington Rd.

Mount Prospect residents who were interviewed for the vacancies are Sylvia Lurie, 122 Bonnie Brue Ave.; William Haase, 1815 Camp McDonald Rd.; Michael Sheyker, 1306 Ironwood Dr.; Eugene Snyder, 1748 Carib Ln.; Otto Bouc, 911 Greenfield Ct. and Le Roy Nattress, 811 Newberry Ln.

Nattress said yesterday he is withdrawing his name from consideration.

"If the appointment were given to me I could not serve without prejudice to current board members because of their failure to listen to their constituency," he said.

Nattress said both his interview and the board's reassignment of Bea Amundson, Feehanville School principal, influenced his decision to withdraw. Nattress was one of several residents who spoke in support of Miss Amundson Tuesday before the board approved Supt. Tom Warden's recommendation for her reassignment.

Oakton Library Gets $11,382

The board of trustees of Oakton Community College this week accepted a grant of $11,382 from the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare at the regular meeting of the board Tuesday.

Joseph Borowski, director of the learning resource center at Oakton, said the grant was made under the 1972 college library resources program, providing funds for books, periodicals, magnetic tapes, phonograph records, audio visual and other related library materials. Borowski said he hoped to use the grant to buy a library of 16-mm educational movies for the LRC.

The trustees also voted to participate in a grant from the U.S. Office of Education for the purchase of materials and equipment. The grant is $8,763, of which the OCC share is $4,104. This figure has been reduced by the Office of Education from an original figure of $43,196 of which the OCC share would have been $21,593, college officials said.

Materials and equipment purchased under this will be used in algebra, French, German and Spanish courses.

The trustees have also accepted "with thanks" the recent gift of photographic equipment for use in classroom instruction from the First National Bank of Skokie. Total value of the equipment is $175.

School Negotiating Teams Walk Off

Negotiating teams in River Trails School Dist. 26 walked away from the bargaining table Monday — still far from a 1972-73 contract settlement. They are not scheduled to meet again until August.

Representatives of both teachers and the school board agreed the meeting was "not very productive and rather negative." Before the three-hour closed session started, school officials had hoped for a settlement this month.

The two sides did agree to some language changes in the contract. However, no agreement was reached on monetary items.

The board offered teachers an average 3.7 per cent raise. Its original proposal had been a salary freeze.

RICHARD ZWIEBACK, the board's negotiator, said the raise would be in the form of an increment, a raise based on experience and education. The amount of the increment would be the same as that in last year's salary schedule. Zwieback said that would mean an average $350 hike for most teachers, and would cost the district $52,000.

Jan White, chairman of the bargaining team for the River Trails Education Association (RTEA), said teachers expected the increment and at least a cost-of-living increase. She estimated the cost-of-living hike at 3.2 per cent. "They're not even willing to give us that," she said.

Zwieback said that cost-of-living figures, according to government standards, would not apply to most teachers since many do not have children and both husband and wife are working in many cases.

"Besides, the 3.7 per cent increment is a raise and more than the cost of living," he said.

"Teachers feel they can get a large increase and the board feels there is no way they can," Zwieback said. "The board did want to settle Monday but it is obvious anything we might consider a fair settlement would not be in the ball park as far as teachers are concerned."

Zwieback said the board might be willing to make another salary offer.

MRS. WHITE said teachers agreed not to meet again until August since some members of the RTEA negotiating team would be away during the summer.

"Besides, they (the board) simply are not in the mood to do anything. We get nowhere. Zwieback tells us that unless we show movement the board is not interested in talking about these things."

She said the RTEA would be willing to negotiate during the summer "if something starts to happen."

Zwieback said he would be available to meet with teachers sooner than August if they have new proposals to make.

Mrs. White said the board has not yet responded to the RTEA's other proposals, including a sick leave bank and re-evaluation of duty pay. Zwieback said the board "felt it didn't have enough money to give anything other than salary."

The two teams are still far apart on some language items, including articles involving impasse and negotiations procedures, according to Mrs. White. Zwieback said he originally anticipated no problems in this area.

"Teachers seem to be in disagreement simply because we want to propose something," he said.

Mrs. White said teachers would probably wait until the August meeting before considering mediation. No date has been set.

Price Commission To Decide On Shell Credit Card Case

A Price Commission hearing is slated in Washington today on the move by Shell Oil Co. to charge its dealers an added 1 to 2.2 per cent for credit card purchases of gasoline.

E. G. Albano, executive officer of the Gasoline Retailers Association, of Metropolitan Chicago, said yesterday that the hearing, originally set for Tuesday, was continued until today. Albano says the hearing is the result of a letter sent to commission Chairman C. Jackson Grayson Jr., by the 2,700 members in the association.

Albano says the letter describes the plight of area gas station dealers who are being asked to absorb an added cost. He said the dealers are already suffering from a low-profit margin. The letter asked the Price Commission chief to strike down the Shell Oil Co. credit card surcharge plans. If Shell gains commission approval, however, the dealers are seeking to pass this cost along to consumers.

"ALREADY, 40 PER CENT of the dealers go out of business in the Chicago area every year," Albano said. He says all major brand dealers are concerned because they believe other majors will follow Shell's lead.

Albano says the letter to the Price Commission was written on behalf of the 300,000 gas station dealers in the United States. The only way to jack up profits without hurting dealers is to halt the price wars, Albano says.

Pressure is also being applied by customers, many of whom are sending in their car credit cards to Shell Oil, Albano added. Jobbers, or wholesalers are protesting, according to Albano. He claims that 25 per cent of the stations in the United States are owned by jobbers.

ALTHOUGH EXACT figures on the volume of credit card sales are not readily available from some major oil companies, estimates by the Illinois Gasoline Dealers Association range up to 75 per cent of sales in the Chicago Metropolitan area.

According to the National Petroleum News Fact Book, issue for May, the average motorist driving a car or motorcycle buys 714 gallons of gasoline a year. If he pays the normal 40.4 cents a gallon price and charges 75 per cent of this amount on a Shell credit card, the annual cost would be an added $21.65 for the use of credit. This is based on a per cent surcharge on a bill for the 75 per cent, or 536 gallons set at $216.54.

The average per vehicle gallonage for all vehicles on an annual basis in 830 gallons, according to the fact book. Sales of gasoline totaled 4,612,364,000 gallons in 1971, a 4.3 per cent increase over 1970 figures. Gasoline sales in Illinois amounted to $6,419,696,000 gallons last year, a 4.7 increase over the previous year.

NOW THAT THE KIDS HAVE MOVED OUT OF YOUR OLD PLACE, WHY DON'T YOU MOVE INTO A NEW PLACE?

Get away from it all. Away from the house that has more space than you need. And gives more work than you want.

But don't just settle for an apartment in the city. Settle instead at Three-Fountains-On-The-Lake, new condominium homes by Scholz.

It's just 3 minutes from the expressway. Which means it's 15 minutes from O'Hare Airport. And 30 minutes from Chicago's Loop.

And if you'd rather not drive, you can always take a Northwestern commuter train. The station's only 3 miles from home.

Shopping? Couldn't be better. One mile to Woodfield Mall, the largest shopping center in the world. Walking distance to local stores.

When you live at Three-Fountains, you'll still be near your work. Near restaurants and theatres. Near everything that's good about the big city.

But you'll have a country kind of life here. With tennis courts. With a pool and cabana. A pitch 'n putt golf green.

Even a private lake right outside your sliding glass patio door.

Take your choice of 1-bedroom, 2-bedroom or 2-bedroom-with-study condominium apartments. They include air conditioning, appliances, carpeting. And if you want, even a wood-burning fireplace.

When you arrive at the entrance, follow the curving roadway across the arched bridge.

It leads to your life in the country. Right next to the city.

Come see.

Come live.

Latest Recall--The Crystal Ball

by DICK WEST

Following is slightly ahead of the news. But it could happen any day now.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Crystal Ball Co. announced today it was recalling 1,492 of its 1972 oracular orbs for repairs of serious defects.

The company acted after a series of mishaps had befallen political analysts who were using the globes for presidential campaign predictions.

Sam Cassandra, C-All president, said the recall involved his two most popular models, the Sibyl Six and the Delphi 800.

He said investigation disclosed that tiny cracks, invisible to the naked eye, had appeared in the political foresight section of crystal balls owned by syndicated columnists, television commentators and other pundits.

"THESE CRACKS cause prescience leakages which can result in a serious loss of clairvoyance power," Cassandra explained.

In addition, he said, there has been excessive vaporizing in the divination system, creating cloudiness around the omens and causing the portents to malfunction.

This made provision difficult and led to a spate of faulty prognostications.

Crystal Ball engineers said the defects in the 1972 C-Alls began showing up early in January, causing users to veer too far in the direction of Senator Muskie.

After the New Hampshire primary, some pundits took their crystal balls back to the dealer to have the indicators overhauled.

Then, after the Florida primary, the pundits suddenly swerved toward Senator Humphrey, brushing aside Governor Wallace and completely bypassing Senator McGovern.

In California, where they came to a screeching halt and careened into reverse, it finally became obvious that the augury apparatus was mistaking

CASSANDRA SAID all crystal balls being recalled should be back in service well before the Democratic National Convention next month.

"We are confident that once these structural defects have been corrected, political soothsayers will again perform with a high degree of prophetic reliability," he told a press conference.

Dick West

"Any political analyst equipped with either our Sibyl Six or Delphi 800 should be able to clearly foresee the outcome of the November election."

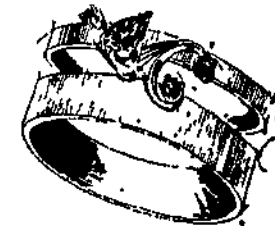

Immediately after the recall was announced, however, there was a heavy run on Ouija boards. Many pundits apparently are convinced that the 1972 Crystal Ball is a lemon.

THIS WAS HOW it looked Monday under the big top tent canvas as it was blown off Monday night, part of the Circus Internationale in Mount Prospect. The clown antics are the same now, but there is no more daily through Sunday.

'The Show Must Go On'

Circus Overcomes Weather

by TOM VON MALDER

Seldom has the old adage "the show must go on" had such a severe test as it has this week with the Circus Internationale.

When L. N. Fleckles brought his circus to a field near Golf and Elmhurst roads in Mount Prospect for a 10-day run, little did he guess the show was in for the worst week of weather the area has had in months.

The show went on Monday afternoon despite very hot, humid weather, but it had to be cancelled that night when the big top was blown down and knee-high water was deposited by rain an hour before show time.

The tent canvas was ruined and will take months to repair, so the remainder of the performances are being held in the open air. The first such was Tuesday night when it rained again. And last night, tempera ureds were expected to go into the air.

"The band couldn't play (Tuesday night) because of the rain, so we had to use just the organ," Fleckles said. "But the people were there. They brought blankets and umbrellas and enjoyed the show."

THE ONLY BONUS losing the tent canvas has brought about is the addition by Fleckles of two additional acts, both aerial performances that did not have enough room under the big top.

The circus performers took Monday night's calamity in stride. No one was injured, so it was just a question of cleaning up.

"The performers and everybody pitched in to help out," Fleckles said. "Some of the women were up to their knees in water as they worked to move lighting poles."

Circus performers are in the business because they like it; they live circus. For most of them they have been in the business "All my life."

Fay Alexander has a comedy act, Al's Limousine, in the current show. He also does a high wire act, but at least through Monday was not performing on the wire here because of the tent.

Alexander, dressed in rags and with a bright red plastic nose cap, said he has traveled all over the world with his act. "Everybody likes the act, even the parents because I use an antique, a Model T Ford."

OVER THE YEARS, Alexander said he has seen the circus change, mostly for the better. "There are not as many tent circuses like this one. Mostly we play in ball parks or field houses. But business is better."

In some ways it is a hard life, with traveling all the time and working all year round except for about six weeks at Christmas time.

"We don't get paid like your television acts either," Alexander said. He uses agents to secure work but has no exclusive agent. Recently, he got an offer to work four weeks in Hong Kong after the first of the year. In a case like this, the employer pays the fare for Alexander and his Ford.

Another act is "Victor Julian and His Little Stars" who happen to be dogs. Julian too has been a performer all his life. He has a home in New Jersey but is seldom there.

He specially breeds his dogs for the act and practices when they whenever he can. "It is always something new. When the Russians put their first dog in orbit, I had one of mine perform on a sphere."

These two, like most of the performers, live in mobile campers and trailer homes that are set up behind the tent area. Their life is different from most people's but they wouldn't have it any other way.

Await Decision On Nixon Visit

Nobody is sure yet whether President Richard Nixon will attend the National Student Council Convention in Arlington Heights, to be held next week Monday through Thursday.

The White House will not confirm or deny Nixon's attendance until noon on Sunday. If he is not able to make the convention, presidential adviser and aide Robert Finch will address the group.

Nixon is scheduled to address the approximately 750 student council members and their adult advisers at 11 a.m. Monday at Forest View High School.

The delegates are coming from high schools in nearly every state.

School officials and students reported members of the U.S. Secret Service have made several unannounced visits to the school to check security. The check is a routine measure taken to protect the President's safety.

"SINCE THE Wallace incident, Washington doesn't like to announce too far in advance where the President is going to be," said conference chairman Burton Showers, director of student activities at Forest View High School.

"This is the first time any top level national leaders are expected at the conference," he added. The conference is their 36th annual meeting.

The adult advisers will stay at the Arlington Towers Hotel, and the student council members will room in local homes. These students are representatives from some of the 30,000 student councils across the nation.

This year's conference theme is "Youth in Action." The talk given by President Nixon or Finch will deal with youth's role in federal government. Next Tuesday the delegates will go to McCormick Place, where they will be addressed by Mayor Richard Daley.

On Wednesday, seven representatives from Amoco Chemical, Chemical Industrial Council, Commonwealth Edison, United Air Lines, Union 76 Oil Co., United States Steel, and Weyerhaeuser Company will discuss what they are doing for ecological improvement, and how students can be of help. Among the other topics that will be covered next week are women's rights, the student press, the 18-year-old vote, students' rights and the law, and the American Revolution, 1976.

Construction Shutdown In Offing?

by LEA TONKIN

As contractors and construction workers continue their counterattacks in the current round of contract negotiations, the possibility of a massive Chicago area construction shutdown moves closer to reality.

A limited number of slowdowns and work stoppages by carpenters and cement masons were reported as of late Wednesday in the Northwest suburbs.

However, carpenters announced Wednesday that additional picketing sites may be announced today in the Chicago area. And the Mid-America Regional Bargaining Association (MARBA), announced it may enforce an area wide lockout in retaliation against selective strikes and picketing by the cement masons and carpenters.

Approximately 2,000 of the Carpenters Chicago District Council's 30,000 members were on strike Wednesday, reported George Vest, president. Among the suburban sites selected for strikes was the parking facility at O'Hare International Airport.

Cement Masons Local 502 (Cook County) reported Wednesday that selective picketing continued as negotiations with contractors are in a deadlock. A meeting is slated for this morning to determine additional picketing sites, said a union spokesman.

APPROXIMATELY 800 contractors at a unity rally held Tuesday night in Chicago voted to continue their contract offers to the 2,200 member Cement Masons Local 502 (Cook County) and the Chicago District Council of Carpenters.

At that meeting the contractor group, a conglomerate of 14 area employer organizations warned that the selective strikes could bring a lockout of all the members in these trades throughout the Chicago metropolitan area.

A meeting will be held this afternoon by MARBA executives to decide what action to take in response to the ongoing strikes and picketing. Should a lockout occur nearly 100,000 construction workers would be idled. Approximately $2 1/2 billion in highways, residential, commercial and industrial construction, and other building projects would be halted.

In the meantime, some confusion was reported at Northwest suburban construction sites.

"TO SAY THE least, the situation is almost chaotic," said project foreman Jerry Harker at a Levitt and Sons, Inc., residential construction site in Schaumburg. "We have three subdivisions here, at two of which we have a full force of carpenters working. The other one started with a picket line up this morning."

The picket line disappeared later in the day, but so did some of the men, reported Harker. "We're going with whatever men we've got," Harker said. He noted that the other trades honored the carpenter picket lines at the Sheffield Park project.

At the Huntington Apartments in Mount Prospect, carpenters were on the job yesterday, but said they'll picket if the word comes down from the Chicago District Council.

Construction continued in the residential projects by Centex Winston in Elk Grove Village.

Carpenters stayed on the job site, but cement masons were on strike at the Palatine Junior High construction site as of late Wednesday.

Rolling Meadows sidewalk projects continued on schedule yesterday. However, city superintendent of public works James McFeggan reported a curb replacement program could be halted by cement mason strikes.

SHERMAN DAUTEL, business manager for three Northwest Suburban Carpenters Union locals, said Wednesday that the parking garage project at O'Hare is the major area picketing site. He works for Local 830 in Des Plaines, 1196 in Arlington Heights and 2014 in Barrington.

The major grievance is "working conditions rather than money," said Dautel. Claiming that working conditions "date back to 1912 . . . they want us to work from 1 a.m. to 3 p.m.," Dautel said the carpenters will sue additional construction sites unless grievances are settled.

A lunch break is the cause of Cement Masons and MARBA disagreements. The two groups did agree on a 53-cent-an-hour boost in wages and benefits. This would raise the workers' pay from the present $9.71 an hour to $10.24 an hour. The union has refused to accept a contractor request for flexible lunch hours.
